FOIL ALIEN GANGSTER PLOT

STATE IS FACING AN EMPTY TILL; NO PAY FUNDS

Auditor Warns of a Crisis by April 15.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 13.—[Special]—Prospects that by April 15 Illinois may find its general revenue fund bankrupt and without money to meet state pay rolls moved trepidation tonight among state house officials. State Auditor Oscar Nelson submitted a report that by May 1 the general fund will be in the red with a deficit of $847,000, and that with no money in the bank the outlook is that there will be no pay day April 15 for employés in state offices and code offices.

OSCAR NELSON. [Tribune Photo.]

Gov. Emmerson, holding that Illinois faces a financial emergency, asked Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom for an opinion as to whether the state might issue tax anticipation warrants, as is done in Chicago and Cook county. Such a step has not been taken by the state within the memory of statehouse old timers. It was broached by the governor two months ago as a possible means of obtaining money for current state expenses.

Court Ruling Necessary.

If deemed feasible, it would require a supreme court decision on its constitutionality before purchasers would buy the warrants. Officialdom, faced with a possibility of having to run state departments and bureaus for a time without pay roll funds, spoke today of trying to get an emergency bill through posthaste on the tax anticipation matter, to get it tested in the April term of the Supreme cou

Meanwhile criticism was directed at the state senate by house members for languorous attitude manifested towards the repealer of the state prohibition law, a mandate measure. House liberals talked of tying up appropriations and other measures until the senate takes action on the repeal. The drys during the day claimed they have votes enough to halt a referendum on the repealer. The liberals argue that in view of the several wet and dry referenda already had, backed by the Democratic landslide last November that elected James Hamilton Lewis senator by 744,000 plurality on a dripping wet platform, another referendum is silly.

Explosive atmosphere permeated the statehouse, and criticisms were touched off in the house on the leisurely way in which the senate is laboring and the penchant it is manifesting for holidays and vacations.

784 Bills Are Pending.

With 784 bills now in the hopper no comprehensive approach to revenue reform has been broached so far, although the legislature is just ending its tenth week. Gov. Emmerson has emphasized revenue in two messages.

The governor tonight again termed revenue as "the most essential problem." He reiterated that he is not interfering with the legislature on any measure and is keeping hands off, but he added that unless the legislature does something remedial on revenue it is quite likely to be here all summer in special session.

Auditor Nelson's report that the general revenue fund will be depleted April 15 if the present rate is kept up, caused a furor at the statehouse late today after the legislature had departed for Champaign. The state pay roll is about $1,250,000 a month and salaries are paid twice a month.

"Illinois faces bankruptcy by April 15 so far as the revenue fund is concerned," said Mr. Nelson. "The state will not be in substantial funds by the middle of June. It is due to the fact that 18 millions of tax money is not in from Cook county, due to the tax muddle in Cook.

"The balance in the fund April 1 will be $1,053,000, and the prospective receipts for April are $1,600,000, making $2,653,000 in the fund for April. Estimated expenditures for April are $3,500,000. It would put us in the red $847,000 May 1. It means by April 15 there will be no money for warrants for salaries or other activities paid out of the general fund. The situation is little short of appalling."

DISCLOSES 'ERA OF CORRUPTION' IN PUBLIC WORK

U. S. Attorney Bares Graft Millions.

United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson last night explained to 400 business men at the Hotel La Salle how corruption in public contracts costs the taxpayers of Chicago millions of dollars annually. He cited the records of thirteen contracts let between 1922 and 1928, "the period of greatest corruption in local government," showing the payment of bribes ranging from $15,000 to $300,000.

GEORGE E. Q. JOHNSON.

Mr. Johnson's address was delivered at a dinner meeting under the direction of the Chicago Better Business Bureau, where the relation of crime to business was discussed by several speakers.

He Suggests a Remedy.

After giving figures which he said showed the extent of corruption in the various local taxing agencies, Mr. Johnson suggested a remedy—the creation of a state bureau of audit and control, which would have power to investigate the records of all public contracts. This would put the state authorities in the same position as the federal government with respect to examining these records, he said.

Mr. Johnson requested that no guesses be made as to the identity of the contractors and public officials to whom he referred. He said that only cases in which the statute of limitations precludes prosecution had been selected for his examples. The contracts referred to came under scrutiny of the federal prosecutor in his investigation of the income tax affairs of politicians and contractors.

Chicago's Corrupt Era.

"In my years as United States attorney," Mr. Johnson said, "many of the disheartening details of corrupt contracts have come under my observation. In the history of Chicago the years from 1922 to 1928, inclusive, will be known as the corrupt era. I shall cite some items, taken from actual contracts that have been executed between various subdivisions of local government, so that you may know how serious the situation is.

"To negative any presumption in the matter, let me state that the contracts referred to have nothing to do with the lighting of the north shore boulevard, the cinder path, the whoopee records [of the old sanitary district régime], or any other contracts pertaining to which there has been a great deal of publicity.

"These contracts, to which I am about to call your attention, are among the worst. They are not, however, the only ones. There is a very large number equally vicious, aggregating many millions of dollars. On the other hand, all contracts with local municipalities have not been dishonest. Many appear to be fair and honorable."

Some of Fraudulent Contracts.

Some of the thirteen contracts referred to by Mr. Johnson as "obviously fraudulent," he described as follows:

"Contract No. 1, $811,300; contractor's cost, $596,023.45; profit, $215,176.55. This contractor, as is typical in these cases, had withdrawn large sums of money from the bank in currency and these withdrawals of cash had been arbitrarily charged to the cost.

"There was nothing to support these costs. In this form there was charged to labor, $76,825, and general expense, $91,172.20. These two items were actually no part of the cost of completing the contract. The contractor, then, after disallowing these two items on the amount of his contract, had an actual profit of $382,000 on a contract of $811,200, and what disposition was made by him of the two items of $76,825 and $91,172.20 I leave to you as a matter of conjecture.

$126,000 Profit on $181,000.

"Contract No. 2, $181,000; the cost of completing the contract was $69,448.38; the profit to the contractor was $111,551.62. To this contract had been added an arbitrary charge of $14,491, which made the contractor's real profit $126,000. So that the staggering facts may be realized, let me re-

WAR VETERAN SLAIN; HOLD 2 STORE OWNERS

Eugene Plummer, 35 years old, 2534 West 68th street, a veteran of the world war and the father of three children, was shot and killed early this morning at the rear of the butcher shop of Pius and John Matkus at 6601 South Artesian avenue. The circumstances of the shooting caused Lieut. Stephen O'Mara of the Chicago Lawn police to hold the Matkus brothers for the inquest today.

The Matkuses told the police that they had been awakened in their home above their store by the ringing of a burglar alarm in a poultry shed at the rear. They said they seized pistols and opened fire on the shed.

Plummer's body was found lying in an opening of the fence at the rear of the Matkus shop, several yards from the poultry shed. He had been shot once in the body. His widow, Kathryn, declared that although he had been out of work for several months their circumstances would not have led him into burglary. She said she believed he had been returning from a Legion post meeting and might have been attracted by the shooting.

Mrs. Plummer said she is employed as a stenographer by the Isaak Walton league. Her husband, she said, formerly was employed by the Studebaker corporation. Their children are Amorette Jean, 6 years old; Lesley, 4; and Marilou, 2.

FLEE FALLING MOUNTAIN; TWO TOWNS BURIED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHAMBERY, France, March 13.—[Friday.]—A whole range of hills have loosened from their moorings on the slopes of the high Alps and are sliding down into the fertile valley land of the French Savoy, and no power of man can stop them. In their path lie more than a score of villages, which terrified peasants are evacuating tonight. Two hamlets, Berges and Michaud, have already been blotted off the map, rendering 125 homeless, and the avalanche is moving so fast that it is feared human lives as well as homes may be lost.

Authorities have mustered a corps of troops, gendarmes, and engineers and are struggling with puny weapons of human science to check the onrush of geological destiny. The slides are occurring over virtually the entire face of the Bauges range above here, but the worst one is coming down the extreme western flank of Mont Blanc. It is a Niagara of mud and stone—2,000,000 cubic yards—and it is rolling towards Le Chatelard, a summer resort of some 650 inhabitants about 20 miles from Aix les Bains.

Boy Buried 40 Feet Under Ground as Well Caves In

Duluth, Minn., March 12.—(AP)—Scores of farmers and deputy sheriffs tonight were battling to rescue George Marciniak, 20 year old farm youth, buried in a well 40 feet below the surface of the ground following a cave-in. The rescue workers had been working for more than eight hours, and it was believed the youth had been smothered to death. They had last heard moans from him late today.

Beauty Insists She Shot Mate to Save Self

NICE, France, March 12.—A Cinderella romance that ended in tragedy with a background of jazzy expatriate life and with the gaudy Riviera for a setting was what French police found today while investigating the shooting of Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, wealthy Philadelphia theatrical magnate.

Blonde, blue eyed Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, 26 years old, former beauty queen from St. Louis, who killed her husband in the same room in which their two children were sleeping, put down the whole story in a confession today and insisted she acted in self-defense. Cocktail parties, dreamy waltzes, too attentive gigolos, heavy play at the various gambling casinos and other Azure coast elements were in the drama. But essentially it was one of those May and December affairs.

Were Lavish Entertainers.

Charlotte, daughter of Dr. James Nash from Overland, a St. Louis suburb, was elected "Miss St. Louis" eight years ago. She was sent to Atlantic City to compete for the national title, where she won second place. A middle aged theatrical man fell in love with her and lavished costly gifts upon her, including an engagement ring.

Charlotte broke her engagement with a childhood sweetheart back home in St. Louis and they were married. During the last five years the couple have been moving in the gayest Paris, New York and Riviera circles, entertaining lavishly.

It was the furious jealousy of the elderly husband, who was constantly accusing her of infidelity and making scenes every time she danced with the gilded youths, who haunt the cosmopolitan resorts, Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger's confession says. He was continually threatening to kill her. After a particularly violent quarrel three months ago, she bought a small hammerless revolver, which she always kept under her pillow, according to her story.

"Began to Strangle Me."

The revolver was found lying on the floor of their luxurious five room flat last night, and beside it lay the body of her husband. Charlotte, disheveled, wearing silk pajamas, was sobbing hysterically in a chair. Her version of the killing, which she related to police today, follows:

"My married life has always been desperately unhappy, with my husband continually making accusations against me. Last night after dinner he drank several whiskies and walked into the salon where I was sitting in a chair studying an Italian lesson. He asked me why I was studying Italian. I did not answer and he said sneeringly: 'I guess it's because you have got an Italian gigolo for a lover.' I said that that was untrue and went to bed.

"He went into the kitchen and drank some more whisky and then entered the bedroom and made more accusations, saying he was going to disinherit me in his will. Suddenly he seized me by the throat and began to strangle me. I reached under the pillow and fired twice without looking up.

Empties Her Revolver.

"He let go and recoiled a few steps, but I was so blind with terror that I leaped up from bed, pulling the trigger until the gun was empty. My husband staggered into the salon, collapsing at my door, and I fell on top of him. Then I ran down the stairs in pajamas and woke the concierge, telling her to call the police."

Except for fingermarks on her throat the police were unable to verify Charlotte's story. Authorities state she will be held in jail and tried for murder. Tomorrow the widow will be taken by the police to the apartment to reënact the shooting. She has engaged a lawyer.

Plan Burial in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, March 12.—[Special.]—The body of Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger will be brought to Philadelphia for burial, it was announced today by Samuel F. Nirdlinger of Marion, one of the slain man's two sons by his first marriage. Whether the two children of the Nixon-Nirdlingers, Charlotte Lou, 18 months old, and Frederick, 3 years old, would be sent to this country was not known here.

A Terrible Man in His Anger Is Harold Emler

Harold Emler, residing at 2432 Moffatt street, paused before the Shakespeare avenue police station yesterday and verified his first impression that before him reposed the dwelling of the law.

He repressed a groan and laid a fevered hand against a brow that throbbed with genuine anguish. He readjusted a handkerchief that was bound about his aching head. When he took away his hand he held it before his eyes and gloomily viewed on his fingers some stains of his own life's fluid. He shuddered.

Then Mr. Emler mounted the steps, entered the door, and approached Sergt. Thomas McDonald.

Mr. Emler Makes a Report.

"I want to make a report," he said. And he sighed deeply.

"Name and address," said the sergeant.

Mr. Emler told him. He laid his hand against the pulsating brow again.

"Automobile?" asked the sergeant.

"Robbers," said Mr. Emler. "I was walking at Upton street and Milwaukee avenue. Two men came alongside of me. One of them held me while the other hit me over the head—with a ball bat, I think. I put up a terrible fight. I knocked one of them down and I thought I had killed him. I strike a terrible blow when I am angered."

Mr. Emler paused as if to permit the essence of this modest information to settle. The sergeant wrote briefly.

His Battle All in Vain.

"But," pursued Mr. Emler, "just when I was preparing to hoist another one at the second robber the first one must have come to for he brought that ball bat down over my head."

As Mr. Emler spoke, his preoccupation with his theme and the fact that he stood facing the sergeant made it improbable that he saw the street door open and a woman enter. She took a chair in a quiet and shadowed corner of the room.

"So," continued Mr. Emler, "when I woke up there I was with my head bashed in and I found I had been robbed of $400."

The woman who had been sitting inconspicuously in the corner arose and advanced until now she stood abreast of Mr. Emler.

"Sergeant," said she.

Another Speaker Speaks.

Mr. Emler didn't attempt to repress a groan this time. He permitted it to emerge from the deepest recesses of his soul. And he lifted his foot as if to be off into the street.

"Just a minute," said the woman. Mr. Emler shivered and waited.

"Mr. Officer," said the woman, "I am Mrs. Paul Semrow. I live at 1836 Milwaukee avenue. My daughter Harriet is this man's wife. That makes me his mother-in-law."

The sergeant laid down his pen and Mr. Emler for the third time laid his trembling hand upon his burning brow.

"Well," said Mrs. Semrow, "this man beat his wife this morning and then came over and told me he was going to beat me. I grabbed up a hammer and cracked him."

For the fourth time Mr. Emler laid his hand on his fevered dome. The sergeant gently locked him up.

CAPONE NAMED IN PLAN TO STOP DEPORTATIONS

Find $3,000,000 Ring in Canada.

MONTREAL, Que., March 12.—[Special.]—An alleged $3,000,000 fake naturalization ring, centering in Montreal and having ramifications throughout the dominion, forging papers to prevent the deportation of gangsters from Chicago and other parts of the United States, is under investigation by the Canadian department of justice in cooperation with Chicago federal agents and with George C. Craft of New York, head of the fraud prevention bureau of the National Association of Credit Men.

Disclosing this tonight, Albert Charbot, deputy chief clerk of the Circuit court and naturalization clerk, said that Hugh Guthrie, the minister of justice, had directed a Toronto judge to conduct the inquiry. Already work is under way in Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary, Regina, and Vancouver. But it is being concentrated in Montreal with the aid of Capt. Brodeur of the detective department, and suspicion points to Chicago gang leaders, including Alphonse (Scarface Al) Capone.

Slip Back Into U. S.

Fake naturalization papers are said to be made out in Montreal for gangsters, bootleggers, and alien smugglers, and when the Washington government tries to deport them to Europe these papers are offered as proof that they are Canadian citizens. Consequently the men are deported to Canada, whence, in the course of time, they slip back into the United States.

The ring was uncovered by the recent arrest in Vancouver of Solomon Mermelstein, alias Harry S. Rosen, alias Sam Morrin, of Baltimore, O., sought for five years by the police of both countries on charges of passing worthless checks. When his extradition to Ohio was sought it was found that he had Canadian naturalization papers. Investigation revealed these were spurious.

As a result Mr. Craft of the fraud prevention bureau began the inquiry in Montreal which has led to discovery of the fake naturalization ring and the government's intervention to run it down.

DEMAND DEATH FOR WHITE

Climaxing their campaign against gangsters, state prosecutors today will demand the death penalty for William J. [Three Fingered Jack] White, Capone chieftain, public enemy, and one time convicted police killer, who is on trial before Judge Joseph Sabath of the Criminal court for the murder of a policeman. White's fate is expected to be in the jury's hands by tonight.

The trial of White is the latest breakup of the long immunity that has sheltered Chicago gangdom. It follows the federal campaign which has already rent the criminal fabric and taken significant toll.

Gangsters Feel Teeth of Law.

Frank Nitti, Capone treasurer, is now serving 18 months in Leavenworth prison.

Ralph Capone, brother of "Scarface Al," is under a three year sentence.

Jack Guzik has a five year sentence over his head.

Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, beer barons, have pleaded guilty. All were indicted for income tax violation.

George [Red] Barker, labor racketeer, and James [Fur] Sammons, pals of White, are in Joliet prison.

Drama marked White's trial in the appearance as a witness of a bullet scarred policeman, victim of an attempted assassination, on whose story prosecutors hope to send White to his death. The policeman is Sergt. James E. McBride of Bellwood, White's chief accuser.

McBride Tells His Story.

Called as a witness earlier in the week, McBride told the story of the shooting of Policeman Edward Pfiaume of Forest Park, who was killed in the Mannheim inn Dec. 16, 1923. It was substantially the same story he told in the gangster's first trial in 1926 which resulted in White's conviction and a life sentence, followed by a reversal in the Supreme court. This time, however, McBride appeared in a different guise, that of a living victim of an attempt to remove him as a state witness against White.

No reference was made, however, to the attempt to kill McBride, for which Claude Maddox, gunman and Capone henchman, is now being held. McBride was shot Oct. 26, last year, while riding on a Maywood street car in search of witnesses for the second trial of White, which was ordered

Oct. 13 in the reinstatement of the murder charge.

The effort to kill McBride was laid at the door of White. Since the shooting McBride has been under constant guard. When he entered Judge Sabath's court this week he was protected. When he left, the same bodyguard followed him.

Rule of Gang Guns.

The killing of Pfaume, dating back over five years, covers a period of virtually unmolested reign of the Capone crowd. In this period prosecutors see the rise and fall of the rule of the gun, and White's prosecution is regarded by them as one phase of the end of the gangster régime. The crime was committed before the adoption of the electrocution law, so the death penalty, if imposed, will be by hanging.

Pfaume, McBride, and several other policemen were touring the west suburbs during the winter of 1925 in search of White and others as bank robbers. Their travels took them to the Mannheim inn in River Forest, where, according to Sergt. McBride's testimony in both trials, they met White. McBride's story at the present trial, as he sat on the witness chair, his facial scars from the assassination bullets showing vividly, deviated little from the previous one.

Flash from White's Coat.

"I met Policeman Pfaume and some others and we sighted White," said McBride. "We questioned him about his car on suspicion it was one used in a robbery. We walked White into the dining room to get his coat. As we entered the room White turned quickly, and as he did a flash of fire came from his coast pocket. Pfaume fell, wounded."

McBride fired half a dozen shots, killing James Johnston, ex-convict and companion of White. Evidence given by Johnston's widow was that Johnston did not fire.

This was the crux, Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne admitted, of the state's case. Other evidence bore around it. No one actually pointed out White as the killer of Pfaume, the evidence, it was pointed out, being largely circumstantial. Efforts of defense counsel, which include W. W. O'Brien, Everett Jennings, and W. W. Smith, failed to shake the wounded police sergeant's story.

Gang Pals at Trial.

During his trial, White watched all proceedings with a disengaged look, as though he worried little over the outcome. Many of his hoodlum friends have attended the sessions and on one occasion, when they laughed openly over certain technical difficulties of the state, were reproved and threatened with ejection by Judge Sabath.

White's confidence was shared by his lawyers who, on conclusion of the state's case yesterday, announced they would offer little more than five minutes of defense testimony. The defendant, they said, would not testify.

Prosecutor Ditchburne and the defense counsel agreed to limit their arguments to three hours each side. The state, said Ditchburne, will ask the death penalty.

Conviction Reversed by Court.

White was convicted in the first trial on Dec. 21, 1926. For two years he remained in the county jail while his attorneys sought a new trial before the state Supreme court. The tribunal finally reversed the conviction on the ground that the state had failed to prove that the police had a right to arrest White as a robbery suspect. White went free eventually and enjoyed a free hand in rackets and gang warfare, emphasizing his value to the Capone crowd as an expert gunman.

Last fall, however, the drive on public enemies gained headway under Judge John H. Lyle of the Felony court and Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court. Barker was returned to prison. So was Sammons. Vagrancy warrants were issued. Gangland was frightened for the first time. White finally was seized. A ruling by Judge McGoorty brought a reinstatement of the Pfaume murder charge on Oct. 13. Preparations were made for its trial when, 17 days later, McBride was shot, allegedly by the gangster's friends.

"42 GANG" LEADER HELD TO GRAND JURY IN ASSAULT

Sam Battaglia, leader of the west side gang of youthful hoodlums known as the "42 gang," was held to the grand jury yesterday in $40,000 bonds by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court on charges of assault to kill. The charges grew out of the shooting early New Year's morning in the C. & O. café, 509 North Clark street, in which two policemen were wounded. George Busk, companion of Battaglia in the café, also was held to the grand jury.

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—"You see," former Representative Edward E. Denison of Marion, Ill., looked over at the jury trying him for violation of the national prohibition act. "I thought I'd give those prohibition men a big surprise when they opened that trunk in my office."

A pause; then this rueful reflection:

"But it turned out that I was the one who got the surprise."

And the ex-congressman sat back in the witness chair in Justice Peyton Gordon's district Supreme court this afternoon, having delivered himself of his main defense—that the trunk, which he thought contained dainty dishes, and he says he loves dishes, turned out to be filled with genuine liquor, and he says he hates liquor.

Gallantry Proves Costly.

The switching of trunks, Mr. Denison maintained today, came about because he is a gallant gentleman, and because there was a heavy wind blowing on that cold January morning, 1929, when he landed in New York from Panama.

"It was bitterly cold the morning our boat docked," Mr. Denison explained. "And, of course, I helped the ladies with their luggage. They had just returned from a trip to the tropics and they were thinly clad and nearly freezing to death. So I neglected my own luggage—O, for about an hour—and helped them with theirs. I though my hands and feet would freeze."

His large frame seemed to shiver in the warmish courtroom.

Wind Blows Tags Around.

"When I finally got around to my luggage and that of my nephew I was awfully cold. I just indicated to the expressman what pieces I wanted sent to Washington; what sent to my home in Illinois. No, I didn't put any tags on myself. I was so cold. Yes, the wind was blowing terribly, blowing the tags all around."

It was this congressional chivalry and this riotous wind, Mr. Denison alleges, which caused confusion of trunks and brought to his office an army locker trunk that looked just like the one that he had bought in the government store at Balboa, but "which certainly wasn't the same one."

Sees Trunk on Dock.

After giving orders to the expressman, Mr. Denison recalled that he left immediately for Washington. His nephew, Charles Lane, who had asked his uncle to send his [Lane's] suitcase on to Washington, went back on the boat to show some friends around. Later, walking along the dock, the nephew saw his uncle's army locker trunk and his own suitcase lying on the dock, he says.

"So I realized," Lane testified, "that they hadn't been sent to Washington and so I picked them up and took them with me to a friend's apartment."

Say Dishes Are Broken.

From there, Lane insists, he took them to his home in St. Louis and some weeks later, his father, Charles Lane Sr., and the housemaid broke the lock of the trunk and found the dishes. Only they were all broken and so only the trunk was brought in today as evidence.

Attorney William E. Leahy of the defense counsel sought to bring out that the surprise that his client said he received when the prohibition agents found the whisky and gin was particularly bitter to a dry congressman.

"Now, Mr. Denison," Attorney Leahy wanted to know, "did you ever instruct any one to pack a trunk full of liquor down in Panama and have it shipped to the United States?"

"O, no, sir!" replied Denison. "I have no use for it."

"You mean," the lawyer continued, "that you don't use liquor?"

"No, sir."

PENNSY BEGINS ON $175,000,000 ELECTRIFYING JOB

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—The Pennsylvania railroad is placing orders for 240 electric locomotives to be used in its $175,000,000 electrification program between New York and Washington, it was reported today. It is understood that the contracts, amounting to roughly $25,000,000, will be divided equally between the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and the General Electric company.

In addition, approximately 150,000 tons of steel and more than 60,000,000 pounds of copper will be required. Orders for a large part of these supplies have been placed, it is reported, of which that for the steel was divided between the United States Steel corporation and the Bethlehem Steel corporation.

With good weather approaching, work on the electrification project is expected to be speeded.

CITY SPLIT OVER RAIDS ON HOMES IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., March 12.—[Special.]—Public Safety Director Schofield was booed and jeered by a crowd of several hundred persons this afternoon at a disorderly session of the city council public safety committee, which heard denunciations and defenses of the police policy of raiding private homes in quests for liquor.

Backed by the opinion of the city solicitor's office that he has full legal justification, Director Schofield vigorously defended his policy in a long, bitter duel with Councilman William W. Roper, former Princeton football coach, and Charles B. Hall, chief of the Vare "war board." The meeting bristled with barbed personalities, insinuations, outspoken charges and the waving of fists.

After almost three hours of this the meeting adjourned without taking any action. Director Schofield agreed to "consider" a suggestion that he issue written orders specifically defining the conditions under which the police may raid homes for liquor.

The gallery, in which were men and women whose homes had been entered by police raiders, hurled catcalls at Schofield on every point at issue except one. The exception was his statement that within the law he could see no distinction between the Manufacturers' club and a Kensington speakeasy. His hearers applauded him to the echo on his declaration that the law cannot be enforced to the detriment of one group and the immunity of another. Director Schofield personally had led the raid on the Manufacturers' club, of which he was a member.

During the verbal battle Assistant Solicitor Edwin Lowengrud shook his first under Councilman Roper's nose and demanded that the latter apologise for a statement that "this spectacle of the city solicitor's office backing up the police is one of the most disgusting spectacles I have ever seen on the floor of the council."

Two householders told the council committee of police raids on their homes. Mrs. Thomas F. Kane of West Philadelphia declared raiders had shoved her against a hot stove and then left her, without finding liquor in the private home she had occupied for forty years.

"I wouldn't worry, Mrs. Kane," Councilman Hall said. "Those crazy antics make every one of us unsafe."

Mr. Hall suggested that a committee of lawyers be organized to defend such citizens against the illegal acts of police and Mr. Roper said he already had proposed such a volunteer legal vigilante committee to some "young lawyers of this city," who had received it enthusiastically.

HERE'S A HAIR CURLING STORY ABOUT A ROBBER

The same Mr. Turner who had been in the Murray Permanent Wave shop at 3166 Lincoln avenue to make an appointment for his sister was back again last evening to meet her there. His sister, he said, was a little late for her 7 p. m. date with the waving machine, but would come a little later.

Mr. Turner was a pleasant young fellow and Misses Margaret Shepherd and Margaret Owen, who were giving a nonbreakable curl to the hair of Mrs. A. Shornden of 2142 Addison street at the time, suggested that he sit down and wait. Mr. Turner complied.

After all the intricacies of the wires and clips that bound Mrs. Shornden to the waver were explained to him, Miss Shepherd remarked that his sister was late.

"Yes," said Mr. Turner. "I can't wait any longer."

He drew a pistol and after remarking that Mrs. Shornden was helpless enough already to suit him, commanded the operators to lie down in a corner. When they obeyed he ran out with $32 from the cash register.

WHY DO THEY?

For the last eight years more people have crossed the Atlantic on Cunard ships than on any other line or group of lines.

From a sound dollars-and-cents viewpoint alone Cunard has always been a "good buy" but this overwhelming preference for Cunard cannot be measured in terms of money only.

The distinction, atmosphere and perfection of Cunard service have all played their part, coupled with the all-important convenience of an almost daily service ... 123 sailings to Europe from New York, Boston and Montreal between April 1 and August 16. Everyone aboard a Cunarder ... officers crew, stewards and stewardesses ... speaks English.

Not content with past achievements, Cunard announces the building of the new super-Cunarder that will write a brilliant new chapter in the history of trans-Atlantic travel.

GOTHAM GRAFT BATTLERS SEEK TO OUST MAYOR

Clamor for City Inquiry Grows Apace.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Father Knickerbocker's temper began to mount today and there was a cry to "turn the rascals out," as civic leaders, clergymen, churchmen, and citizens in general united to rescue the city from a rising tide of scandal in its governmental affairs.

A crime fighting committee modeled after Chicago's "Secret Six" tonight was in the process of formation and a flood of petitions addressed to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt demanding a citywide, nonpartisan investigation of New York city's government from top to bottom reflected the sweeping wave of indignation at Tammany. Removal of Mayor James J. Walker and "others in his office" will be asked and formal charges filed with the governor within two days, it was revealed.

Several Members Selected.

The New York "Secret Six" is being formed by the Board of Trade and will be a "nonconflicting organization," according to W. J. L. Bonham, president of the board. Several of its members have been selected and have signified their acceptance. Mr. Bonham and his aids have been in communication with Col. Isham Randolph, head of the Chicago organization, and have obtained valuable ideas from him, it was said.

"The Board of Trade is asking a small group of prominent business men to associate themselves with this secret committee," Mr. Bonham said. "Their names will not be announced at the present. The board is aiming at a permanent betterment and is setting up machinery for the task of ridding the city, as completely as possible, of crime now infesting it."

Churches Issue Ultimatum.

A flat ultimatum declaring that such conditions can no longer be tolerated" was issued late today by a subcommittee of the Greater New York Federation of Churches, which represents 1,100 churches and 475,000 members.

It was contained in a resolution, adopted without a dissenting vote, which called for "a thorough, nonpartisan city-wide investigation that shall reveal both the innocent and the guilty."

The same demand, in more specific form, was contained in an announcement from the city affairs committee that formal charges against Mayor Walker, asking his removal from office, will be filed with Gov. Roosevelt within two or three days.

Socialists Want Inquiry.

It was echoed, also, in the demand from the public affairs committee of the Socialist party for a thorough investigation of the Walker administration by the Democratic, Republican, and Socialist parties.

And there was a promise of the fulfillment of the demands in the information that the legislative resolution calling for a sweeping investigation of the city, which was once defeated in Albany, will be brought before the state senate again, probably the first of next week.

The Greater New York Federation of Churches went on record at a meeting held at its headquarters. The resolution called attention to the "multiplied charges of crimes which have gone unpunished, of graft and bribery and of widespread civic corruption."

Seek Permanent Cure.

It requested that a study be made, with the idea of finding a permanent cure. It called upon the clergy to enlist their congregations in the movement. It contained an appeal to every individual citizen.

The charges against Mayor Walker, which are being drawn up by the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, chairman of the city affairs committee; Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, and a corps of attorneys, are said to be similar to those the City club filed against District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain, thereby causing the governor to appoint Referee Samuel Seabury to investigate his conduct.

Like the proceedings against Mr. Crain, the charges against Mayor Walker will call for action under a section of the public law which empowers the governor to investigate formal charges against elected officers and to remove them and name successors if he finds the accusations justified.

Quick Action Promised.

"The work will go forward with all possible dispatch," Dr. Holmes declared. "The charges will be thoroughly verified and approved by lawyers before they are forwarded to the governor. This agitation will not end until it has been carried to the officers, where ultimate responsibility for existing conditions lies."

All this activity, however, according to the news that came over the telegraph wires, had not disturbed the poise of the absentee mayor. His progress across the continent was punctuated by a series of the wisecracks with which he has met difficult situations.

The first news that there was a strong probability that he might be investigated was greeted with:

"If they want me, they can find me in the desert."

Later, when the train paused at Dallas, Tex., and Mayor Walker was shown a copy of one of the petitions forwarded to the governor, he pointed out a passage referring to his flippancy.

"If laughing is a crime," he asserted, "then I am a criminal, and I shall keep on being one."

He paused.

"Yes," he continued, "I am a laugher; we need more laughers."

He returned the dispatch to reporters.

"Take it away. These investigations are epidemic."

It was reported in Albany this afternoon that the governor will order an investigation of Mayor Walker's administration if definite charges are made by a responsible organization.

Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder yesterday received flowers and congratulations from his friends in honor of his 55th birthday. He has been postmaster of Chicago for nine years. In the afternoon Mr. Lueder was the guest of the branch executives of the postal system at the Palmer house, where plans for adjusting the department on a forty-four hour week basis were discussed. The forty-four hour week, authorized recently by act of congress, will go into effect on July 1.

Ship Cuban Prisoners to Island; Fear Jail Break

HAVANA, March 12.—(AP)—A fleet of army trucks rolled up to the Principe fortress just before dawn today and every political prisoner in the old stronghold was taken out secretly, loaded into a ship, and moved to the prison on the Isle of Pipes. The action was taken, it was said, after discovery of a plot for a jail delivery. It is believed that more than 200 men were sent to the island prison.

WOODCOCK SET FOR A NEW TEST TO DRY UP U. S.

Hires 500 More Agents; Autos Cost $50,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—That "further trial of prohibition," suggested by the Wickersham commission, is now scheduled to get under way in July.

AMOS W. WOODCOCK.

Amos W. Woodcock, director of prohibition, announced today that a maximum effort to enforce the law will begin in July. By July 15, the enforcement chief said, the 500 new agents appropriated for by the last congress, will be trained for duty and plans completed for obtaining the greatest possible efficiency and the best results out of the new enforcement machine set up under his administration.

New Schools for Agents.

In preparation for the forthcoming campaign, Director Woodcock has outlined a national enforcement program and directed all administrators to prepare individual plans for enforcement in their own districts. Instructors have been ordered to Washington for "refresher courses" and special training will be given the 500 new agents. In addition, $50,000 is to be expended on shiny, new automobiles and another $50,000 on an intelligent unit, whose mission will be to ferret out the source of illicit liquor and the plans of the bootlegging forces.

By launching the Woodcock campaign this summer under a full head of steam the further test of the eighteenth amendment's enforcibility will have had a year's trial by the time the Republican and Democratic parties convene their national conventions in 1932.

An Intelligent Attempt.

In the belief that the results of his efforts may have an important bearing on the prohibition stand taken by the major parties in 1932, Director Woodcock is taking extra efforts to prepare his administrators thoroughly for what he terms "an intelligent attempt to enforce the law."

"I have asked each administrator to forward to Washington definite enforcement plans for his district," Mr. Woodcock said in outlining his future plan of campaign. "I do not want administrators merely to enforce in a haphazard sort of way. I want an intelligent campaign to enforce the law and each administrator must send his plan to Washington for approval before the new agents are assigned to active duty in July.

"One hundred fifty of the new agents authorized by congress will be prepared for work by July 1. The other 350 will be given a two weeks course and sent out to the various administrative districts. By July 15 the effort of the organization under my direction should be in full swing."

As announced previously, eighty of the new agents will go to the seventh district, with headquarters at Chicago. The total number of agents in that district will then be 184. A total of 339 agents will be assigned to the New York district, only slightly larger so far as population goes than the Chicago district.

Director Woodcock was somewhat puzzled today by the fact that the results achieved during February had not been quite up to expectations. He said, however, that he believed better results were being obtained in the campaign against stills.

ELECTION BOARD HEARS PETITIONS TO TRIM BALLOT

6 Minor Candidates for Mayor Under Fire.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Whether Chicago voters are to struggle with another "blanket ballot" in the mayoralty election on April 7 may be determined today by the board of election commissioners.

Sitting as a contest board, the commission is to consider objections to the candidacies of five nominees for mayor, six for city clerk, six for city treasurer, and six for Municipal judge. With one exception they are classified as nominations only by the right conveyed through the filing of certificates of the results of so-called caucuses.

If all of these candidacies are allowed to stand there will be nine columns on the ballot in addition to the Democratic and Republican columns, a total of eleven columns, which would produce another ballot difficult for the voter to handle. Ballots of this size increase materially the cost of an election.

Major Parties Preparing.

The major party organizations have not authorized action against these "self-starters" as they are known, but both organizations are watching the proceedings with interest while they are preparing to open their campaigns next week.

Mayor Thompson spoke at noon before the Interfraternity club at the Hotel La Salle, attacking his Democratic opponent, A. J. Cermak; but this was an unexpected opening of hostilities and the two big camps now are busier shaping up their own lines than in going after the opposition.

Cermak, when asked what he had to say about Thompson's opening attack on him, called attention to the formal statement he has made twice since the primary, that he will not discuss anything but the issues during the campaign.

Object to "Self-Starters."

The objections to the certificates of the "self-starters" were filed by Attorney John F. Tyrrell and Attorney Cornelius J. Harrington, election law experts, who frequently represent the Republican and Democratic committees, respectively; but in this instance, they state, they are acting for individuals and not for the organizations.

The six candidacies for mayor under fire are those of the following: John M. Collins, Socialist; Ernest Stout, American National; John Maynard Harlan, People's Rights; Charles J. Michal, Anti-Chain Store, and Otto H. Wangerin, Communist.

The general form of the objections in all the cases is similar, alleging legal shortcomings in many respects, but belated attention was centered on the candidacy of John Maynard Harlan, who ran for mayor as an independent candidate about 25 years ago, and for several years has made his headquarters in New York.

Concerning Harlan Candidacy.

This attitude was due to the fact that Harlan visited the board rooms before the last day for withdrawal and, according to employés there, indicated his intention to take down his name, which, he said, had been filed without his knowledge or consent. Since that time he has indicated a desire to keep it on the ballot. His only Chicago activity in recent years has been as the spokesman for easterners who proposed to build a subway system here.

Examination of the Harlan certificate showed that it was signed by James R. Howe, 5200 Sheridan road, as chairman, and by William E. Casperson, 3540 North Lowell avenue, as secretary of a meeting said to have been held in room 1674 of the Hotel Sherman. Neither of these names appears in the telephone book. And neither is known politically by either Democrats or Republicans. The certificate did not include any statement as to whether more than those two attended the meeting.

Stout a Former Radical.

Ernest Stout, the only other man in the mayoralty list whose name has attracted attention, has filed under this certificate plan three times. He is a lawyer and is known as a former radical Socialist. Heretofore his name on the ballot has attracted only a handful of votes, getting slightly more than 2 per cent for Superior judge on Feb. 24 because the Democrats had no candidate against the Republican, Judge Harry A. Lewis.

In addition to filing a certificate for its ticket, the Communist party filed a petition bearing 20,000 purported signatures. This petition also is attacked.

Bernard Kenderski, filed for the Municipal court on the "People's Nonpartisan" ticket, appeared at the board rooms yesterday, said he was an employé of the west park board, had never opened a law book and did not know his name was filed until a few hours earlier.

President's Proposed Itinerary

White House reports tell of plans for an extended vacation this summer for President Hoover. The map shows the distance he may travel and the localities he may visit.

HOOVER PLANS LONG VACATION THIS SUMMER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—The White House atmosphere was alive with reports today that President Hoover is planning to take an extended vacation this summer. While no definite plans have been announced, White House attachés expressed the opinion that the President and Mrs. Hoover will leave Washington some time in June, with their home at Palo Alto, Cal., as their ultimate goal.

Indications also were that the President will take the trip through the western national parks, which he planned for last summer, but later canceled.

The only definite plan for a trip made thus far comes in June, when the President has promised to dedicate the President Harding memorial at Marion, O., an assignment that both Mr. Hoover and former President Calvin Coolidge failed to warm up to on several occasions in the past.

Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.], Republican national committee chairman, has invited the President to attend what is heralded as the final encampment at Columbus, O., of the Potomac encampment of Grand Army of the Republic. Another invitation would take him to Indianapolis to address the Indiana State Editors' association.

It is considered possible that President Hoover will go to Springfield some time during the summer to dedicate the reconstructed Lincoln tomb.

White House officials have advised the President to accept a number of the speaking invitations even should he feel disinclined to spend any considerable portion of the summer away from Washington. If the President accepts this advice, considerable political significance would be attached to his movements inasmuch as discussion of potential presidential candidates in the 1932 elections already is under way.

ALDERMEN KEEP FIFTY WARD PLAN IN REDISTRICTING

In equalizing the populations of the city's fifty wards by changing the present boundary lines the council subcommittee on redistricting will cling to the fifty ward plan, Ald. James B. Bowler [35th], subcommittee chairman, declared yesterday.

"I believe that a good job can be done using the present number of wards as a basis," said Ald. Bowler. "A better job might be done through increasing the number of wards to fifty-three or fifty-five, but as that calls for a referendum we are working on a plan for fifty wards only."

It was indicated that if any efforts are made to increase the number of wards they will meet with strenuous opposition from civic organizations.

"It would be a step backwards," said Shelby Singleton, secretary of the Citizens' association. "Chicago once had seventy aldermen and the change to the smaller number was made because a smaller council is less unwieldy and responsibility can be fixed. The council should be smaller instead of larger."

A bill is pending in Springfield to add ten wards, making a total of sixty. Ald. Bowler said that he does not believe that the council is behind the bill or for an amendment cutting down the proposed additions to three or five.

An increase in the wards would result, according to officials of civic organizations, to a perpetuation of the small wards, many of which are political strongholds. Any remapping scheme, they said, should eliminate the "pocket" wards and equalize the city's population among all fifty wards.

Daisy De Boe Is Denied Bail in New Trial Plea

San Francisco, Cal., March 12.—(AP)—The State Supreme court today denied the request of Daisy De Boe, former secretary to Clara Bow, screen actress, that bail be set for her pending her application for a new trial for grand theft. Miss De Boe must remain in the Los Angeles county jail while the courts decide whether she was entitled to a new trial.

THOMPSON ASKS PROBE ON POLICE PROMOTION LIST

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock was requested yesterday by Mayor Thompson to make a survey of the civil service list for sergeants, which was posted this week, and report his opinion of how it will affect the efficiency of the police department. Thompson said he had received complaints about the list.

Copies of the letter to Alcock were given out from Thompson's office after Alcock had been there in consultation with Thompson. Alcock appeared surprised when he was shown a copy of the letter addressed to him. He said that he would make the survey.

The examination for the position of sergeant was taken last October by more than 1,800 patrolmen, of whom only 478, or 26 per cent, received a passing grade. Complaints have been heard from policemen who didn't pass but who had been assured by their political connections that they would.

LEA, CALDWELL SURRENDER AND GIVE $15,000 BOND

Nashville, Tenn., March 12.—(AP)—Evading newsmen and photographers who had awaited their appearance at the federal building since early this morning, Col. Luke Lea, Nashville publisher, and Rogers Caldwell, financier, surrendered tonight and made bonds of $15,000 each on charges of violating federal banking laws.

Two true bills returned by a federal grand jury at Greenville Saturday charged them and J. Basil Ramsey, president of the closed Holston Union National bank of Knoxville, with conspiring to violate the national banking laws and with violating them in connection with transactions of the bank.

Ramsey made $25,000 bond in Knoxville several days ago.

CERMAK POLLS 2 TO 1 LEAD IN 5 SO. SIDE WARDS

G.O.P. Area Shows Strong Anti-Thompson Trend.

Pre-Campaign Poll

Candidates—	Prev. vote.	Yest. vote.	Totals. to date.	Pct. to date.
Cermak [D]..	2,721	1,363	4,084	57.57
Thom'n [R]..	2,537	593	2,930	41.30
Stout [A]...	50	30	80	1.13
Total	5,108	1,986	7,094	100.00

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Anton J. Cermak, Democratic candidate for mayor, continued yesterday to increase his lead over Mayor Thompson in THE TRIBUNE straw vote. In fact, yesterday's poll indicated unprecedented strength for a Democratic mayoralty candidate in the territory canvassed.

The results were so striking that the area was polled a second time to be certain no avoidable error had been made in the first canvass. The second poll gave Cermak a larger advantage than the first—and there was only three days' interval between the two polls.

The Territory Polled.

The territory canvassed comprises the Ninth and Tenth wards, in which South Chicago, the east side, Hegewisch, South Deering, Pullman, West Pullman, and Roseland are situated; and the 17th, 18th and 19th wards in the southwest section of the city. The results by street corners canvassed follow:

Candidates.	Party.	Votes.	Per Cent.
Cermak	[Dem.]	1,363	68.63
Thompson	[Rep.]	593	29.86
Stout	[A. Nat.]	30	1.51
Total		1,986	100.00

These five wards, in national politics, are in the Republican column when taken as a unit. President Hoover in 1928 received 55.68 per cent of the votes cast. United States Senator Glenn, at the same time, won these wards away from Anton J. Cermak, the present Democratic mayoralty candidate, when the latter was an aspirant for senator.

Vote in Senatorial Contest.

In the five wards combined there are approximately 140,000 active voters. From these Senator Glenn obtained 72,524 votes and Cermak 66,641. Glenn received 52 per cent of the votes and Cermak 47 per cent. In the present poll for mayor, Cermak is credited with more than 68 per cent.

Thompson, in 1927, when he won the mayoralty by a plurality of 83,038 votes in the entire city, polled 47.96 per cent of the votes in these same five wards. That is comparable with his 29.86 per cent in the present poll.

It seems strange that there should be such an overwhelming trend to Cermak in Republican territory. Assuming that the poll represents public sentiment at present, two explanations are offered for the results of the straw vote to date.

Angered at Tax Increases.

The property owners in the southwest section are angry over their tax bills. The reassessment of all real estate in Cook county brought about a large increase in assessments on virtually all property of Calumet township which lies within the city. One of the prominent communities in that affected area is Beverly Hills. A story is being told in the south west section by Cermak followers to the effect that proper tax adjustments will be made, which apparently the residents of that area have interpreted to mean that their taxes will be reduced.

The other explanation of the strong anti-Thompson sentiment in Pullman, the East Side, South Chicago, West Pullman, and Roseland is the business depression. These communities are inhabited mostly by working people, and there is not so much work now. In these communities, Cermak agents are said to have passed the word along that there will be more public improvements if Cermak is elected than if Thompson is retained.

Figures on Straw Votes.

The street intersections polled in yesterday's straw vote and the distribution of votes for each candidate at each location, are shown in the following table:

Ward.	Location.	Cermak.	Thompson.	Stout.	Tl.
9	95th-Grove-115th.	137	40	0	177
9	95th-Grove-111th.	148	46	2	196
10	Ewing-100th	49	28	1	78
10	Commercial-92d ..	125	45	2	172
17	Wentworth-63d ...	83	65	6	154
17	Stewart-63d	90	76	4	100
17	Wentworth-63d ...	90	41	9	140
18	Western-71st	82	17	1	*80
18	Western-71st	58	40	4	102
18	Halsted-71st	78	35	2	115
19	Beverly-95th	181	20	0	210
19	Stewart	60	13	1	83
19	Halsted-79th	131	65	1	197
19	95th-Beverly	123	53	6	182
Totals		1,363	593	30	1,986
Per cent		68.63	29.86	1.51	100

The west side, where Thompson claims to have thousands of friends among the Democrats, will receive the attention of the straw vote takers next. If he is as strong on the west side as he has been there heretofore, Cermak's lead in the straw vote will be materially decreased.

It is now planned to complete a canvass of the entire west side in the next two days, and the results will be printed immediately. When that task is completed, THE TRIBUNE will have collected between 11,500 and 13,500 straw votes.

$1,200,000 YEAR SALARY RECEIVED BY TOBACCO CHIEF

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—George H. Hill, president of the American Tobacco company, has joined the ranks of the country's "million-dollar-a-year executives," along with Eugene G. Grace of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, it was revealed in the company's "Employes' Stock Subscription Plan for 1931," issued today.

The report indicates that Mr. Hill received stock valued at $1,200,000 in addition to cash remuneration for 1930, a year in which the company established a new all-time record in profits.

The amount of cash paid to Mr. Hill as president during the year was not revealed.

DOAK REPORTS UPWARD TREND IN EMPLOYMENT

U. S. to Spend $500,000 to Find More Jobs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—Indications of what he termed a general upward trend in industrial employment were reported to President Hoover today by Secretary of Labor William N. Doak.

Expand Employment Service.

According to the secretary, bureau of labor statistics for February, indicate that the manufacturing industries will show a net employment gain of 1.4 per cent this month over last. The volume of pay rolls, he said, will show an increase of 7.5 per cent in February over January, he added.

The labor secretary's encouraging report was made known shortly before President Hoover announced plans for expanding the activities of the United States employment service in the department of labor and the appointment of John R. Alpine of New York as special assistant to the secretary of labor in charge of the employment service. Steps will be taken, the President said, to expend the emergency appropriation of $500,000 voted at the short session for extending the federal employment service.

Secretary Doak said his figures were based upon a comparison of 13,377 identical manufacturing establishments employing in February, 2,772,219 workers having a weekly pay roll in February of $66,567,283.

According to an announcement given out by President Hoover, Secretary Doak and Mr. Alpine will direct their efforts toward perfecting the existing employment setup and devising a sound basis for further extension of government employment services.

President Outlines Plans.

"It is proposed by Secretary Doak and Mr. Alpine to add at once several divisions to the federal employment service," the President said. "These divisions will cover mining, building, metal trades, transportation, needle trades, textiles, office and mercantile, seamen, and longshoremen.

"In addition to the extension of the federal employment service in these directions, which are interstate in character, and which will be set up in coöperation with the existing public agencies, it is proposed that an extensive study of the whole question of free public employment agencies shall be made both in the United States and abroad. Special examination will be made of the system needed for placement to meet the so-called technological unemployment—the whole with a view to devising a sound basis for the extension of employment services."

Mr. Alpine formerly was international president of the United States Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters. At one time he served as acting president of the American Federation of Labor.

Kills His Wife's Caller; Jury Refuses to Indict

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—A grand jury today refused to indict Hurtha I. Dulaney, 34 years old street car operator, for killing a man he found with Mrs. Dulaney, the mother of his four children.

Dulaney returned home Monday night and through a window saw William L. Huff with Mrs. Dulaney. After calling a policeman and stationing him at the back door Dulaney entered the front. As Huff sought to run Dulaney obtained a revolver and shot Huff three times, killing him.

Dulaney based his defense upon the unwritten law.

Jack Granes, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba.

Using an electric light cord, Herbert Vetter, 31 years old, strangled his wife, Ruth, 30 years old, to death in their home at 1124 Roscoe street yesterday, ending a quarrel over his unemployment in which he said she lunged at him with a butcher knife. Vetter summoned the police after the tragedy and when they arrived they found Mrs. Vetter's body on a bed and Vetter in the living room with three little children. Three other children were at school at the time of the slaying. According to Vetter's story, he had been employed as a wire salesman until four months ago and had since been unable to procure work. During the last three weeks, he said, his wife nagged him continually over his inability to find a job.

U. S. RAID PILES UP TROUBLE FOR RALPH CAPONE

BULLETIN.

Dry agents under Roy M. Budd with Deputy United States Marshals Joseph Spizziri and Gerald O'Neil, early this morning raided the Cotton club in Cicero for the second time within 24 hours. They found the place closed and not even a caretaker present.

(Picture on back page.)

Ralph Capone, public enemy, who already is under federal sentence of three years for income tax evasion and is to be tried in May on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, face more trouble with the government as the result of a raid early yesterday on his Cotton club, 5342 West 22d street, Cicero.

RALPH CAPONE.

Assistant United States Attorney Lyman Sherwood said he would ask a contempt of court citation for Capone on charges of violating a temporary dry law injunction against the Cotton club. The federal agents found a pint of whisky in a safe opened with acetylene torches and took several bottles of gin from guest tables. If Capone is prosecuted on the contempt charge, he may receive a six month jail sentence, as did his brother, Al.

Assistant United States District Attorney Victor La Rue, who is handling the conspiracy case growing out of a raid on the Cotton club nearly a year ago, said it would come up for trial early in May. If Capone is convicted on this charge he may be sentenced to as much as two years in Leavenworth penitentiary.

It was after the raid a year ago that the temporary injunction was issued by Federal Judge Wilkerson against dry law violations at the Cotton club. After the conspiracy case is disposed of, Mr. Sherwood said he will ask that the temporary restraining order be made permanent. The evidence obtained in yesterday's raid will strengthen this case.

Fail to Find Gunman.

The raid was made in the hope of capturing the gunman who assisted Jack Karron, 24 years old, doorman at the club, to disarm Roy M. Budd, a dry agent, and Policeman Dan Coakley ten days ago as they were sitting in an automobile in front of the place. The gunman was not found by the raiders.

In addition to the liquor, however, the federal agents seized an assortment of records from the Cotton club safe, consisting of canceled checks, accounts, I. O. U.'s and a checkbook. These are to be used in the conspiracy trial. Louis H. Spielman, manager of the cabaret, was arrested on charges of maintaining a nuisance.

Seize Michael Allegretti.

A few hours after the raid special prohibition agents and Deputy Marshal Roy Holcomb arrested Mfchael (Bon Bon) Allegretti, former manager of the Cotton club, who has been a fugitive from justice since his indictment with Ralph Capone and several employés of the club on the conspiracy charge last November. Allegretti was seized in his room at the Metropole hotel. A young woman, "Betty Jane," was found in the room with Allegretti.

Allegretti pleaded with the agents not to mention the woman to the newspapers. "My wife is Irish and she will kill me," he said.

"Now, of course, no one is unsophisticated enough to believe that these enormous profits were retained by the contractor."

Mr. Johnson declared that he had no desire to inflame public opinion against public officials. "They are not all alike, thank God!" he said.

For More Light on Contracts.

"What I propose," he went on, taking up his remedy, "is that you and I, as taxpayers, be put in a position where we may know exactly how the public business is done. In this state crimes of this kind can be committed with impunity unless a co-conspirator should confess.

"The state prosecutor has two methods of securing records of contractors and persons dealing with a municipality: First, a search warrant, but the technicalities involved are so great that it makes it impracticable municipality: First, a search warrant, to use. Second, a grand jury subpoena duces tecum. In order to obtain a subpoena duces tecum a petition must be filed disclosing the purpose and the object of the subpoena. The witness sought to be subpoenaed may intervene and object.

"Now, in ordinary cases where men have been dishonest and a subpoena is asked for, the records are put beyond the reach of the court, or, as has happened within my knowledge, the evidence of their crimes has disappeared in the curling smoke of a bonfire.

Outlines Needed Legislation.

"The legislation we need is: To place the state in the same advantageous position as the government with reference to records. It should be a condition that any one contracting with a municipality for the performance of a contract should keep records in a manner prescribed by a controller or a bureau of audit and control."

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, presided at the meeting.

BURGLAR SHOT TO DEATH BY CICERO POLICE

An unidentified man about 25 years old was shot and killed by two Cicero policemen early today after he and a companion attempted to break into the Marcus dry goods store at 5215 West 25th street, Cicero.

Noises made by the burglars in smashing a window were heard by Mrs. Helen Freeman, who lives above the store. She went to the street and told Policemen Gerald Hulbert and George Rodomski. The policemen found the burglars struggling with the window bars and opened fire. One of the pair, believed to have been wounded, escaped. The other was shot through the heart.

Illinois Boy Amazes Mother

"My son's stomach was often upset and he suffered a lot from colds," says Mrs. Frank V. Sheets, 4926 W. Division St., Chicago. "He was feverish and his breath was bad. I found he was constipated.

"My mother used California Fig Syrup with us, so I decided to give my boy some. It surely surprised me to see how quickly it stopped his feverishness, cleared his breath and tongue, regulated his bowels; made him a strong and energetic boy again."

The quick, safe way to cleanse and regulate the bowels of bilious, headachy, constipated children is with California Fig Syrup. Give it at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness or feverishness. Every child loves its rich, fruity flavor and it acts without griping or discomfort. Appetite is increased by its use; digestion is assisted; weak stomach and bowels are given tone and strength.

For fifty years, doctors have endorsed this pure vegetable product. The genuine is always marked by the word California. Look for that when buying or you may get an imitation.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs and colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble, and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(Adv.)

GEN. IRWIN WILL BE BURIED TODAY AT WEST POINT

Army Notables to Attend Military Rites.

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—The funeral of Maj. Gen. George Le Roy Irwin, U. S. A., who died Feb. 19 aboard the Italian liner Virgilio, near Port of Spain, Trinidad, will be held tomorrow afternoon at West Point. Interment will be in the United States Military Academy cemetery, where Gen. Irwin will rest beside his father, Brig. Gen. Bernard John Dowling Irwin, who died in 1917.

Final arrangements for the military services were made here this afternoon by members of the family. The body of Gen. Irwin, which arrived Wednesday aboard the transport St. Mihiel from Colon, has been lying in state in the funeral chapel at the army base in Brooklyn. Military honors was paid the dead general when the body was removed from the transport and will not be repeated tomorrow morning when it is placed aboard a West Shore train for removal to West Point.

Army Escort to Meet Train.

Members of the family from Washington, Chicago, Fort Sill, Okla., and other points will accompany the body on the train.

An escort of soldiers from the regular army detachment on duty at the West Point military reservation will meet the train and march to the chapel just outside the cemetery, where many distinguished soldiers are buried. Services in the chapel will begin at 3:30 p. m. and will be conducted by Dr. Arthur B. Kinsolving, chaplain at the military academy. Interment will follow immediately after services in the chapel.

Gen. Irwin had many friends and a number of army notables will attend the funeral. Among those who are expected to serve as pallbearers will be: Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war; Maj. Gen. Fred W. Sladen; Maj. Gen. Winship; Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the Military academy; Col. Charles P. Echols, a professor at the academy, and Col. Daniel W. Hand.

Served at Verdun.

Gen. Irwin served as a captain during the Spanish-American war. He was an artillery officer in the Philippines, the Canal Zone and in Cuba. In 1917 he commanded the 161st field artillery brigade at Camp Grant. He sailed for France in command of the 41st infantry division and later led the 46th, 2d and 57th field artillery brigades. He served on the Verdun front, the Alsace front, in the Marne-Aisne, Oise-Aisne and Meuse-Argonne offensives. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal, the Legion of Honor, and the Croix de Guerre with palm for distinguished war service.

Members of the family who will be present at the funeral tomorrow include Gen. Irwin's widow, a daughter, Josephine, Irwin, and two sons, Maj. S. Le Roy Irwin of Fort Sill, and John d'Arcy Irwin of Washington; Col. and Mrs. Robert R. McCormick and Dr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Small of Chicago. Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. Small are sisters of Gen. Irwin.

GEN. JADWIN IS BURIED

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—The 15 gun salute of a lieutenant general rolled over Arlington National cemetery today as the army buried with military honors its former chief of engineers, Edgar Jadwin, who ended his career as builder and administrator at Panama City on March 2.

Gen. Pershing was one of a large group of high ranking officers who attended the funeral at the New York Avenue Presbyterian church and followed the body to the cemetery. Secretary and Mrs. Hurley also were present.

COURT DISMISSES DOZEN PROTESTS AGAINST SUBWAY

Thursday Set as Trial Date for Cases.

Another legal milestone in the proceedings preliminary to digging Chicago's subway was reached yesterday when Superior Judge E. M. Mangan held the first of a series of hearings upon the objections of property owners to the subway special assessments.

Fifty of the 287 attorneys representing property owners who object to paying assessments on the $44,000,000 tube, which will extend under State street from Chicago avenue to Roosevelt road, were called into court. Judge Mangan dismissed the objections in 12 out of the 50 cases because the lawyers failed to appear. He set the cases of the remaining 38 for trial on next Thursday.

All Set for Thursday.

Another group of 50 attorneys will be called into court Monday, a third group of 50 on Tuesday, and the others on Wednesday. The cases of each of those answering ready for trial will be set for Thursday.

Gotthard A. Dahlberg, attorney for the board of local improvements, and other lawyers representing the city yesterday offered the city's prima facie case consisting of a sheaf of ordinances, permits, petitions, and estimates bearing upon the subway. The documents were submitted over the objection of Attorney John D. Black, representing the Michigan Central railroad among others. Black objected on the ground that the subway ordinance is void and that railroads should not be called upon to pay for a right of way of a competing interstate railroad. This is based on the contemplated use of the tube by North Shore line trains.

Call Assessments Too High.

Other general objections are to be based on the ground that the special assessments are too high and that more of the cost should be borne by public benefits.

Coincident with the subway cases, Judge Mangan is conducting proceedings on the $3,741,000 State street widening project which will broaden the street between the river and Chicago avenue so that the subway can be laid underneath. Monday has been set as the trial date for the widening cases.

RADICALS DON'T AGREE WELL ON CURING U. S. ILLS

Find Many Theories on How to Do It.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—After adopting resolutions in favor of all the panaceas for the ills of the body politic on which they could agree and leaving the others for further consideration, the two day session of left wing Republicans and Democrats adjourned late this afternoon.

No prescription for the cure of stricken agriculture was forthcoming from the committee on agriculture, headed by Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho]. When the 19 doctors of agriculture, including, in addition to Mr. Borah, Senators Smith W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.], Lynn Frazier [Rep., N. D.], Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], Henrik Shipstead, Farm-Lab., Minn.], Milo Reno of Iowa and William Hirth of Missouri, gathered in consultation on the patient, they found they could not agree on the course of treatment.

A Commission Needed, Maybe.

The senators favored a trial of the export debenture, but numerous other farm specialists violently opposed it. The only thing the committee could agree on was that the problem was too serious to be solved offhand and that it would be necessary to hold a series of conferences with farm experts during the recess of congress to work out a relief program. To this course of action the conference agreed.

There was no report at all from the committee on public utilities of which Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.] was chairman. There was not even a meeting of the committee. The fact was that the doctors in this clinic also were in disagreement on the particular kind of public ownership that should be prescribed.

The resolution on the tariff proposed a revision of the flexible tariff provision, so as to deprive the tariff commission and the President of tariff making powers and to restore to congress complete jurisdiction in the premises.

For Stricter Corrupt Practices Act.

The lengthiest resolution was that setting forth the measures deemed by the radicals essential to a return to representative government. It deplored the large amounts of money expended in primary elections and urged a tightening up of the corrupt practices act and its extension to primaries. It recommended repassage of the anti-lame duck constitutional amendment.

The resolution also called for stern resistance to the movement for a return to caucus and convention nominations and urged a strengthening of direct primary laws. Provision for the appearance of department heads in the house and senate on legislative matters was recommended.

Other proposals were the repeal of the espionage act and restoration of citizenship to persons convicted under it during the war; prohibition of wire tapping by federal investigators; withdrawal from the postoffice department of the power to censor publications; abolishment of the electoral college; extension of presidential primaries; elimination of local, state, and sectional legislation from consideration by congress; abrogation of rules of the house of representatives under which "legislation is controlled by a few."

No Optimism Here.

The resolution on unemployment and industrial stabilization predicted that the business depression is going to become worse and recommended measures for mobilizing unemployment relief by the states and the federal government.

Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.], chairman of the committee that framed the resolution, appointed subcommittees to survey distress and unemployment and formulate measures for dealing therewith.

"It is the sense of this committee," said the report, "that if the facts of this survey reveal the necessity of such action a special session of congress must be demanded to prevent widespread starvation."

While the radicals were spilling more oratory today on what's wrong with the country and what to do about it the lobbies of the meeting in the Carlton hotel were buzzing with speculation on the political significance of the event.

The denunciations of President Hoover as a traitor to the farmers and a tool of the "power trust," taken together with the flat declarations of Senator Norris that no third party will be organized, left no doubt that the radicals are looking hopefully toward the Democratic party as a political haven in the presidential election next year.

Roosevelt Flirts with Group.

In this connection the flirtation which is being carried on by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, with the radicals is attracting widespread attention. The remark was frequently heard in and about the conference room that Gov. Roosevelt, who advocates public ownership and operation of water power plants and other articles of their faith, comes more closely than any other potential presidential candidate to meeting the specifications laid down by the radicals.

What the Roosevelt partisans interpreted as a boost for the New York governor was uttered during the afternoon session by Senator Norris, who supported Al Smith in 1928 ostensibly because of the Democratic candidate's position on the water power issue.

"What this country needs, what this country must have, in order to get progressive legislation in a national sense, is a President of the United States who is himself progressive," thundered Norris.

Wants Another Roosevelt.

"I cast no reflection upon any man who occupies that position; I treat them with perfect respect; but what we do need in order to bring prosperity and happiness to the common individual is another Roosevelt in the White House."

Whether the senator used the name Roosevelt in a generic or a specific sense was not clear, but it evoked a storm of applause. Then the Nebraskan proceeded to put a damper on any optimism his words might have generated.

"Let us not deceive ourselves," he said. "We have but little hope of electing a President of the United States who is progressive."

And though the balance of power in the next congress will be held by the radicals, Mr. Norris was pessimistic.

"Even if we do have a progressive congress, a progressive senate, and a progressive house, do not forget, my friends, that the engineer is still in the White House," said the senator.

ASK HOOVER TO CALL SPECIAL WORLD COURT SESSION IN NOVEMBER

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—A delegation headed by Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, chairman of the national world court committee, today requested President Hoover to call a special session of the senate in November to act on American adherence to the world court.

Gen. O'Ryan said his committee was the mouthpiece for fifty-seven national organizations concerned with the control of war.

The world disarmament conference is to meet on Feb. 2, 1932, he said, and the attitude of the United States might largely determine its success or failure.

Raps Raskob Again.

Mr. Norris said that if there were any purpose in Democratic National Chairman John J. Raskob's recent address to the Democratic National committee, "it was to manacle the Democratic party in carrying it over to the Hoover bandwagon." He thought the "power trust" would endeavor to control both national conventions and might succeed. Yet, he was against formation of a third party. It would be too difficult to organize electorally, in each state. To make third parties easy of formation it would be necessary to abolish the electoral college.

Donald R. Richberg of Chicago presided over the session on public utilities. He gave the utilities both barrels, singling out Samuel Insull of Chicago and Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson for particular attention.

"When we find," he said, "a public utility operator who has a veritable genius for producing millions of private profits out of public business, instead of denouncing him as unworthy of further public trust we are inclined to acclaim him as a public benefactor in whose stocks and bonds we may wisely invest in the reasonable hope of sharing in the glorious success of his racket. I say racket advisedly, living as I do in Chicago. There we have the chief utility owner with his attorney in high office in the city government and occupying the mayor's chair in the absence of the circus performer who is its regular occupant."

Says Public Is Blind.

Mr. Richberg suggested that "the greatest difficulty with the private regulation of public utility corporations in this country has been the blindness of the average citizen to the fundamental fact that the furnishing of public utility service is a public business and that the making of private fortunes out of public business, through any device whatsoever, is a breach of public trust and the betrayal of a sacred obligation."

Senator Robert M. La Follette, in opening the morning session on unemployment and industrial stabilization, made the President his chief target of attack.

"The administration," he said, "lacked either the will or courage to meet this crisis. At first, President Hoover minimized the problem, and, then when facts could no longer be denied, he used the influence of his great office to block the relief measures proposed in congress and insisted that relief be left entirely to 'voluntary assistance.' Nor had the administration made effective preparation to expand its public works in order to provide employment.

Says Relief Is Delayed.

"When congress finally met in December, the administration insisted upon limiting the emergency public program to an amount which could not materially reduce the volume of unemployment. The leadership of both parties was determined to prevent an extra session of congress, with the result that consideration of legislation dealing with unemployment is postponed for nine months."

Mayor Murphy of Detroit, described the suffering of 150,000 people out of work in that city and the relief measures invoked by the municipality. He thought the next fight would be against "whittling away the standards of living" and that if intelligent leadership is not provided to resist such an effort "an inarticulate people will take the situation into their own hands."

During the day Senator Norris made peace overtures to Senator James Watson, Republican leader, with whom he has been engaging in controversy over Watson's list of 14 questions submitted to the radical conference.

Norris said he hoped he had done nothing to affect their friendship, as Watson was "a fine fellow personally."

"There is no reason why little Jimmie should not organize a conference of his own," he said. "There is no reason why he should not take a bundle of straw and go across the river and start a little hell of his own. What he discusses is none of our business."

EX-CHANCELLOR MUELLER LOW; PLAN OPERATION

WHAT a mother is Mrs. Cudahy! Racing yachts with her husband and sons . . . riding . . . playing golf and tennis . . . busy at the Woman's Exchange . . . running the great mansion on North State Parkway as a social center for her active household! She, of all women, knows the importance of the right coffee in hospitality and happy homemaking.

"After all," says Mrs. Cudahy, "men are the real coffee judges, and the masculine side of our house votes thumbs down on any coffee but Manor House. This cheering Manor House flavor tops off every event, from breakfast straight through the day. And I cannot imagine a formal dinner or after-theatre party in our home without the contented atmosphere that comes with Manor House Coffee."

The reason so many of Chicago's distinguished hostesses—who spare no expense to obtain the finest foods the world affords—insist upon McLaughlin's Manor House is because it is the one coffee they can always rely upon.

Tune in WJG-N every Sunday night, 7 to 8 o'clock, for the Manor House Dramatizations of the Grand Operas with stars singing the principal arias

"There's always a houseful of young folks when Billy and Mike are home from school," says this lovable mother whose eyes light up at every mention of her fine young sons. "They come scurrying in at all hours for coffee and sandwiches. And how good Manor House does taste to them! We get away with pounds of it every month; and have, for more years than I remember, I love to serve for the young folks, usually here—" glancing about her library. Cleaveland So Interprets House Measure.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 12.—[Special.]—Director Cleaveland of the state department of public works this afternoon interpreted house bills 269 and 270, pending in committee, as authorizing his department to construct elevated highways within Chicago.

This interpretation has to be read into the bills as they now are drawn. It may be written into the drafts before the bills are reported out of committee.

The bills, which are administration measures, are to enable the state to lay pavements to accommodate state highway traffic into, through, or around municipalities, regardless of population.

How Layman Might Interpret.

A layman might interpret the bills in their present form as specifically prohibiting the state from paying more than an inconsequential portion of the total cost of one of these modern traffic structures. Sections 6 B and 6 C read as follows:

"When any such state highway extension (within a municipality) has been designated, it shall be the duty of the department to maintain and, when necessary, to construct and maintain thereon a durable hard surface not greater in width than the present or reasonably expected future traffic on such state highway immediately outside the corporate limits may require.

"By agreement between the department and proper authority of the city, village, park district, or other municipal corporation having control over the streets or thoroughfares upon which such state highway extension is located, the durable hard surfaced improvement may be of greater width or different type. In such case the excess cost of such construction, reconstruction and maintenance shall be paid by the municipal corporation."

These sections, according to some who have read the bills, would permit the state, for example, to pay for a 40 foot pavement, and no more, in building an elevated highway within Chicago connecting with a forty foot state highway at the city limits. The remainder of the cost would have to be raised locally. An elevated highway costs more than $1,000,000 a mile. The state's portion, under this interpretation, would be less than $50,000 a mile.

"As we read these bills—and they were drawn with this idea in mind," said Mr. Cleveland, "the state would be authorized to build extensions of state highways into and through or around municipalities of a width and design to meet the needs of through traffic, regardless of the cost. Where extra facilities, such as parking space or service drives, are desired, the excess cost would be born locally."

It was pointed out, in support of Mr. Cleaveland's view, that the bill does not say specifically that the width of the state financed city pavement shall be the same as the width immediately outside the city, but that the width within the city shall be not greater than sufficient to care for the traffic immediately outside the city.

Require Wider Pavement.

"The volume of traffic moving on a forty foot road outside the city may require a wider pavement or one with continuous grade separations to move within a city," the director said.

This measurement of the state's participation in a Chicago improvement by the volume of traffic at the city limits would be no barrier to the state highway department's paying a large portion of the cost of an elevated highway. Although on week days the volume of traffic on arterial boulevards leading into the loop increases as the cars approach the business district, yet on Sundays and holidays the congestion grows as the automobiles approach the city limits.

The state does not now spend any money within Chicago, although the motorists of that city pay 40 per cent of the state's total road bill. The routes designated for improvement under the state bond issue terminate at the corporate limits. The gasoline tax was assigned to improvement of these routes.

There is no question but what the bills in their present form would authorize the less expensive work that is required at small towns. However, unless Mr. Cleaveland is correct, an amendment would be needed to meet traffic demands not only in Chicago but in other large communities, such as Peoria, East St. Louis, Bloomington and a dozen other cities where congestion cannot be relieved materially without broad pavements and grade separations, which are more expensive than any of the state's rural construction.

PRINCE OF WALES BRINGS RICHES TO NEGRO 'MAESTRO'

MAR DEL PLATA, Argentina, March 12.—(AP)—Since the return of the prince of Wales to Argentina, he has picked up the threads of fortune for an orchestra leader whom he launched on a successful career six years ago. During his visit to this country in 1925 the prince became interested in Gordon Stretton, an obscure mulatto musician from Barbados who was stranded in Buenos Aires.

Stretton was the drummer in a small orchestra at that time, struggling for existence, but by chance he played at a dance which the British heir attended. The prince recognized Stretton's ability and immediately made friends with him. That made Stretton's reputation and since the British heir returned here on the present visit the Barbados musician's band has been in constant demand.

Every night Stretton's orchestra produces music which tickles the royal feet at the Beach Side Ocean club, where the prince and his brother, Prince George, pass the hour before dinner. At the same time hostesses who give private functions for the prince pay well for Stretton's services.

4 OF KIRKLAND'S PALS MAY PLEAD GUILTY TO RAPE

State Is Eager to Avoid Long Murder Trials.

Valparaiso, Ind., March 12.—[Special.]—A possibility that the four youths implicated with Virgil Kirkland in the murder of Arlene Draves would plead guilty either of manslaughter or rape and avoid going through extended trials was indicated today by Deputy Prosecutor John Underwood, one of the state attorneys who prosecuted Kirkland.

Mr. Underwood said the state was eager to avoid going through four more long trials such as had just been ended in the conviction of Kirkland, and would attempt to reach an agreement with defense counsel for the four other youths, Leon Stanford, Paul Barton, Henry Shirk, and David Thompson.

16 Other Murder Trials.

The prosecutor said he believed the state would be willing to accept pleas of guilty to a charge of rape, which carries a 5 to 20 year sentence, and possibly would agree to guilty pleas on a manslaughter charge, which carries a two to 21 years' sentence. He said 16 other important murder trials were pending and that the prosecutors did not want to be tied up on the Draves case alone for the next two or three months.

Robert Moore and Harry Long, Gary attorneys representing the youths, said the state's attorney had not yet made any overtures to them regarding any compromise and would not state their attitude toward such a procedure.

Kirkland, in the county jail here awaiting sentence to life imprisonment in the state prison, spent the day playing cards. His mother, Mrs. Myrtle Kirkland, and his stepfather, Elmer Kirkland, visited Virgil this morning. The mother, recovered from the shock of her son's conviction, laughed and chatted with him and said: "Don't you worry, honey. We're going to get you a new trial."

Sentence Kirkland Monday.

When Kirkland comes up for sentencing next Monday before Judge Grant Crumpacker it is expected that a motion for arrest of judgment will be entered pending the preparation of a motion for a new trial. Barratt O'Hara, Kirkland's chief counsel, said he would need two or three weeks to perfect his new trial motion, which must be made in writing and contain all grounds that would be set forth in an appeal to the Supreme court.

Attorney O'Hara said he was investigating recent developments which he hoped could be used as new evidence in his motion for a new trial. He said nothing definite had been obtained.

KILLED BY TRAIN ON SOUTH SIDE.

STUDENT LIQUOR AT MINNESOTA MAY BRING QUIZ

Legislative Inquiry Is Threatened.

St. Paul, Minn., March 12.—(AP)—Reports of drinking and bootlegging by University of Minnesota farm school students brought suspensions to seventeen today and a threat of an investigation at the university by the state legislature.

LOTUS D. COFFMAN.

Simultaneously University of Minnesota authorities announced that they were investigating suspected liquor law violations near the university campus. An official statement said: "Bootleggers and purveyors of liquor have been increasing their activities around the campus at a rapid rate."

It was added that President Lotus D. Coffman declared he wanted "a general cleanup" of the situation.

Appeal to Legislature.

J. O. Christianson, acting principal of the farm school, ordered the suspension of the students, ten of whom later appeared at the state capitol with the avowed intention of appealing to the legislature from the order preventing them from completing their school courses.

Their appearance preceded an announcement by State Representative Joseph A. Kozlak, Minneapolis, that he would introduce a resolution in the house tomorrow calling for a legislative investigation into the liquor situation at the University of Minnesota.

Thirteen Suspended Seniors.

The suspended students are from seventeen to twenty years old. Thirteen of them are seniors. Fellow students circulated a petition demanding their reinstatement and claimed that 300 of the 400 students in the farm school had signed.

The acting principal accused two students of selling liquor and said those suspended had been under surveillance for some time, adding they would not be permitted to return to school "if I have anything to say about it." Their names he withheld.

Edward E. Nicholson, dean of student affairs at the university, has begun an investigation.

RAILROADS RUN SELVES IN WAR, WILLARD SAYS

U. S. Control Opposed by B. & O. President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—The railroads can be counted on to give the country the most efficient wartime service under their own management, Daniel O. Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, told the war policies commission today.

Government operation, as exemplified during the world war, he testified, meant lessened efficiency and, furthermore, had proved unfair to the roads.

"My definite recommendations concerning the railroads are these," he said. "That a skeleton organization be set up in peacetime, composed of responsible officials selected by the railroads themselves; that this be a permanent organization, keeping in touch with the war department; that skeleton orders be prepared and kept revised, so that if war was declared today it would be possible to bring all the railroads under one management within twenty-four hours, to be administered under their own management acting under the control of the war department."

"Best Brains" Available.

It was the good fortune of this country, he explained, to be able to have its business run in wartime by the best brains in the country. With Schwabs, Chryslers, Rosenwalds, and Fritts ready and anxious to serve in a national emergency, why, he wanted to know, try to educate army officers to run industry? After all, he said, "railroad presidents are patriotic."

"I am vain enough," he told the commission, "to think that after twenty years' experience I could run the Baltimore and Ohio as well as somebody from out west."

During the war, he explained in answer to inquiry, he had been told he was not wanted; his road had been split up into five divisions which were apportioned to other groups; a western railroad president was put in charge. No provision was made to compensate the roads for their losses, he said, and he cited as an example of such a loss the experience of his own road in having to concentrate on the movement of steel from Pittsburgh east, virtually abandoning the 300 miles of road west of Pittsburgh.

Proposes English System.

He recommended the English system by which the roads were run under their own management with official control, and under guarantee of a fixed profit, in return for which government transportation was done free.

He criticized the government for not having turned back the railroads immediately upon the end of the war. Certain agencies, he said, had tried to hold onto the roads, perceiving an opportunity to try an experiment in government ownership at somebody else's expense.

Aishton Outlines Views.

R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway association, summed up his opinion by saying: "Let the management run the roads and the government run the management." A Aishton organization was already in existence, he testified. The roads had already drawn up a tentative plan on their own initiative and a railway president is in contact with the commander of each corps area. Primary thought, he argued, should not be given to what to do with the great arterial systems in time of war, but to building them up in time of peace.

Paul V. McNutt, dean of the University of Indiana law school and former member of the national executive committee of the American Legion, testified that he favored a constitutional amendment to permit conscription of property in time of war.

BAR LECTURE BY SINCLAIR LEWIS FROM D. A. R. HALL

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—Officials of the Daughters of the American Revolution have declined to permit the use of Constitution hall for a lecture by Sinclair Lewis.

He will deliver his lecture, "American Literature Comes of Age," at the Central High school auditorium March 31, under the auspices of the Community Institute.

Mrs. L. G. Swormstedt, secretary of the institute, disclosed that when she telephoned a request for the use of Constitution hall, an official answered that the D. A. R. "did not care to rent the hall for that purpose."

REMEDIES FOR UNEMPLOYMENT.

A variety of remedies for unemployment have been proposed as a result of the experience of the last eighteen months. Many of the proposals overlook the fact that unemployment is, itself, an effect rather than a cause. Throwing men out of work is bad for business, but business has to be bad before unemployment becomes a general menace. If we knew some way of providing for the uninterrupted, if slow, growth of industry, we should have no great cause to be worried about unemployment.

Insurance is frequently suggested as the remedy. Unfortunately, the drain on insurance funds in times of widespread depression becomes so heavy that it is doubtful if wage earners and industrialists can be brought to pay the premiums which would be required in better times to tide over the slack period. It is possible that the premiums would be so heavy as to discourage the investment of capital in enterprises in states requiring unemployment insurance. Certainly no mere guess at the proper premium is likely to prove correct or even approximately correct. Experience in Great Britain and on the continent has demonstrated the inadequacy of even careful actuarial calculations.

It is not even certain that insurance would not in a measure aggravate unemployment. A considerable number of business houses under present conditions have shown the greatest reluctance to discharge men, a reluctance that was not dictated by prudence but by humanity. A management which knew that its employés if separated from the pay roll would be provided for at the expense of an insurance fund might have less hesitation in cutting down its wage bill. Less essential employés who are now retained as long as possible might under other circumstances be dropped as soon as possible.

The need for a remedy is great, and because it is great the tendency in many minds will be to approve any scheme that seems hopeful. Needless to say, the dangers inherent in wishful thinking increase in proportion to the intensity of the wish which prompts the thought. Any physician can provide a hundred illustrations in point.

ALL IN THE HOME TOWN.

Five of the winners in the eight classes of the Golden Gloves bouts are from Chicago, two from Gary, and one from Cleveland. Of the eight runners-up, who also will compete in New York, five are from Chicago, one from South Bend, one from Geneva, and one from Rockford. Don Gonsales, the hard fighting featherweight, is the boy from Cleveland who will step into the ring for Chicago against the best of his class in New York March 30.

This boy is particularly welcome in the Chicago territory. He represents a point of view much better than that of the other seasoned scrapper, the Hon. Newton D. Baker, whose activities have not been neighborly. Cleveland should study the position of its boxers who recognized a community interest and turned their gloves against the east for the economic section of which they are a part. That's bringing the Northwest Territory together again.

Don Gonzales will be back in Chicago in May to fight a French featherweight for international honors, a Chicago boy from Cleveland. Then, when the national conventions come here the following year, it will be all the same thing. It's within commuting distance.

TAX PLAN MARKS ISSUE CLEAR IN WISCONSIN.

Gov. La Follette's message to the Wisconsin legislature proposes a new taxation program which, on estimates, will increase taxes sixteen million dollars.

The economic theories employed in justification of this are more important to the future development of Wisconsin than the millions involved.

The progressive theory of tax revision is a continuous increase of exemptions and a corresponding increase of rates in the high income brackets as the necessity for more revenue arises, disregarding the tax policies of all other states in the Union.

The conservatives challenge the economic soundness and justice of any such doctrine, holding that the theory conflicts with the command of the constitution of the state that "the rule of taxation shall be uniform."

The conservatives further believe that such a taxation policy will dishearten industry and initiative in business, discourage capital investments and injuriously affect the market for labor.

The situation defines an understandable issue in Wisconsin respecting the subject of taxation.

[illegible] issue does, however, also involve taxation, looms with the governor's proposal to amend the constitution, to let the state and municipalities embark upon the business of manufacturing and servicing electricity, and possibly engage in other similar business ventures.

This is not a new economic thought. Public ownership of utilities is not a new question. However, it is the first time in the history of Wisconsin that the provision of its constitution which prohibits any such projects has ever been challenged as an unwholesome public safeguard.

This also presents a real taxation issue, and a serious one. There is a legislature now in session which may have the power and disposition to favor destruction of these limitations.

It may well be that on this issue Wisconsin has reached a most critical period in its economic life. The money which might be exacted from the taxpayers to finance public ownership ventures, the fortunes of all the electric power, gas and telephone companies combined, is nothing when compared with the importance of preserving the constitutional limitations upon state and municipal indebtedness, to which Wisconsin's enviable position, so far as public indebtedness is concerned, can be largely attributed.

THE CARLTON CONCLAVE.

Mr. Sargent, president of the North Western railroad, sat in the saints' conclave at Washington with an open and inquiring mind. He had been invited and he was with them, although not of them. Mr. Sargent does not rate a radical, but there must have been a feeling in these better elements of both parties that there was redeemable stuff in him. He might be brought to see the light.

Mr. Sargent gave his respectful attention to the first day's session, distinguished particularly by Senator Borah ever coming out by that same door wherein he went, as usual. Mr. Sargent is one of many not sealed to the brotherhood of better elements quite willing to do the right thing if it can be made clear. Unfortunately the saints do not make it clear.

The bipartisan better elements will not stay in their own parties and will not join to form a new one. They won't go left and they won't stay center. The attentive conservative got nothing for his attention. Mr. Norman Thomas, the Socialist leader, was not invited. The omission was prudent. Mr. Thomas has taken the radical saints to pieces before and probably would have been willing to do so again. He understands the Thespian character of their works.

Theatrical considerations are important in the bipartisan insurgency. If the insurgents dropped their old party connections for a new one it would be as if St. George had kept the appointment, but the dragon had missed it. No dragon, no fight; no fight, no saint. The essential dramatic item is that the crusader shall be conspicuous among men of less virtue. Mr. Thomas knows what it is to be alone on a hilltop. It is an experience which Mr. Borah, Mr. Norris, and others of the better elements have resisted. It is much better to be in the ballroom of the Carlton hotel in Washington.

Although the saints may thunder, it will be found that discretion will always temper enthusiasm. They will never go out to raise the Highlands. Their fervor is a prudent one.

STATE PARKS AND NATIONAL FORESTS IN ILLINOIS.

A bill to give the federal government the right to acquire land in Illinois for national forests has been introduced at Springfield by Representative Black. THE TRIBUNE has urged the creation of national forests in Illinois for many months. With thousands of acres available in Jackson, Union, Alexander, Hardin, Gallatin, Pope, and Saline counties, according to a recent federal survey, this movement, we hope, can soon be brought to a stage of definite action.

Plans are also under way for the extension of the state park system of Illinois. With 26 parks of a total of 2,800 acres as a beginning, the board of park advisers is moving towards a system including 150,000 acres of woodland. Interesting regions along the rivers of the state will be included. The bluff lands of the Mississippi, the woods along the Fox river, Des Plaines, and Kankakee, and game country in the southern section of the state will be made in time, no doubt, great areas for public recreation. Available lands that suit this purpose will be of more use as parks when situated within motoring distance of the state's centers of population. State parks are primarily recreational; national forests are primarily economic in purpose. The lake region, the Fox river, and the Kankakee should be preserved so far as possible for this recreational purpose.

Plans for state parks might well be associated with federal or state plans for national forests in Illinois. In southern Illinois large areas of deep woodland should be converted into national forests. Three great regions in Wisconsin, for example, are now under consideration, the Namekegon unit of 327,000 acres, the Oconto unit of 204,800 acres, the Mondeaux unit of 172,000 acres. As national forests these, in addition to great areas in Wisconsin already purchased by the nation, will be of great value to Wisconsin and the middle west. National forests in Illinois will be of unquestionable value to the middle west. A great system of state parks, game preserves, and national forests in Illinois will save for future generations one of the midland's finest heritages.

Editorial of the Day

CLEAR LIGHT FROM SENATORS.

[New York Sun.]

The earnest searcher for light on the obscurities of trade reads in the report of a committee of the United States senate which has been looking into retail prices of food that:

"Within the last few years the absorption of independent bakers and milk distributors by gigantic, nation-wide corporations, holding companies, mergers and chain enterprises has been carried forward with amazing rapidity. If existing laws are not sufficient to control these mergers and combinations in the public interest the agencies above named (federal trade commission and department of justice) should recommend to the congress such remedial legislation as they deem necessary."

All's serene; the old villain giant corporation is at work; put a bureaucrat on his trail! However:

"The retail prices of meat have reflected the lower price received by the producer and the packer on a cents per pound basis, but the percentage of decrease in the retail price is materially less, due to the existence of too many dealers competing with each other rather than a combination in restraint of trade."

How can there be "too many dealers competing with each other"? Isn't this the negation of the great cause of anti-big-corporation?

What [illegible]

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

IT'S JEALOUSY, THAT'S WHAT!

New York can stand it no longer. Chicago has taken front page space in every newspaper all over the world because it's so wicked and New York is just breaking down under the strain. Now she hops in and shrieks that, however bad Chicago is, she's a hundred times worse. Down there they insist the politicians have swiped everything in sight, except the Brooklyn bridge and the Woolworth building, and that those are being held for ransom. They claim they have bigger and better murders, bigger and better gangster battles, and bigger and better bribes than Chicago ever dared have.

They say the town is so rotten it's got to be pulled down and rebuilt. Down there when a man in court gets up and pleads "Not guilty" the clerk of the court raps him on the head with a sandbag and the judge says: "Shut up, you sap; and that funny crack of yours will cost you five thousand bucks for contempt of court." Burglars ride around in limousines with uniformed chauffeurs and the policeman on the beat shows them the best houses to loot. They declare that in New York Al Capone would be regarded as a piker and two little tots ten years old would pick his pocket and steal his shirt before he got a block from the station.

As for out of town visitors—well, there's a lawyer at the station, and as the rubes come from the train they are given an opportunity to make their will, write a last letter to the dear ones at home, and tell where they want their body sent.

Gosh! what a wicked place New York is. To hear them tell it.

INNOVATION.

Our mantel shelf
now boasts a clock
that doesn't tick
and it doesn't tock.
Its face is as bland
as it can be.
It conceals a heart of electricity.
It speeds the hours, early and late,
away from the small,
away from the great.

A clock that ticks,
is a friend, and true.
It counts the hours and minutes for you.
It lets you know
by bell or chime, that it is fleeting;
this thing, called Time.
It gives you a chance to hasten and do those things you know are awaiting you.
A clock's ticking voice is a friend's advice; that wasting time
isn't nice.

is like an enemy
who steals your days
. . . silently.

WE READ IN ONE NEWSPAPER about New York City drafting Al Smith for mayor and in another about the Brooklyn National bank telling him they'd put three million bucks behind a newspaper if he'd be editor of it, and Al is as busy already building the largest buildings in the world and being director and chairman, and this, that, and the other as the w. k. one armed paper hanger with the hives. Goodness! Wonder where all these people who want to give Al jobs now were in 1928? Or why bring that up?

OLD ART BRISBANE in speaking of Cartoonist Opper at a dinner in New York t'other night said he would say the same thing of him as is written in St. Paul's cathedral in London of its architect, Sir Christopher Wren, a Latin inscription which reads: "If you want to see his monument look about you." You are all wet, Arthur. The inscription is "Si monumentum requiris circumspice," and it means, Arthur dear, "If you would see his monument look around." Pardon us, Arthur, but your Latin is really dreadful. In fact, lousy.

AND SEN. BOB LA FOLLETTE JR. said at the Progressive conference in Washington yesterday that the breakdown in the industrial, financial, and political leadership in these United States of America had forced an economic depression which forces 25,000,000 persons to suffer in a land of plenty. Wait until Sen. Fess hears that. He'll go into high gear right away and prove there are only five men and a boy out of employment in the country right now, and four of the men and the boy got jobs shoveling snow during the storm, and are now rich and affluent. And the fifth man was a loafer anyhow, and lived off what his wife earned taking in washing.

MACHINE MADE FEVER AGAIN.

DR. C. A. NEYMANN has been making use of diathermy induced fever in the treatment of general paresis and some other disorders. More than one-half the persons so treated have been greatly improved. Those reported on were in institutions for the insane. A considerable proportion of them were able to go back to their homes and to take up their work uncontrolled and to fit in satisfactorily both in the home and in the place of employment. Some required some supervision and control in order to get on well among their fellow employés and with their families. Some were not improved.

If the treatment did no good it did no great harm. None died from it, nor any earlier after treatment than they would otherwise have done. A few had albuminuria for a few days, but it passed shortly. A few had burns, but they healed nicely. Advanced cases of dementia paralytica were not improved, but neither were they made worse except for the temporary discomfort of the fever.

Diathermy is a method of sending a very strong and rapidly reversed electric current through a body—in this case the human body. The current meets with resistance in the body and this causes the resisting body to become hot, as one sees in a rheostat. In the case of an animal body the heated tissues heat the blood which circulates through them, and thus is produced the condition known as fever.

A generation ago an Austrian physician advocated artificially induced fever as a treatment for paralytic dementia or general paresis. He based his recommendations on some observations that when cases of this disorder were attacked by typhoid, malaria, or other fevers they improved. The method of fever making he made use of was an injection of malaria. Artificially induced malarial fever as a means of treating some diseases has been given an extensive trial and has proved valuable. Similarly, sodoku, or rat bite fever, has been used. Also fever caused by injections of milk and some other substances. Fever caused by hot baths and by radio waves are used for the same purpose.

Dr. Neymann advocates diathermy fever. He wraps the patient well and sends a powerful diathermy current through his body for about an hour. This brings on a fever of around 105, and which has been known to go over 108. As the fever approaches the proper level the current is switched off. The fever lasts about six hours. The principal precaution is to prevent burns and this consists in using proper electrodes properly applied.

IF DAUGHTER SMOKES.

Mrs. B. C. writes:

1. I strongly suspect my 18 year old daughter of smoking. Would a medical examination show this up?

2. What are the bad effects of one so young smoking?

REPLY.

1. There is not much chance that it would. You can find tobacco stains on the fingers as well as the doctor can. Your chance of catching the tobacco flavor on the clothes or the breath is better than his.

2. The great danger is that the habit will get a strangle hold on the smoker. Smoking may lead to nervousness and restlessness. It may cause smoker's cough, smoker's sore throat, and smoker's heart. That is as far as one can go and stick to probabilities. Some claim that smoking stops growth, but no one has proved it.

TEA OR COFFEE NOT HARMFUL.

C. W. F. writes: What is the effect of tea and coffee on the nervous system? What do you think a temperate use?

REPLY.

Tea and coffee are mildly toxic. However, the amount used by the average adult is below the threshold of harm. People with certain diseases should not take either of these beverages. Nor should children, say 12 years and younger. Most people stand two average size, average strength cups a day with no harmful effects. Old people should take less than middle aged. However, old people, accustomed to their coffee or tea, had better, stick to their habit.

DAILY GLASS OF ORANGE JUICE.

L. H. B. writes: Is it harmful for an adult to drink a glass of orange juice every morning?

REPLY.

No. Orange juice is a good food at all times. At certain seasons, including this one, people need foods rich in vitamin C. Orange juice and other fruit juices, tomato juice and other vegetables belong to this class.

MITRAL INSUFFICIENCY.

W. A. M. writes: I have a case of mitral insufficiency. I am very nervous, have a fast pulse, and there is a swelling over my heart. There is no swelling of the body and my wind is sound. Is this a disease of the heart, or is the heart weak?

REPLY.

This is a frequent form of organic heart disease. Just how serious it is to be depends largely on the care you give yourself.

ALLEY RANGERS?

Chicago, March 6.—[Friend of the People.]—I should like to know why we cannot get relief from the howling, thieving young hoodlums in this neighborhood. There is a home made shanty in a prairie near Francisco avenue and Jackson boulevard where they hang out at night. They broke a window a couple of weeks ago in my next door neighbor's flat.

G. F.

The captain commanding the 27th district reports that investigators found that about eight or ten young boys in this neighborhood ranging from 12 to 15 years of age had formed a club and that they put an old shack up in this vacant lot when permission of the owner of said lot was given. They interviewed the owner of this vacant lot, who stated that these boys were all very good and that he gave them permission to use his vacant lot.

Also the investigating officer interviewed the neighbors in this neighborhood and they all stated that these boys did not make any noise, that they were good boys, that they were glad they had this place, and that they caused no trouble in this neighborhood.

SPOUSE'S SIGNATURE.

Chicago, March 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. A man and wife now own real estate in joint tenancy. If the husband quitclaims his rights to the wife, can she dispose of the property without the husband's signature? 2. Would there be any advantage to such a move?

2. What steps are necessary to redeem property sold for special assessment taxes? 4. Who should pay the next general assessment taxes on the property?

MRS. G. L. R.

1. No.

2. It would mean that the husband would have merely dower instead of a one-half in his own right.

3. The first step is to get an estimate from the county clerk.

4. We do not understand upon what assumptions this question is based.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CIVIL SERVICE WORK.

Chicago, March 6.—[Friend of the People.]—What city departments besides the police and fire departments are under civil service? How can one find out when different examinations are to be held?

C. C.

All positions in the city service, except the law department and heads of departments, are under the provisions of the civil service act.

Examinations, when called, are posted on the bulletin board in the rooms of the commission and advertised in the Chicago Evening Post [noon edition] for a period of at least two weeks preceding dates of same.

If there are any specific examinations for which you wish to be notified, kindly advise and we will place your name on our mailing list. J. D. OSBORNE, Secretary, Civil Service Commission.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 13, 1915.

LONDON.—The British auxiliary cruiser Bayano was sunk some time on March 12 off Corsewall Point, Scotland, by a German submarine. Only 26 of the crew of 216 are known to have been saved, 18 of them being rescued by the Belfast steamer Balmerino. They were afloat on a raft. Eight others were picked up from one of the Bayano's lifeboats by another steamer, and the 26 fortunates were landed at Ayr. Among the rescued were eight officers.

LONDON.—It is reported from Tenedos that the batteries at Dardanus, on the Dardanelles, have been entirely destroyed. Fort Hamidieh was badly damaged yesterday, and the allied fleet directed a well sustained fire from a distance of 18,000 yards against Chankalessi. Fort Chimiliki alone continued to hold out, and the two big mine fields are still intact.

WASHINGTON.—The killing of John D. McManus, formerly of Chicago, in Mexico City yesterday resulted in the submission of a demand by the United States for the punishment of his murderers and reparation to his family. About 55 Americans have been killed by various factions of Mexico since the Wilson administration came into power.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y.—Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, wife of the richest man in the world, died suddenly in her seventy-sixth year at the Rockefeller country home in Pocantico Hills. She had been an invalid for a year. The only relative at her bedside was her sister, Mrs. Lucy M. Spellman. Her husband and a son, John D. Rockefeller Jr., were at Ormond, Fla., when she died, and Mrs. Harold Fowler McCormick of Chicago, a daughter, is in Switzerland. Mrs. E. Parmelee Prentice, Mrs. Rockefeller's other daughter, was summoned from New York, but failed to arrive before her mother's death.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 13, 1901.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Gen. Benjamin Harrison, former President of the United States, is unconscious and the lung congestion continues to spread. Oxygen treatment has failed to aid in the distinguished patient's respiration and all hope of his recovery has been abandoned.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va.—The battleship Illinois was given a preliminary trial down the coast and developed a speed, without pushing, of almost 17 knots. Lieut. Pickerell of the navy, speaking of the vessel's performance, said: "It will be the queen of the navy when it is finished."

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—The army transport Hancock, bearing the 20th volunteer infantry, made up almost wholly of men from Illinois and Michigan, reached here today, 23 days from Manila and 16 days and 10 hours from Nagasaki. Among the cabin passengers was Brig. Gen. James F. Campbell, former Democratic congressman from the 20th Illinois district, who returned to San Francisco to await orders. In a big specially prepared iron cage below decks were 77 prisoners.

BOSTON, Mass.—Dr. Edwin A. Schell of Chicago, former secretary of the Epworth league, connected with the Methodist Episcopal church, brought suit against the Rev. Charles Parkhurst, editor, and the Wesleyan association, publishers of Zion's Herald, a semi-official organ of the church, to recover $100,000 damages for alleged libelous and defamatory articles.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 13, 1881.

WASHINGTON.—Mrs. President Garfield held her first general reception and there was an immense number of visitors. She was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Secretary Blaine, Mrs. Secretary Lincoln, and Mrs. Secretary Kirkwood. The President did not have an opportunity to attend.

LONDON.—The Daily News correspondent cables from the Transvaal a lengthy interview with the Boer commander, Franz Joubert, who thinks that a settlement with the British government might be arrived at by annexation to Great Britain of a portion of the so called Transvaal on this side of the Vaal river, giving the Boer republic the other side of the river.

CHICAGO.—O. A. Fitch of the Board of Trade firm of Fitch & Phillips died of pneumonia.

CHICAGO.—George Gubbins, until recently lockup keeper at the armory, died at his home, 154 Lytle street. He joined the police force in 1862.

CHICAGO.—John Griscom of New York intends to commence a fast in this city about April 15, to continue 45 days, under the auspices of Rush Medical college. The fast is to be conducted for scientific purposes.

PROBLEM IN BUDGETING.

Chicago, March 11.—Moving time is here again. To move or to buy, that is my problem.

To move—a tiresome job hunting a flat with yard and porch, sunlight and cleanliness, reasonable rent, pleasant landlord who doesn't say don't do this or that for some petty things.

To buy a home with its mortgages, taxes, assessments, etc.; to be your own landlord; to have a yard with plenty of fresh air and sunshine for the children, and to have a garden, etc.

We are a normal family with two children; husband a street car man making 77 cents per hour; family expenses per month, such as rent, $46; insurance, $6; gas and electric, $4; telephone $2.70; milk, $5; union dues, $2.50; aged mother's support, $8; wash machine, $4; food, $60 per month.

If there is anything left it goes for dentist, haircut, clothes, etc.

No amusements except a movie once in a while, nor do we belong to any social clubs or lodges, nor own a car. Have been married ten years and with hospital expenses, etc., haven't saved much, but are not in debt.

Now, shall I take my husband's veteran's bonus money, $500, as down payment on a dream house I have found almost in the country, but suitable for us, for $7,500, or keep on paying rent, moving hither and thither the rest of my life?

MRS. PUZZLED.

RADIO SPEECH.

Chicago, March 10.—The task of Sisyphus was hardly to be compared with that of those who are trying to get radio announcers to pronounce their words rightly. Some there are to whom it is a pleasure to listen if only for their clean cut enunciation and correct pronunciation; but even Quin Ryan and Bill Hay slip up now and then, though very rarely.

But now that the campaign is about to open up its throttle and bellow forth its messages, is it not possible for radio announcers at least to take note that "mayoralty" is pronounced may'-or-al-ty, and not may-or-al'-ty or, as we actually hear it at times, may-or-al'-i-ty! It has but one accent, and that on the first syllable. Of course, it is too much to expect spellbinders of the soap box order to even approach accuracy in such matters, but we do have a right to look to the professional announcers as models of excellence, and if even one word in a season gets properly established in this way, it is worth a struggle.

MARGARET THOMPSON.

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER.

Chicago, March 9.—It seems to me that while we were justified under the rule of international law in reprimanding Gen. Butler, we should equally and more properly be justified in demanding that the official agents of the Italian government in this country be equally reprimanded for casting reflections upon the great leaders and patriots of this great nation.

The Italian consul general in Chicago, in addressing the pupils of the Austin High school, tried to take credit because a certain percentage of the casualties suffered by the American army during the world war were borne by citizens of Italian descent. American citizens of Italian descent are called, on the other side and over here by the fanatics of the Italian race, renegades, and I do not think the consul of Italy should mention them in the effort to give credit to Mr. Mussolini. The Italian consul also compared liberty, as understood by the martyr Abraham Lincoln, with the liberty of Mr. Mussolini. Considering that Mussolini has suppressed all semblance of liberty in the Italian kingdom and that President Lincoln offered his life to the abolition of slavery in any form, everybody can see that the action of the Italian consul was an insult to the memory of Abraham Lincoln. JOE ORRIMO.

A NEW FANGLED GAS TANK.

Chicago, March 7.—It's surprising how many people who ride the Illinois Central have the idea that the new fangled gas tank and the combination tobacco and onion warehouse alongside the tracks at 26th street are part of the World's Fair layout. Surely the colors alone ought to tell them differently. That combination of dirty red and black could never be meant for anything so gay as a fair—a world's fair.

JACK BOULE.

A REPLY TO HI-CO-ED.

Chicago, March 11.—Yesterday I noticed that a co-ed defended Kirkland by saying that every one who attends a gin party knew what to expect. Of all the girls who attend gin parties is there one who thinks that what happened to Arlene is going to happen to her? Is that logic? Does a girl go for that reason? That is what the term implies and I am here to contradict it.

I also attend a lot of gin parties and nothing like that has ever happened to any one at any of them. Every girl is escorted by a fellow whom she believes to be her protector, and if he is so low as to try to take advantage of her then the chair is too good for him.

DAVENDA.

RESPECT FOR LAW.

Chicago, March 11.—The Kirkland case just ended indeed will teach many a certain person a good lesson. Virgil Kirkland received what he deserved. The jury should be complimented for rendering such a verdict. They acted wisely and honestly.

Kirkland has learned his lesson and is given plenty of time to remember it. His defense have no doubt also learned too, that happiness lies back in their own back yard; also that law is law in Indiana and that it is observed to the letter.

EDWARD.

PRE-PROHIBITION CRIMES.

Chicago, March 9.—Twenty years before prohibition a young woman about the same age as the unfortunate Arlene Draves met with practically the same fate at the hands of four or five young men in Trenton, N. J. Drinking was at the bottom of the crime; the young girl was under 18 and there was a law against the sale of liquor to minors.

Late in the year 1914 a 16 year old boy in Pleasant Valley, Pa., got drunk on beer and shot his father. This was six years before prohibition. In January, 1915, Robert Hendrickson, a young man of 20, was sentenced to life imprisonment by a North Dakota judge because the boy had killed his wife after a drinking bout. That was five years before national prohibition. In the saloon era in many cities at many times the saloons refused to obey the Sunday closing law and the law against the sale of liquor to minors.

Liquor is the cause of more crime than almost anything else. It should therefore be prohibited and not controlled. The principal problem with prohibition at present is its enforcement. After the present wet hysteria which can do nothing except increase the trouble rather than solve it, we will undoubtedly settle down to realization of the fact that prohibition is the best method of handling the liquor traffic.

MRS. R. H. BROWN.

THE MEANING OF A PHRASE.

Wheaton, Ill., March 9.—After reading Judge McKinlay's letter in this column last week anent the much discussed quotation, "I'll knock hell out of her," credited to Virgil Kirkland, it seems to me a bit of explanation is due. He, like Prosecutor Underwood, is apparently not familiar with this everyday expression.

Perhaps these two learned gentlemen might be excused if they have never heard an irate husband say to his wife, "If you dance again with that [illegible] I'll knock hell outa you," but surely if they play golf—and they do—somebody has said to them, "If you sink that putt I'll knock hell outa you," or, "If you drop that putt I'll pound holes in your head with my bibilck." Either expression carries the same threat, but surely neither the judge nor Underwood wears a head that looks like a sieve. Or do they?

THE GERMAN ANTHEM.

Chicago, March 7.—Referring to your editorial on Friday, Feb. 6, I want you to know that you made a slight mistake if you say that the German national anthem has the Rhine as only subject. The German national anthem is "Deutschland, Deutschland Ueber Alles" and therein the Rhine is not once mentioned.

JUDGES ADVOCATE CURB ON HASTY MARRIAGE VOWS

Discuss Plans to Cure Divorce Evils.

Chicago judges believe that a rein on hasty marriages is a more effective cure for the divorce evil than stringent divorce laws. The judges gave their opinions yesterday in commenting on a legislative amendment which would permit the granting of Illinois divorces on the ground of desertion after a period of one year instead of two years.

Circuit Judge Harry Fisher and Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis suggested the requiring of a declaration of intent to marry at a fixed period before issuance of a license. They held that such a period, which might be fixed at from five days to two weeks, would give a betrothed couple time to decide whether their emotions were merely transitory infatuation or lasting love.

Would Curb Hasty Marriages.

With general adoption of such legislation, the judge pointed out, the combination of an automobile and gin or of puppy love and moonlight would not present a problem in divorce courts. Such marriages account for 25 per cent of the county's divorces, the jurists estimated.

The state of New York was held as an example of the effect of rigidity in divorce laws. Divorce is granted only on the ground of adultery. This law has given rise to divorces rooted in perjury, according to the judges.

The amendment to the Illinois law is designed to enable matrimonial misfits to procure divorce without committing perjury, Judge Lewis said. Of the 18,100 divorces in the county last year, he declared, 37 per cent were granted on the charge of cruelty, and these cases are largely tainted with perjury.

Tells Advantages of Plan.

"And the judge must take such cases," Judge Lewis said. "He might be liable to suit if he proclaimed his disbelief. If we must have divorce let it be devoid of additional stigma. The period of a year is long enough to effect possible reconciliation, and yet short enough to discourage perjury. There is no intention to facilitate divorce."

One divorce was granted in the county for every four marriages and in the country as a whole one divorce for every six marriages, court officials said. Judge Fisher said that the proportion of divorces will drop if marriage laws are regulated without discouraging matrimony.

Lawyers supported the views of the judges.

"I do not believe the amendment will increase divorce," said Benjamin B. Davis of the law firm of Socrates & Davis. "It does not contemplate competition in the fight for divorce trade between Arkansas and Nevada; the legislature of the former has approved granting of decrees within 90 days, while the latter is considering a six weeks' period. Those who desire divorce can procure it readily enough under the present law and will do so. It does, however, restrict perjury."

Minnesota House Defeats Bill for Dry Referendum

St. Paul, Minn., March 12.—(AP)—The Minnesota house of representatives tonight defeated a bill proposing a state referendum on the question of prohibition repeal. The vote, 67 to 59, came after four and one-half hours of debate.

WICKERSHAM IS CHAGRINED OVER CRITICISM FLOOD

Defends Report During Boston Speech.

Boston, Mass., March 12.—(AP)—George W. Wickersham, in an address here today, said the avalanche of wet criticism which greeted the recent prohibition report of the law enforcement commission, of which he was chairman, was surprising.

Interpreting the report as a document from which he thought the wets would have derived more encouragement than the drys, Mr. Wickersham revealed his surprise that "that most vehement criticism" had come from the opponents of prohibition. Speaking vigorously, the elderly chairman replied to the critics of his commission with a denial that its conclusions and recommendations "were utterly at variance with the report."

The survey of the liquor situation in Massachusetts, a report which the commission failed to forward to congress, with those for South Dakota, Nebraska and California, "appear to have been mislaid," Wickersham told the Boston Chamber of Commerce. He dismissed that portion of his address with an explanation that the survey was not the property of the commission, that it had been compiled by the bureau of prohibition and that it was "in no respect a part of the report of this commission."

He denied charges that the investigation by his commission had cost the nation "upwards of $5 a word." The cost was less than $100,000, he said, giving in detail the expenses that had brought the cost to that figure.

He did not reveal how the commission members stood individually on the proposal to revise the 18th amendment, but did admit there were differences of opinion among them.

The attitude of dry organizations and publications toward the report appeared to have pleased Mr. Wickersham.

QUICKEST WAY TO KNOCK A COLD

Millions Say of This Proved Way You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas—or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

The TRUTH about free wheeling

..the only really new thing in motoring ..the greatest forward step since the electric starter

ONCE AGAIN STUDEBAKER has shaken the motor car industry out of its manufacturing complacency and given it a new mark to shoot at, a new goal to achieve.

FOR HERE AT LAST, in Free Wheeling, is a really new development . . . not merely a superficial seasonal change but a fundamental engineering departure . . . not some artificial enhancement of Things As They Are, but a mechanical advancement to Where They Ought To Be! Already America's two finest cars—Pierce-Arrow and Lincoln—have adopted Studebaker Free Wheeling, intact and unmodified.

FREE WHEELING marks the first time that momentum has been released from subjection to the engine—the first time that the overflow of momentum has been utilized for the benefit of the man who pays the bills.

WITH FREE WHEELING your car actually rests one mile in five . . . 10,000 miles in distance . . . 8,000 miles in the engine . . . 2,000 miles in the bank!

LET US ANALYZE this economy specifically. Let us see what actually happens with a Free Wheeling car actually in use.

Economy Champion

A STOCK FREE WHEELING President Eight, driven by Mrs. William Hurter in the third annual Gilmore-Wrightwood run for women drivers, recently won the national economy championship of the American Automobile Association.

A STOCK FREE WHEELING Studebaker Six, driven by Mrs. Jeanne Frost, made the second best record in this event.

THE STUDEBAKER President averaged better than 17½ miles per gallon of gasoline over the 200-mile route which extended continuously upward from sea level to 6000 feet elevation.

WHILE THIS RUN covered officially only the economy of Free Wheeling, it proved conclusively the simplicity of Free Wheeling as well, since it was limited to women drivers.

ALL CARS IN THIS contest were operated and checked under strict American Automobile Association supervision.

Further Proof

TWO STUDEBAKER Commanders, alike in every respect even to their Free Wheeling transmissions, were driven for twelve days on main roads in western Pennsylvania and in Indiana at approximately 30 miles an hour.

ONE COMMANDER was operated in conventional gear, the other in Free Wheeling. Half the time the Free Wheeling car led, half the time the other. Drivers changed cars at intervals.

AT THE END of the twelve days the two cars had traveled 3,060 miles with this result: the Free Wheeling Commander averaged 16.3 miles per gallon of gasoline and 1,785 miles per gallon of oil. The other, driven in conventional gear, averaged 13.5 miles per gallon of gasoline and 1,200 miles per gallon of oil.

A MILEAGE INCREASE of 21% on gasoline and 49% on oil for Free Wheeling!

THIS TEST COVERED open highways, steep grades, crowded city traffic—every driving condition. It established, as did the Gilmore-Wrightwood championship run, that Studebaker's economy claims for Free Wheeling are not conversation but fact.

Greater Safety

AND JUST AS COMPLETE has been the vindication of all Studebaker's assertions regarding the greater safety of Free Wheeling with positive gear control.

NOT STUDEBAKER'S OWN say-so, but the opinion of highway commissioners and safety directors pronounces Studebaker Free Wheeling a new measure of safety for both driver and public.

TAKE AN EXTREME example . . . suppose you are going down hill and frantically trying to get in second gear . . . you're lucky if you can make it with your present car, but it's a cinch with Free Wheeling . . . because you can shift into conventional second gear by declutching in the conventional manner . . . or even without touching the clutch at all!

FREE WHEELING ALSO makes driving safer in traffic and at railroad crossings, for it enables you instantly to flash into second for slow going, and still permits quick acceleration, if needed, without danger of stalling.

KEEP IN MIND THAT Studebaker Free Wheeling gives you positive gear control at all times, and even when your car is running free under the impetus of its own momentum, it is always in gear, always in control, always instantly responsive to every emergency.

Simplicity

THERE IS NOTHING complicated about Free Wheeling . . . it is the final word in simplicity, it is so simple that part by part comparison with so-called silent mesh gearings shows that the Free Wheeling transmission has fewer parts. Studebaker gives you the utmost in smooth, quiet gear shifting plus Free Wheeling which no engine-bound transmission can simulate.

THE FACT IS, Free Wheeling is the simplest form of driving now known.

THERE IS NOTHING so economical in upkeep, so safe in emergencies, so dependable in operation, so easy to drive, and so free from stress and strain . . . as Free Wheeling!

BE FAIR TO YOURSELF and to Free Wheeling. Ask a Studebaker owner, not a competitive salesman. Go direct to a Studebaker dealer for true Free Wheeling information. Actually get in a Free Wheeling car and drive it.

GANDHI TO TEST BRITISH TRUCE BY DIPPING FOR SALT

Plans to Defy Law at Sea Tomorrow.

AHMADABAD, India, March 12.—(AP)—On the first anniversary of the start of his historic march to the sea at the beginning of the disobedience campaign, Mahatmi Gandhi left Ahmadabad today to retrace his route and make salt once more in defiance of British law.

His venture will mark a test of the truce which he arranged last week with Viceroy Lord Irwin, one of the terms of which was that peasants in the salt districts be allowed to make salt for their own use and for sale within their own towns, though this is a violation of the letter of the law.

All India Watches Move.

It was not regarded as likely that the British would attempt to rearrest Gandhi for a violation of the salt monopoly act with the ink of his signature on the formal truce ending the civil disobedience campaign hardly dry, but all India watched his move. The Nationalists regard salt making as a sacred right.

Setting out from here, just as he did one year ago today, Gandhi went to Borsad to address the villagers who accompanied him on the first march to the sea.

Gandhi's followers prostrated themselves before him when he reached Borsad, women fighting to kiss his feet and children garlanding him with flowers.

"We are in this fight to the finish," he told them, "it is the supreme and final struggle of my life. Our truce is only temporary. I shall not rest until all confiscated land has been restored. But how can we bring the dead back to life?"

Reaches Sea Tomorrow.

The "holy man" will visit a number of towns in this area, speaking to natives who have refused to pay British taxes, and Saturday will go to Dandi, where he first made salt a year ago.

After a speaking tour in the Baroda and Surat districts Gandhi will return to Bombay on March 16, spend two days there and then go to New Delhi, where he will attempt to unite Moslems and Hindus in preparation for the forthcoming second round table conference.

Soon thereafter Gandhi will go to Karachi, where the All-India national congress, Nationalist organization, will meet. Considerable opposition is expected in the congress ranks to terms of his truce with Lord Irwin and a split may develop.

Pick London for Parley.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 12. — Baited for two days by diehard Conservatives on the party's Indian policy, Stanley Baldwin suddenly turned and cracked the lash over his party benches during the debate on India in the house of commons tonight. As a result it appears that the imperialists have been whipped back into line to aid in the peaceful settlement of differences between the British empire and its jewel.

His sensational speech was preceded by two announcements by the government. One was the revelation by Capt. Wedgwood Benn, secretary of state for Indian, that the plan to resume the round table conference in India has been abandoned, leaving preliminary negotiations to committees in London prior to the final parley which will probably be held in the autumn.

The other was by Prime Minister MacDonald, who expressed the hope that Mahatma Gandhi "would be able to come to London" as chairman of the All-India Nationalist congress delegation, at which the finale to India's revolutionary history will be written.

"If there are those who, if they be in the majority in our party, would approach this subject with a niggling, grudging spirit—if they be in the majority, then in God's name let them choose a man to lead them," Mr. Baldwin dared the Conservatives in his speech. "If they are in the minority let them at least refrain from throwing difficulties in the way of those who have undertaken an almost superhuman task."

QUESTION IDENTITY IN CASE OF SEARED BODY FOUND IN IOWA

Perry, Ia., March 12.—(AP)—Doubt arose tonight as to the identity of the man, at first identified as John Smith, Farmer-Labor candidate for governor of Iowa in 1930, whose body was found, burned beyond recognition, in a truck in a roadside ditch near Denison, Ia., the night of Feb. 3.

Two insurance companies with which Smith carried policies yesterday obtained a court order to exhume the body, and county officials today conducted an autopsy.

The body, according to Coroner L. H. De Ford, had been embalmed before it was burned.

Dentists who had done dental work for Smith testified that the teeth did not resemble Smith's. Smith suffered a skull fracture several years ago, but on the skull of the body there was no indication of a fracture.

Smith carried two $10,000 double indemnity policies which would entitle the widow to $40,000 in case of death by accident, and two other policies in addition.

One of the policies, taken out Jan. 27, just a week before the accident, was known as a "traveler's accident" policy and was stipulated to run for a period of but 12 days.

STORY OF PARTY TOLD BY FORMER AID TO PANTAGES

Drove Girls to San Diego, He Says.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 12.—[Special.]—Details of the San Diego trip which Alice Blake and Helen Livingston, Los Angeles girls, made with Olive Clark Day, resulting in serious charges against Alexander Pantages and two other wealthy men, were given in an interview in jail late last night by William Jobelmann, Pantages' former press agent, who is held in connection with the case.

Jobelmann told of portions of his life with Mrs. Day while they lived together and operated their girl selling enterprise in Hollywood.

Take Two Girls to Party.

He declared that he learned from Mrs. Day that John P. Mills and Jesse Shreve, San Diego investment brokers accused in the case, had made arrangements for her to take the two girls to San Diego Oct. 30 last.

"Olive told me there was to be a big party at San Diego and that we were to take two of the girls down there, but, mind you, all this time I never dreamed that Pantages was supposed to be in on anything. If I had I would never have gone.

"We took a light roadster with a rumble seat and started. On the way out of Los Angeles we picked up Alice Blake and Helen Livingston.

"At San Diego I drove the girls and Olive to the El Cortes hotel, where Oliver registered as 'Opal Miller.' She took the girls upstairs to a suite a floor beneath, where the men were supposed to be.

"I registered for the night at another hotel. The next day I met them by pre-arrangement to bring them back to Los Angeles, and then is when I learned all about the party.

Girls Tell of Affair.

"We had something to eat before we started, but before we left San Diego we went back to the hotel and one of the girls ran up to the apartment where the party had been and returned with a bottle of Scotch whisky that had been left over."

Jobelmann said that when they drove back Mrs. Day sat in the front seat with him and the two girls in the rumble seat. At that time, he said, Miss Day gave him further information about the night before.

"She told me," he said, "that one of the men on the party was Alexander Pantages and that he was introduced as 'Mr. Alexander,' but during the night when the affair became noisy one of the clerks came up to quiet them and addressed him as Mr. Pantages. Then the girls knew who he was.

"She said Pantages had given Alice Blake $10 as a present. That was the first time that I knew that Pantages was supposed to be in on the thing."

KANSANS VOTE ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR EXECUTIONS

Topeka, Kas., March 12.—(AP)—After 61 years without an execution, the state of Kansas is preparing to restore capital punishment.

The electric chair will be used to cope with present day crime conditions if Gov. Harry Woodring approves bills passed by the legislature today making first degree murder and robbery with firearms capital offenses, and providing for installation of a chair at the state penitentiary.

The governor, personally opposed to capital punishment, would not disclose what action he would take. However, he said recently he would sign the measures if they passed the senate with "overwhelming" majorities similar to the three to one vote by which they were adopted by the house.

On final passage in the senate today the bills received majorities of nearly three to one.

Referendum on Death Penalty.

Detroit, Mich., March 12.—(AP)—Next April 6, more than a century after the last death penalty was imposed in Michigan, a referendum will determine whether capital punishment is to be restored in the state.

This was assured today when a measure passed by the legislature providing for the installation of an electric chair in the state prison at Jackson was certified to county clerks by Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald.

200 DIE AS BLAST SINKS SHIP; 180 SAVED FROM SEA

SHANGHAI, March 12.—(AP)—More than 200 Chinese perished when the burning Chinese coastal steamer Pachi exploded and sank 60 miles north of the mouth of the Yangtze river last night. A revenue cruiser and native boats picked up 120 of the approximately 400 persons aboard. Those rescued had leaped into the sea.

The explosion occurred when some of the 100 Chinese soldiers aboard threw cigaret stubs into the cotton cargo. Flames whirled through the hold, and a second blast followed.

LEWIS YIELDS INTERVIEW FROM OLD DENEEN SEAT

Now "Minority" Senator, He Reminds Friends.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—James Hamilton Lewis, Chesterfieldian prodigy of the party of Jeffersonian simplicity, tucked his immaculately creased trousers beneath the desk lately occupied by Charles S. Deneen today and commenced to realize that he was senator from Illinois once more.

"But now of the minority," he explained, eyes twinkling behind the pince-nez with the dangling black ribbon. "Some of my friends who would like a promotion today and a salary increase by nightfall have forgotten that."

But not of the minority for long, he intimated, as he ventured on certain political prophecies.

There was a question about the Democratic national committee and its tendencies under its present rule.

Convention to Decide Policies.

"No one is bound by anything the committee may do out of its jurisdiction," Senator Lewis explained, carefully. "It is the convention which decides the platform and the issues, and I do not shrink from saying that by the time the conventions are held the issues will be very different from the contradictions of principles we are now hearing."

Hands poised, fingertips to fingertip against a background of fawn colored, double-breasted waistcoat, he enumerated issues which would be important. First, the recapture of foreign trade that labor might be given employment and business and finance be revived. Second, to bring about a revival of the friendship of foreign nations, lost through the policies of the present administration.

"Then," said he, "there will be a demand for a new departure in government finance, a call for the government to issue a billion dollars or more in currency through the federal reserve system, based on the three billions of gold the United States now has in its control in excess of the securities that are out resting on a gold reserve.

Not Old Greenback Type.

"It will not be the old greenbacks issue as under Grant, or the silver issue as under Bryan, but it will be under authority of the federal reserve act which provides that the federal reserve bank may enlarge the issue of notes as the demands of commerce and business require.

"Business men and toilers will demand the issue of that money, to pay mostly for the public improvements which President Hoover himself has said should be undertaken."

"The prohibition question, which lately has agitated so many leaders of both parties, will take a secondary option to this money problem as a national issue," said Senator Lewis.

Were times going to get better? Not until after the elections. Men did not spend their money on new enterprise during a time of social and political uncertainty.

He foresaw four presidential candidates in 1932, the regular Republican and Democratic candidates, a candidate of the "dissatisfied Republicans," and a prohibition party candidate who would be secretly encouraged by the Republicans in the belief that he would cut into the Democratic vote in doubtful states.

Pose as Delivery Men to Rob Home of Actress

Two bandits who posed as delivery men yesterday gained entrance to the apartment of Miss Winifred Wilson, an actress now in New York, on the tenth floor at 210 East Pearson street and escaped with a diamond studded wrist watch, value unknown, and an imitation pearl necklace valued at $25. They tied and gagged Miss Wilson's sister, Mrs. Louise Brennan of Houston, Tex., and a maid, and locked them in a bedroom before leaving.

Lovely COMPLEXION that nothing will remove

WOULD you like a lovely skin? A complexion that won't come off—a radiant color all your own? If constipation is the cause of your troubles give your system the little calcium that it needs—and note the immediate improvement.

Five days will very often transform a muddy, blotchy, sallow complexion resulting from this condition. From the very first day, you should see and feel the difference.

Tiny, gentle, Stuart's Calcium Wafers help Nature to quickly rid the system of impurities and poisonous wastes that cause pimples, blotches, acne and other skin blemishes. A week-end's use will frequently work a wondrous change.

A FEW DAYS' TEST WILL TELL

Bright, sparkling eyes! Clear, satin-smooth skin free from faults! Nails and hair alive and glossy with sound growth! And a warm flush of natural color radiating from within—refreshingly lovely color that no rouge can imitate, and nothing can remove. Try this week-end test.

$50,000,000 FOR WATERWAY JOBS MADE AVAILABLE

Illinois River Link Gets $2,328,300 More.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—Allotments of more than $50,000,000 for carrying on river and harbor development work during the next year were announced today by Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley. Of this sum $2,328,300 is set aside for continued operations on the Illinois river link of the lakes to the gulf waterway. This latest allocation for the Illinois river is in addition to $1,200,000 allotted by the war department out of the $22,500,000 emergency river and harbor appropriation approved during the early weeks of the short session.

Provide Many New Jobs.

The exact total of $52,819,245 allotted for government development operations is made up of $50,696,111 from the $60,000,000 provided in the regular annual war department appropriation bill for the 1932 fiscal year and the balances remaining from the 1930 supply bill and the emergency appropriation for the relief of unemployment. A reserve of around $10,000,000 was set aside for future allotment.

"These allotments provide for carrying forward many important projects, and will aid materially in the further relief of unemployment," Secretary Hurley asserted. "The Missouri river receives by far the largest single allocation. Up to this time, during this fiscal year the Missouri river has received allocations totaling $13,385,000."

The funds allocated today are immediately available for expenditure on the government projects progressing in various sections of the country. According to war department officials, work will go forward as expeditiously as possible. In event all the funds made available by the short session are expended before the end of the 1932 fiscal year, the plan is to ask congress for additional funds when the first deficiency bill is introduced.

Allocations Listed.

Allocations in the great lakes area include:

Mississippi river between Illinois and Wisconsin rivers	$1,812,000
Mud Creek and South Slough, Ill.	37,500

Indiana harbor, Ind.	286,000
Michigan City harbor, Ind.	113,000
Examinations, surveys and contingencies [general] second Chicago district	24,630

Lake States Fare Well.

The total allocated for the great lakes states amounts to $6,385,815.75. The Illinois river, counting the emergency allotment, will have $3,528,300 during this year. The total authorizations for the Illinois river from the lakes to the Mississippi amount to $11,000,000. Counting this last allotment, a total of $5,728,294 has not been expended or allotted for the Illinois river. A total of $5,271,706 remains unallocated.

Convict's Death Stirs House Inquiry Into Prison Affairs

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., March 12.—[Special.]—Coddling and pampering of convicts at Joliet state prison and counter-charges of severity are to be investigated by the house committee of five members named today by Speaker David Shanahan as a part of an inquiry into the death of Convict Joseph Coakley, who died in "solitary" at Joliet Sunday.

Gov. Emmerson today ordered an investigation, and a resolution introduced in the house by Floor Leader Roger F. Little [Rep., Champaign] was unanimously supported.

The committee is empowered to inquire into conditions at the penitentiary and the treatment of prisoners. There has been criticism that prisoners have been treated like guests at summer resorts and that sentimentality has been running amuck, and that the recent jail break that resulted in the deaths of escaping prisoners was the outcome of too much coddling of convicts.

Coakley's death has created some attention because he died from heart trouble while handcuffed to a cell door for discipline. The coroner's jury decided it was a heart attack. It led to charges of cruel treatment, and the investigation into both coddling and severity as opposite sides of the pictures is the result.

Committee Appointed.

Rules were suspended, the resolution was adopted, and Speaker Shanahan immediately appointed an investigating committee of five which will hold a hearing at the prison next week. Little heads the committee.

Serving with him will be Representatives M. L. Igoe, Democratic minority leader from Chicago; Harry M. McCaskrin [Rep., Rock Island], William G. Thon [Rep., Chicago], and M. E. Brav [Dem., Litchfield].

"In order to assure an impartial investigation and keep charges of politics out of it, I have named both the majority and minority leaders to this committee," Speaker Shanahan announced.

For State Police Radio.

Other business in the house this morning included the introduction of a bill by Representative Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Mundelein], which would grant the department of public works and buildings an appropriation of $75,000 for a radio broadcasting station.

Lyons has in mind a system of radio communication for installation in the state police system as an aid to the apprehension of bank robbers and other criminals. Through the system, a person wishing to report a crime would only have to lift his telephone receiver and ask for the state police headquarters at Springfield. The call would be given precedence and the instant it was received at Springfield details of the crime would be broadcast to district headquarters all over the state. The press of a button in district headquarters would light red lamps on telephone poles on highways where the patrolmen were on duty with motorcycles and they would immediately phone headquarters.

POLICE FIRE ON THIEVES IN AUTO CHASE; SEIZE ONE

After a chase through loop streets last night, in which more than a dozen shots were fired, Policemen William Fuller and Arthur Smith of the Central station flivver squad captured a young automobile thief who escaped last Saturday from the St. Charles reformatory. He is Walter Zarzycki, 17 years old, 1227 West Erie street.

With a companion, Zarzycki was tampering with a parked automobile at La Salle street and Wacker drive when the flivver squad approached. The pair got into another automobile and fled. The chase led south to Lake street, east to Clark and then north, with the police firing at the youths. At Kinzie street the fugitives turned west to La Salle street, where they abandoned the car and tried to escape on foot.

Zarzycki said that his companion, who escaped, was Joseph Sayers, 17 years old, 17 North Bishop street, who escaped from the St. Charles institution at the same time he did. The automobile in which they were riding was stolen from A. Peterson, 544 Sheridan square, Evanston.

Officer Wounds, Captures Brother in Bank Robbery

Poplar Bluff, Mo., March 12.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Wiley Owens Jr. was one of the leaders of a posse which today wounded and captured Owens' brother, Thadus Owens, 21, and a companion two hours after they had held up and robbed the bank of Harville, near here.

CROWD LOOKS ON AS ACTRESS HAS HER FACE LIFTED

New York, March 12.—(AP)—While an orchestra played today in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Pennsylvania five women fainted and 1,500 men and women, delegates to the international convention of beauty shop owners, watched the first face lifting operation ever performed in public.

Motion picture cameras ground under Klieg lights. On a raised platform Dr. J. Howard Crum, plastic surgeon of New York and Chicago, cut and snipped, modeling youth on one side of the face of Mrs. Martha E. Petelle, nearly 60, former film actress, who hopes she may get back into the talkies to play "mother" roles.

Mrs. Petelle, under a local anaesthetic, chatted with her daughter as the operator, working from a youthful drawing of the former actress, sketched lines on her face in iodine and endeavored to do a faithful reproduction by surgical means.

One side of Mrs. Petelle's face was "done" today; the other side will be rejuvenated in private tomorrow.

Two Prisoners Identified as Indiana Bank Bandits

William Lejcar, 25 years old, 1902 South Ashland avenue, and John Hitch, 23 years old, of Indianapolis, were arrested as robbery suspects yesterday by Policemen Bicek, Pidgeon and Lalla of the Lawndale district at 26th street and Sacramento avenue. Last night they were identified by two employés and a depositor of the bank of Circleville, Ind., as two of the three robbers who held up that institution on Feb. 19 and escaped with $1,400.

"Chicago Ganga" Popular Card Game in Berlin Now

Heins M. Wromsky, traffic chief of a system of German airways, who stopped in Chicago yesterday, brought word that a new card game known as "Chicago Ganga" has become popular in Berlin society circles. "We all take it as a joke," he added. "We talk about Chicago's gunmen a great deal, but we always laugh. We know your bad reputation must be exaggerated." Herr Wromsky is in this country surveying American air lines. He pictured Chicago as the great air center of the future.

What do the grim watchdogs of the desert know of luxuries? Well, try to take their Chesterfields away from them! Over there—and here too—a good cigarette means good tobaccos. What you taste in Chesterfield cigarettes is milder and better tobaccos—nothing else—blended and "cross-blended" to produce a satisfying fragrance, a flavor which is Chesterfield's alone!

Chesterfield

Greater mildness ... better taste!

FOR NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.

SEARS-ROEBUCK GETS READY TO SELL INSURANCE

Officers of Mail Order House Form Company.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., one of the largest mail order houses in the country, is preparing to enter the insurance business with a view to selling their customers insurance as they have sold them washing machines, harness, rubber boots and other merchandise, namely, through the mails.

This was learned yesterday from the fact that articles of incorporation have been filed at Springfield for the Allstate Insurance company, with officers of Sears, Roebuck & Co. listed as incorporators.

Start with Auto Insurance.

Carl L. Odell, Chicago insurance broker, who has had a hand in the organization of the new company, said that although the promoters of the venture have not decided on the scope of its operation, one of the first features would be the selling of automobile insurance. While the capital stock is fixed at $350,000 it is understood that the company plans to broaden its business, should experiment in the sale of auto insurance prove successful.

Whenever insurance men gathered yesterday this unusual departure in marketing insurance was a subject of lively discussion. It was believed by them that policies would be sold over the counter and perhaps listed in the company's famous mail order catalogue. One report was that Allstate planned to sell insurance at 20 per cent off the standard rate.

Plan to Solicit Employés.

Mr. Odell said that tentative plans were to start solicitation among the Sears-Roebuck employés. The Allstate company's charter authorizes it to write all types of insurances for automobiles as well as insurance in other lines.

The National Underwriter, an insurance trade journal, in its issue yesterday said that the formation of the company had "startled the insurance world." It added that if the insurance is sold on the mail order plan "it will be, in principal at least, one of the severest jolts that the American agency system has suffered."

The incorporators of the new insurance company are R. E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; G. H. Humphrey, assistant to the president; Charles Lederer, general counsel; Sigmund Livingston, partner of Mr. Lederer; E. H. Powell, treasurer; C. L. Schenk, assistant to the vice president; W. J. Pitts, auditor; T. V. Houser and J. H. Westrich. There are nine directors.

SENATE BILLS WOULD MAKE COOK JUDICIAL BOARD PERMANENT

Springfield, Ill., March 12.—[Special.]—Measures to make permanent the Cook county judicial advisory council were introduced in the senate today by Senator Arthur Husbach [Rep., Brookfield].

In the last year the council has been instrumental in bringing about notable changes in criminal procedure. In particular it took up the test cases from Judge Harry M. Fisher's court on which the Supreme court gave its decisions allowing jury waiver in criminal cases and knocking out the century old law making juries judges of the law as well as of the fact. The Husbach bill authorizes the county board of Cook county to create an advisory council of five to serve without compensation to study laws relating to judicial organization, criminal law and procedure and draft remedial bills.

Cook county taxes for 1930 are made delinquent May 1 instead of April 1 in a bill by Senator P. J. Carroll [Dem., Chicago], and 1930 taxes are set for delinquency Jan. 1, 1932, instead of Dec. 1, 1931.

MANIAC FIRES 2 BARNS, ATTACKS COUPLE; IS SLAIN

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—An unidentified man, a maniac, set fire to the barn on the farm of Gilbert Welsh, near Long Valley, N. J., early today, attacked Mr. Welsh and his wife, ran through the house screaming and waving a lighted lantern, interfered with firemen and finally was shot and killed as he attempted to attack a state trooper.

By a strange quirk in the mind of the maniac, he opened the barn doors after setting them on fire and allowed 150 head of cattle to escape. The barns, however, were destroyed. The loss was $50,000.

The maniac is believed to have escaped from some institution. An autopsy was performed by an alienist, who said he believed the man to be a victim of dementia praecox, which manifested itself in pyromania.

FIND SCHROEDER GUILTY; FACES 2 TO 21 YEAR TERM

Indianapolis, Ind., March 12.—(AP)—Harold Herbert Schroeder, 35, of Mobile, Ala., was convicted of voluntary manslaughter by a Criminal court jury tonight for the death of an unidentified man whose charred body was found in Schroeder's automobile near here last May 31. The verdict carries a penalty of two to 21 years.

The state sought to show that Schroeder hoped the dead man would be taken as evidence that he himself had died in the fire and that he could continue his life under another name.

Schroeder insisted that the victim suffered fatal injuries while riding in his car and that he burned the body, fearing that he might be accused of causing the man's death. Schroeder said the victim was a hitch hiker he had picked up.

Bank Employes Held Up; Robber Pair Take $4,800

James Moran, 7951 Prairie avenue, and Elmer Bohlan, 8127 Anthony Avenue, collectors of deposits for the Calumet National bank at 9047 Commercial avenue, were robbed of $2,800 and checks for $2,000 yesterday by two Negroes. The collectors had just left the branch office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company at 7915 Exchange avenue when the robbers halted them.

Choose your Pharmacist as carefully as you choose your Doctor

The Pharmacist is the Physician's ally.

The drugs and pharmaceuticals the Physician prescribes are among the most important weapons with which he battles disease.

But in order that the patient may derive the full benefit which the Physician has a right to expect, these drugs and pharmaceuticals must be fresh and potent, and accurately and skilfully compounded under clean and sanitary conditions.

Our immense prescription business, (right now the largest in our history) causes a rapid turnover of stocks which insures fresh and active medicaments. Our prescription departments are models of cleanliness and order. Our Pharmacists are registered by the State Boards of Pharmacy and experienced in their work.

We are therefore thoroughly equipped to render that expert service which the Physician expects from his ally the Pharmacist

"Purotest" and "Rexall" Products

This care and regard for the public safety are carried into other departments of the store as well. We make our own brands of standard remedies and toilet needs under the Purotest and Rexall labels, just as we make our own drugs and pharmaceuticals: to insure their purity and freshness.

PREPARING FOR OBSERVANCE OF ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Glimpse Into Candy Store Window Is Helpful.

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Wearing the green on St. Patrick's day is one way of paying tribute to the saint and at the same time greeting the infant spring season. Another way is to give a party. If at first you feel in the mood, the briefest glimpse into a candy store window, with its array of Irish potato sweetmeats, chocolate pigs, clover candies and miniature green stove pipe hats, will put you in a holiday and hospitable frame of mind.

With all these emblems, and of course the ever present shamrock to choose from, decorating the festive board will be a simple matter for even the busiest of hostesses. In case you are in doubt about the origin of some of these symbols, St. Patrick used the shamrock to illustrate the doctrine of the Trinity when he was converting the Irish. The porker has an established place as the first domestic animal of Erin, serving Ireland as the bulldog serves England and the cock France.

Its National Potato.

Only the Irish potato recently has had its place in the St. Patrick's day festivities assailed. From Menominee, Mich., a scant fortnight before the fateful 17th of March, one iconoclast wrote to the Voice of the People declaring that the Irish potato is not in fact Irish but of strictly American descent.

In this emergency the encyclopedia was called upon to defend a cherished belief, but alas; the iconoclast was right. As a sop to St. Patrick's day celebrants the encyclopedist had, however, added that all or almost all that the potato has become it owes to its foster country. Introduced as a savage curiosity into Europe by the Spaniards early in the 16th century, the "battata" or "papa" as it was called, was first cultivated for food on Sir Walter Raleigh's estate near Cork around 1586.

More, if America does not owe the potato to the Irish, it does at least owe a large proportion of its Irish population to the potato. If it had not been for the great potato famine of 1846, so many Irish could never have been persuaded to leave the Emerald isle even for these shores, the encyclopedist declared.

History of Patron Saint.

Having thus established the right of the potato to be in on the party, let us speak of St. Patrick himself. He was born about the year 389 in Scotland, most authorities agree. His first connection with Ireland came when Irish bandits kidnaped him at the age of sixteen and held him captive six years. Later, after years of study in the church, he returned as bishop of Ireland to convert his captors, and personally baptized some 12,000 converts and founded nearly 400 churches.

Best known is the tradition of his having banished snakes from Ireland and that other story of his defying the Druids on Tara hill by burning the Paschal fire on Easter eve. First the Druids vainly tried to extinguish the fire, then they raised a great darkness which they could not dispel and which St. Patrick caused to disappear. Finally they were lifted in the air and dashed to pieces on rocks, leaving the Irish chieftains convinced of St. Patrick's superior powers.

Three Menus for the Day.

Herewith are presented two luncheons and a dinner for St. Patrick's day:

LUNCHEON.
Grapefruit supreme.
Grilled lamb chop with mint jelly.
Potato croquettes, cylinder shaped on toast, stuffed with creamed new peas.
Clover leaf rolls.
Celery, olives, pickles.
Pear salad with Roquefort cheese dressing
Angel food basket filled with pistache ice cream
After dinner mints
Coffee

LUNCHEON.
Fruit cocktail, diced grapefruit, white cherry, honeydew melon balls
Chicken a la king in patty shells
Fresh buttered asparagus on cloverleaf toast
Cucumber and lettuce salad
Rolls
Guava jelly
Avocado ice cream
White cake and coffee

DINNER.
Hors d'oeuvres
Consommé with fresh green peas
Roast chicken
Parsley potatoes
Buttered cauliflower
Spinach and egg salad
Hard rolls, currant jelly
Pineapple ice garnished with candied mint leaves
Assorted fancy cakes, coffee

The hors d'oeuvres on the dinner consist of canned artichokes served with green and yellow butter, hard cooked egg whites, stuffed with caviar, anchovies canapes, thick tomato slices with slices of avocado on top, and cucumber sliced in aspic.

GRAPEFRUIT SUPREME.

Cut in half a large grapefruit and remove the core. Detach the sections with a sharp grapefruit knife. Remove three sections in a row. Replace the first section with a section of orange, the next with a piece of avocado pear, or if this is not desired a piece of canned pear colored green, and the next section with a piece of pineapple cut in the shape of a section of grapefruit. Allow the fourth section of grapefruit to remain and continue around the grapefruit in the same manner. There are usually eleven sections in a grapefruit, so there should be about three sections of each different kind of fruit. Dice the removed sections of grapefruit and place in the center where the core was removed. Top the central mound of grapefruit with a green cherry. Serve very cold with powdered sugar.

AVOCADO ICE CREAM.

½ teaspoonful vanilla.
2 cups milk.
1 cup cream.
1 cup avocado pulp.
1 egg white.
½ cup finely sliced avocado.
2 tablespoonfuls lemon juice or 4 tablespoonfuls orange juice.

Boil the sugar and the water until they will form a sirup. Remove from the fire, add the vanilla, and cool. Add the milk and cream. Place in the freezer and freeze to a mush (this will take about ten minutes). Beat the avocado pulp with a rotary egg beater until creamy. Add the stiffly beaten egg white and beat until well combined. Fold in the sliced avocado and the fruit juice. Add to the ice cream mush, and freeze hard. Remove the dasher from the freezer, plug up the hole in the lid, cover with salt and ice, and allow to stand for a few hours to improve the flavor. Yields two quarts.

Nev' Min' Dem Calories

Betrothal Party Should Be Informal—Suggestions Given

"Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So announce the engagement of their daughter——"

These lines in the society column suggest an event of great moment in a girl's life—the party at which her engagement is announced. Preceding the trousseau tea, the bridal dinner, and the wedding itself, as well as any number of parties for which the bride may be called upon to make suggestions, the affair is one to be planned carefully. Informality is the only rule to bear in mind, for the party may be anything from a breakfast to a dinner, although a luncheon, tea, or combination of the two would undoubtedly be the popular choice if a vote were cast.

If the home is large and adapted to entertaining and the cost of the affair no particular consideration, a luncheon for eight or ten of intimate friends, followed by a tea for a hundred or more friends of the hostess and her mother, provides an occasion never to be forgotten. Plans for the event, the menu as well as decorations, might appropriately take daughter's favorite color combination as their keynote.

Suggestions for Table.

If this is yellow and white, perchance, the luncheon table, covered with lace runners, would be attractive with a centerpiece of calla lilies and yellow roses flanked by silver candelabra holding ivory tapers. Individual candleholders with tiny white or yellow candles tied with a spray of lily of the valley and the place card might be used to complete the plan of decoration.

For this particular color scheme the menu could well include cream of mushroom soup and celery and olives, followed by chicken cutlets and mushrooms served on a silver platter decorated with tangerine baskets filled with yellow apple balls and calla lily flowers deftly made of turnips and carrot. A noodle ring covered with grated carrots and filled with fresh peas and tiny finger rolls might complete the main course. The salad would be effective with a cheese mold in the center surrounded by grapefruit and fresh pears sliced on lettuce. Toasted cheese wafers are delicious with this salad.

For the Dessert Course.

In the dessert course the hostess has an opportunity to express her individuality. A blanc mange mold in heart shape, perhaps marked with the initials of the two principals and served with fresh strawberries, is always a favorite. To make it more festive, it might be decorated with an illuminated calla lily of spun sugar.

Then the demitasse, and the luncheon is a memory. Slipping on the proverbial diamond announces the secret to this group of eight or ten intimates who are to assist at the tea set for four o'clock. Announcement of the betrothal to the larger group of guests might be carried out with gardenias or roses to which silver hearts have been attached bearing the names of the hostess and her fiancé.

Menu for the Tea.

For this affair the lace runners are replaced by a lace and linen table cloth. One of the guests presides over the silver tea service placed at one end of the table, and another friend is in charge of the coffee urn at the other end. Chicken puffs, anchovy toast rolls, open faced sandwiches spread with cream cheese or sardines, ribbon sandwiches, nuts, glacé tangerines, and tiny iced cakes in heart shape fill the festive board. Nor is a guest allowed to depart before she has been served a delicate heart-shaped mold of ice cream.

Six o'clock chimes—the last guest has departed—the engagement is announced!

TEACH CHILDREN WHAT'S GOOD AND THEY WILL LIKE IT

Including Spinach, Bread and Raw Cabbage.

BY VIRGINIA SCHMITZ.

When we were very young we learned to sniff at a good many foods that the younger and younger generations will list among their favorites, if trends at the demonstration school conducted by the National College of Education in Evanston are in point.

There children from pre-school age up to sixth grade are served luncheon daily according to balanced menus planned in the home economics department headed by Miss Beatrice Billings. And they are eating their spinach and liking it, drinking milk without complaint, and developing few idiosyncrasies in the way of food likes and dislikes.

Get Tastes from Parents.

Not only is the food served them at school planned, but a food score card is furnished the parents along with the noon menu for the week, so that supplementary home meals may be served. Not infrequently the menu for the whole family is arranged on the same basis.

According to Miss Billings, most food likes and dislikes in children are taken over from their parents' food habits. Johnnie won't eat tomatoes because he's seen dad refuse them, and if mother leaves her cabbage untouched, so will Mary Anne.

At conferences between parents and faculty, when the children are placed in the nursery school, these difficulties are uncovered to be worked out in the class under the supervision of Miss Edith Maddox.

Cooked vegetables and raw green ones, milk, eggs, fruit, cereal and whole grain bread form the basis of the child's diet along with one serving of fish a week, and meat occasionally.

Quart of Milk a Day.

The daily food allowance for the pre-school child from 2 years until six, according to the score prepared by Dr. Henry C. Sherman and Mrs. Mary Schwartz Rose of Columbia university, and used by the National College of Education, includes one quart of milk a day. This to be served as a beverage, in milk toast, on cereals, with vegetables, in soups and in simple desserts, such as custard, rice, bread, and sea moss puddings.

Two servings of vegetables a day in addition to potatoes is recommended. Raw vegetables, such as chopped lettuce, chopped spinach, chopped cabbage, grated carrots or chopped celery, are suggested. Miss Billings has found for the younger child that it is best to serve these in sandwiches, since they cannot handle salad as such, and are delighted with raw vegetable sandwiches.

Fruit and Brown Breads.

Any cooked fruit may make up one of the two fruit servings for the day. Peaches, pears and apples if ripe may be given raw, and orange juice, grapefruit juice or tomato juice are planned for each day.

At least one serving of cereal and hard toast, or whole grain breads—graham, whole wheat or entire wheat—with a little butter; one egg daily, coddled, poached or cooked in other foods such as custard; lamb, beef or chicken for the meat servings two or three times a week, and sea food once a week are other foods listed.

Heavy Meal at Noon.

In addition to the fruits and simple desserts allowed, sponge cake and plain cookies or a small piece of pure sugar candy may be given occasionally as dessert. Cod liver oil—from a quarter to two teaspoons daily, and one or two cups of water finish the child's requirements.

Mothers are expected to make up in the home the foods not given the children at school. Noon is recommended as the time for the heavy meal of the day and most of the vegetable requirements are given there as well as meat and eggs.

A sample menu includes:

Monday.
Orange Juice
Cream of Tomato Soup, Croutons
Stalks of Celery
Lettuce and Cream Cheese Sandwiches
Milk
Apple Brown Betty, Custard Sauce [egg].

Tuesday.
Tomato Juice.
Broiled Liver and Bacon.
Escalloped Potatoes Carrots and Peas
Toast Milk
Fruit Cup.

Wednesday.
Grape Juice
Golden Rod Egg
Mashed Potato String Beans
Raw Cabbage Sandwich
Milk
Stewed Prunes and Apricots
Molasses Cookies

Thursday.
Orange Juice
Baked Potato Buttered Spinach
Creamed Yellow Turnip
Toast Milk
Butterscotch Pudding [egg]

Friday.
Tomato Juice
Baked Haddock, White Sauce
Mashed Potatoes Buttered Beets
Lettuce Sandwich
Milk
Lemon Junket Oatmeal Cookie

The fruit juices are given to the children in mid-morning. With these menus, breakfasts and suppers could be made by choosing from cereals with milk, eggs on days when the noon menu had no egg; milk toast, cream soup, creamed vegetables with the addition of fruit or a simple pudding.

Coolidge Likes Cooked Wheat and So, Indeed, May You

Former President Coolidge believes in eating wheat as a cereal, and recently revealed this food fancy as he entertained the federal farm board, which has grappled with the huge wheat surplus. It was a breakfast meeting, at which the cereal dish was a porridge of wheat and rye.

Wheat is inexpensive and has the advantage of satisfying the appetite as well as presenting an excellent source of many elements necessary for good nutrition, according to Aneta Beadle of the home economics extension staff of Purdue university. She recommends wheat also in combinations with other foods, such as meat, fish, and vegetables.

The following are some ways of cooking wheat which may be served as a breakfast cereal or combined with other foods:

Methods of Cooking Whole Wheat.

Sort the whole wheat grains and wash thoroughly. For each cup of wheat add 1½ cups of water and soak over night.

Wheat Cooked Over Direct Heat.

In the morning add 3 cups of water and 1 teaspoon of salt to each cup of soaked wheat. Boil gently for 3½ hours or until tender and no uncooked starchy flavor. If necessary, add more boiling water during the cooking to keep the right consistency.

Steamed Wheat.

In the morning drain the wheat and place in a thin layer in the top of a steamer. The water must be kept boiling in the lower part of the steamer and it is necessary to add boiling water during the cooking period. Steam the wheat for 3½ hours. Sprinkle salt over the wheat before serving.

Wheat Cooked in the Fireless Cooker.

In the morning add 1 cup of water and ½ teaspoon of salt to each cup of soaked wheat. Place in a kettle and bring to the boiling point over direct heat. Cover and place in a kettle between the hot stones. After 3 hours reheat the stones and cook the wheat for 2½ hours longer.

Veal Is Most Economical Buy for the Week-End

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on marketing information of the meat council of Chicago states: "Veal is recommended to housewives of Chicago as the most economical meat buy over the coming week-end. Veal roast and cutlet, especially from the fore quarter, are available at unusually attractive prices."

To Avoid Grease Scum on Glassware

BY MARY LEE WORK

An easier way to do dishes and 2 other hard jobs. Try it yourself and see

Most women are troubled with a cloudy, greasy film on dishes and glassware no matter how carefully they wash them.

You can avoid this entirely with a preparation called Climalene, used according to the directions below. It's the same preparation that smart shops use to make the china and glassware you see on display shine and sparkle so marvelously ... And in addition, it cuts dishwashing time in half and keeps one's hands lovely.

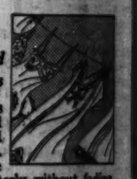
It makes two other hard jobs easier too—family washing and cleaning silver. You can get a package for 10 cents (12-oz. package) at any grocery store.

Women who use it save themselves hours of needless work. You too, can find time to enjoy life—shop, go to the movies, do many of the things you now think only a woman with servants can do.

To Make Dishes Sparkle Like Jewels

Add one teaspoonful of Climalene to a dishpan of water, use only ¼ the amount of soap you now use. It instantly cuts the grease from dishes and cooking utensils, makes glassware sparkle and china gleam. The Climalene-softened water, plus certain bland cleansing agents, cuts your dishwashing time ¼ or more—saves ¼ or more the soap you now use.

To Avoid Faded Gray Washings



Use 2 tablespoons of Climalene, and ¼ the usual amount of soap. Clothes emerge soft, spotless, utterly without fading. For soap fade and soap eat are ended this way. In recent tests men's blue shirts were washed 75 times without noticeable fade; sheerest French hosiery 100 times or more—to prove the blandness of this way.

To Clean Silver Without Rubbing

Add one teaspoonful of Climalene to 2 quarts of water in an aluminum pan. Immerse the silver—bring it to a boil. Then rinse silver, and wipe dry. That is all. All signs of tarnish disappear. Even the most intricate and highly embossed silver patterns are perfectly cleaned.

Why It Cleans

Climalene instantly takes all the hardness out of Lake water, medium hard water, and hard water. Makes it soft and gentle as rain water. So soft it does the work with ¼ the soap you now use. At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all grease, dirt and grime, and thus cuts your working time ¼ or more, in washing, cleaning and in the dishpan.

38 CENTS A DAY BUYS RATIONS FOR A SOLDIER

Ft. Sheridan Trains Chefs for "Best Fed" Army.

BY FRANK CIPRIANI.

In case any tears are being shed in sympathy for the poor, underfed soldier, please dry them, for Uncle Sam, the great provider, takes ample care of his khaki clad defenders, and feeds them three square meals a day. And he does so at the unbelievably slim cost of 38 cents a day per man.

What the soldier eats, how well he eats, the manner of feeding him and kindred subjects dealing with peacetime military cuisine were subjects studied at Fort Sheridan the other day through permission of Brig. Gen. Manus McCloskey, post commandant, and with the aid of Maj. Aristeo Bisnal, chaplain, and Capt. Alton W. Howard. It is Gen. McCloskey's conviction that the United States army is the best fed army in the world.

"The public has an idea our soldiers subsist principally on beans and such grub," said the commandant. "Instead, our men receive substantial, well prepared and scientifically balanced foods. And enough of it, too."

Ration allowances, that is, the monetary allotments, fluctuate from month to month. During March 38 cents is apportioned for the feeding of each man for one day. This figures a fraction less than 13 cents per meal.

Tells How to Cook.

The actual food ration, the market price of which determines the individual daily cost, is designated as 18 ounces a day for each man, or approximately five pounds! It is separated into 31 components. Of the 18 ounce allotment, 18 is of beef. Quite naturally, no one, at least at Fort Sheridan, stows away 36 ounces of provender at three sittings, nor 18 ounces of beef. Incidentally, the saving on beef is applied to other components. And all this for 38 cents per day a man.

Lest certain critical husbands cite these figures to their wives to effect table cost savings, it should be explained one of the secrets for the army's extraordinary food values at such small costs, is in quantity buying by contract at best market prices. Other secrets are exact knowledge of how many persons are to be fed, and a strict observance against waste.

"There is only one way to cook, and that is to cook right," says Capt. Howard, assistant commandant of the School for Bakers and Cooks. "By cooking right, waste is eliminated. By eliminating waste, cost is reduced. Here we figure our costs to the fifth decimal.

"There is no waste in the army kitchen. Nothing is thrown away. And we save food by cooking it as we need it. Moreover, we serve cafeteria style, and each soldier is served the same amount, and can have second helpings. We can accomplish so much with so little because we prepare just enough food for the men we serve. It has been proved that a group of from 150 to 200 persons can be given food as well prepared and as good as home food. Our menus are well balanced, according to scientific recommendation regarding proteins and other values.

To provide for the approximately 1,400 men at Fort Sheridan, seventeen kitchens are going daily. Below are samples of the average menus for Uncle Sam's men, one a week day bill of fare, the other a Sunday bill:

The week day menu:

At Fort Sheridan is maintained the school for bakers and cooks, where future army chefs are trained for the various regular army, citizens, and National Guard encampments in the 6th corps area. The school proper is the antithesis of dirt. Cleanliness is the maxim. No soil, no grime, no dust, all proverbially spick and span, and nothing inimical to the pure preparation of food permitted. The chefs, in immediate charge of Staff Sergt. Truman Clevenger, are neat, clean, and dressed in white. The kitchen students are trained four months, half their instruction being theoretical, and half practical. The school includes two departments, one for baking and one for cooking.

From this school are turned out delicious pies, cakes, and pastries. The ingredients used are excellent, the preparation expert, and the taste delicious. Such delicacies as these must surely be a lure to military service. They are, according to Warrant Officer James M. Boland, assistant to Capt. Howard, for even fighting men have sweet teeth.

Commissary Figures Cost.

The commissary, in charge of Capt. Waldo E. Ard, supplies the school and the various kitchens with foodstuffs. It is a large building in which are stored supplies for three months. Here the cost of food per man daily is figured, and here the food allotment assigned to the kitchens.

The efficiency of the different kitchens in avoiding waste is recorded at the commissary. Some chefs show in the "red" at the expiration of the month. Some show substantial profits. Files prove that the 6th army corps area, which includes Fort Sheridan, has the lowest average daily cost per man. In November Fort Sheridan fed its soldiers at an average cost of 41 cents a man per day.

Maintain Store for Families.

At the commissary is a retail store maintained for officers and married noncommissioned officers and enlisted men, and for families generally.

At Fort Sheridan all is efficiency, from the cooking of the simplest tidbit to huge quantities of beef pies. Modern utensils, mixing and cutting machines, and every cooking device are utilized. But as Capt. Howard points out, machines can never supplant the human touch in the creation of savory, tasty dishes. Nor, as two future chefs demonstrated at the school, can machines ever pare spuds.

If, as has been eminently said, an army travels on its stomach, that part of Uncle Sam's army at Fort Sheridan ought to go a mighty long way.

O, FOR THE LIFE OF A SOLDIER!

The life of a soldier at Fort Sheridan isn't so hard to take—look at this delicious dessert. Warrant Officer James M. Boland, Staff Sergeant Truman Clevenger and Capt. Alton W. Howard are examining delicacies to be served the north shore troopers.

EVEN DOUBTERS RELISH TASTE OF AVOCADOS

And Tradition Calls Them a Food for Long Life.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Since wistful eyes watched the gates of Eden swing to, a dream of finding again the source of perpetual youth has reached into far places. Hence the life-giving elixirs, magic fires and fountains of folklore.

In the sunny tropical and subtropical regions that lie to the south of the Rio Grande a rainbow aura of promise encircles each grass woven basket into which brown hands have gathered together purple, crimson, maroon or deep green fruits of the avocado. Whys and wherefores meet only with conjecture.

But ask of the ancient Indio who assures you that with the fruit she offers you will purchase also long, happy years of youth, "Where have you learned of the marvelous potency of these 'aguacates' in your basket, madrecita?" and she will answer, "Who knows, señorita? It is common knowledge that their is the power of preserving the vigor, light-heartedness and beauty of the young. Always and everywhere have I heard that upon him who leads a virtuous life and eats of the aguacate will descend these blessings; and when at last age creeps into his body they shall still blossom in his heart without blight. From whence come these promises? Señorita, quién sabe?".

Come to Northern Markets.

Luxuriant yields from orchards of avocados that in recent years, have grown to maturity in the West Indies, California, Florida and other southern states, have overflowed into our more northerly markets. Since its introduction in the United States, improved methods of transportation and distribution have made it possible during ten months of the year to bring this highly nutritive fruit of delicate flavor within the reach of most budgets; there are no longer many among us to whom it is unfamiliar.

And yet so many atrocities are committed in its name one is forced to conclude that but little is known of its potentialities. Exotic and individual, it will not yield itself to the trimmings and trappings we have devised for the embellishment of our sweet, juicy fruits of the temperate zones. Not for it a thick swirl of mayonnaise or rosettes of whipped cream. But study it from the standpoint of its own buttery richness and its possibilities when combined with lemon or tomato, grapefruit or lime.

It may take courage to serve a chilled calavo—California's favorite—its hollow filled with French dressing in which a generous quantity of lime juice is the primary ingredient, or simply with the dressing passed separately, but you will not likely forget soon the handclasp of the true lover of avocados when he tells you that your luncheon or dinner was delightful.

Here Is a Recipe.

One authority suggests scalloped avocado to be served as the main dish for luncheon. Line the bottom of your casserole with bread crumbs toasted in butter. Add a layer of avocado, sliced, seasoned with salt and a dash of Cayenne; repeat; cover the top with crumbs and bake until throughly heated.

If you favor cocktails try dicing an avocado, sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve in cocktail glasses with tomato catchup and lime juice sauce. Or mix grapefruit pulp in half portion to thinly sliced avocado, pour in maraschino juice and crown your cocktail with the cherries.

When your avocados go salad, an attractive dish can be fashioned by spreading slices fanwise on a bed of leaves of romaine. Served with French dressing in which lemon juice figures, the result will measure up to your highest salad standard. The same dressing may be used over a salad made of diced avocados combined with chopped Bermuda onion and served on a slice of tomato in a nest of crisp lettuce.

Almost as varied as are the colloquial names given them—midshipman's butter, alligator pear, butter pear, and others—are the purposes avocados serve on a dinner menu. A combination of avocados and dried beef is a favorite dish in Fiordia. In Central America it is the custom to add cubes of the fruit to meat soups at the time of serving. The West Indies offer a delicious omelette with finely cut avocado added in the same manner as we ordinarily use cheese or tomato.

Should your fancy ever desert the beaten path of travel and lead you away through the hills along some unfrequented Mexican byway, it is not unlikely that you will be graciously invited to share the campfire of a smiling indio and his supper of tortillas, aguacates and coffee. Then if you are apt in interpreting the lights that shine in men's eyes, recollections may return fragments of ancient tales concerning an Astec fruit which instills in those who eat of it the charms of perpetual youth.

HOT CROSS BUNS! WHAT THEY ARE, HOW TO MAKE THEM

Hot cross buns are in order in this country every day now until Easter. The history of these spicy, sugar coated delicacies which are so popular in England on Good Friday has been ascertained by members of the home economics division of the Minnesota university farm.

In London and all over England, the morning of Good Friday is ushered in with an almost universal cry of "Hot cross buns." A parcel of the buns appears on nearly every breakfast table, delivered by men, women and children astir early in the day and carrying large baskets covered with flannel and white cloth to keep the buns warm.

The home economics workers say the history of the bun has been traced back thousands of years.

The following recipe is said to be sufficient for 30 buns:

Two cups of milk, three-fourths cup of sugar, one-half cup of lard, one tablespoonful of salt, one ounce of yeast, two tablespoonsful of cinnamon, one and three-fourths quarts of flour, two eggs and one cup of raisins.

Don't let Rancid Oil in Stale Coffee keep you awake!

No RANCID OIL in Chase & Sanborn's . . . it's guaranteed fresh

Every can plainly marked with an expiration date!

MEDICAL research has now discovered that rancid oil found only in stale coffee is directly responsible for indigestion, headaches, sleeplessness.

There is one certain way you can avoid this menace. Use Chase & Sanborn's, the coffee that's guaranteed fresh.

This coffee is rushed to your grocer, straight from our roasters, every can plainly marked with an expiration date. Regularly our inspectors visit your grocer and check those dates. If they find any can whose date has expired, it is immediately replaced with a fresh one.

There seldom is need to replace any, because our deliveries are so frequent and your grocer's needs so carefully analyzed. But at any rate, you can't possibly buy a stale can of Chase & Sanborn's Coffee.

Avoid the dangers of stale, rancid coffee. Insist on Chase & Sanborn's, and look for the date when you buy!

You'll find this delicious quality blend reasonably priced, no higher than the ordinary packaged coffees.

ALL COFFEE CONTAINS OIL . . . approximately a half cup to every pound of coffee. In fresh coffee this oil is as sweet and fragrant as fresh butter. But when the coffee gets stale this oil turns rancid, just as butter does. It actually spoils . . . becomes toxic and dangerous. Science says this rancid oil causes indigestion, headaches, sleeplessness. Don't take chances. Use Chase & Sanborn's, the coffee you know is fresh. Then you'll be safe from the dangers of rancid oil!

THIS photograph was taken in a Virginia grocery store where the photographer bought expensive coffee that was more than six months old. His affidavit is on file!

WHAT TO EAT AT NOON PUZZLE TO WORKING GIRLS

Few Select Foods That Balance Diet.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

This lunching business gets to be an old story to the average business girl. Where to eat and what to eat once you get there are always the eternal seemingly unsolvable questions.

A good way of solving the "where" of the problem would be to list all of the eating houses which might be reached easily during the lunch hour. Go through the entire list in rotation, eating at one today, another tomorrow, and so on until the last restaurant is reached. Then start all over again. This would give variety in the way of food houses and would help relieve the monotony of gazing at the same menus and mural decorations day after day.

Noise Affects One's Nerves.

The noise and bustle which is characteristic of a good many restaurants and tea shops has a most alarming effect on one's nervous system. Probably nothing is more annoying than lunching in the midst of a bedlam, such as the clatter of dishes, shrill chatter, or strident laughter. Under these conditions one is liable to lose one's sense of equilibrium and dash wildly into the luncheon, finishing it in a few gulps. Result, the meal is almost a total loss.

On the other hand, a quiet and more dignified restaurant, where the noise of the hurrying footsteps is deadened by the carpeted floors, helps the digestion of the food. For in this restful atmosphere one can relax and eat slowly, enjoying each mouthful. As a result the luncheon has a most astonishing effect. After eating a meal in this setting, the whole world takes on a rosier hue. The sun seems brighter, the air fresher, and your fellow workers more pleasant.

What to Eat Is Poser.

As to what to eat, what one of us has not entered a restaurant and gazed listlessly through the menu of luncheons, salads, sandwiches, and whatnot, totally at loss as to what to order for the noontime repast—and finally giving up hopelessly and picking the victuals at random or playing the game of eeny meeny miny mo?

The daily luncheon of the average working girl probably is the most abused of all meals. In many instances, when the perplexities of shopping are uppermost in her mind, it is an eat and run affair. The midday eating problem is then solved by dashing into a nearby store and perching on a stool at the counter. The substance of one of these meals generally consists of a sandwich and a malted milk. All ordered and eaten in the record time of about 10 minutes. Of course, the inadequacy of this sort of lunch furnishes an excellent excuse for journeying to the lobby candy store and piecing during the afternoon.

Opportunity in This.

Restaurants, tea rooms and dining houses would, no doubt, do a land office business if they catered to the needs of the business girls and planned special inexpensive and nutritious meals which would come under the heading of "Business Girls' Luncheons." Such luncheons have been invented for the convenience of business men, so why not for the working girls?

Most girls do not take the trouble to select foods that will offer a balanced diet. To them it is just another luncheon. They forget that their luncheons, as well as their other meals, should include a variety of foods. Perhaps if they were not, as a whole, such a healthy lot, the motley assortment of food that they consume during their midday meal would have proven disastrous long before this.

Man Sized Meal for Woman.

Whether it is a full luncheon that is eaten or merely a salad, a sandwich, and a cup of coffee, tea, or a glass of milk, depends largely upon the amount consumed at breakfast time.

After starting the day with a hearty breakfast, a light luncheon would prove more tempting. But on the days when the alarm clock has failed to ring or you decide to miss the morning meal and catch a few extra winks of sleep, a regular luncheon with all of the trimmings looks good.

My favorite luncheon on a breakfastless day is one that almost has the makings of a man sized meal. It runs like this—an order of country sausage, a small portion of scalloped potatoes, sole slaw, roll and butter, coffee, and as a dessert, an orange milk sherbet. To top it off nothing tastes better than a few after dinner, or, in this case, after luncheon mints.

LETTUCE LONG RETRIEVED FROM LUXURY CLASS

Unlucky the Kitchen That Is Without It.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Let a monument be raised to the gardener who first made green the Ægean hills with the tender and sculptured leaves of lettuce! It was in the days of the great physician, Hippocrates, history relates, that this peasant farmer picked the fruit of his wizardry washed the leaves in the clear stream, dressed them with olive oil, and set before a lordly diner what we now term salad.

Fame should attend that gardener and ballads immortalize his name, for few explorations into the realm of eating have equaled this achievement in importance. Long out of the luxury class, we accept lettuce today as one of the ordinary items in our menu. Who of us has considered, however, just how the kitchen would run without it?

Lettuce is our chief salad ingredient. No longer does the fashionable world look upon it as a mere remnant or decoration, for even the most discriminating epicure will assure you there is nothing more pleasing to eat. There are other greens, to be sure, that may take its place in the salad, but no one of them has established an equal reputation or can boast such a universal appeal.

Salads a Modern Delicacy.

It was not until the last century that we Americans had much to do with salad aside from a few cold boiled turnip or beet greens eaten with a little vinegar. And we used those as a spring tonic, not because we were pining for them as a gastronomic delicacy. Once popularized, however, the salad has become one of the high lights of the dining picture.

The fact that lettuce is obtainable the year round allows for its use without thought of seasons. There is no time of the year when it is not welcomed as refreshing and appetising and healthful as well. For every head of lettuce is a package containing almost a complete set of vitamins. The greenness of the leaves determines the amount of vitamin A which helps to keep the body cells growing and establishes resistance to disease. Along with this there are vitamins B, C, D, and E in varying proportions. Here, too, are found three of the minerals important to our well being—calcium, phosphorus, and iron—and the greatest of these [in lettuce] is iron.

Many Advances in Utilization.

Not without many advances in growing, packing, and shipping, however, have we been provided with lettuce whenever we desire it. The climate and soil of California have been utilized and the development of refrigeration has had its part in the grand result. In every nook and corner of the country, in every market, big and little, we find an abundant supply, and it is the exception rather than the rule for the housewife to omit it from the daily order at the grocery.

There are a few simple rules to be observed in the treatment of lettuce when it reaches the kitchen. If it has traveled packed in ice the outside leaves are frequently torn or bruised. These should be removed, as they are not suitable for salad use. They are not to be thrown away, however, for they are delicious added to other greens in cooking.

If lettuce is to be used within a few hours after delivery, cut off the stem and remove the center at the root end. Then put the head in cold water for an hour or so. California lettuce does not require washing leaf by leaf, as the home garden variety, for the heads are so compactly grown that the grit and dirt will not adhere to the leaves. By cutting out the center part and placing the head in cold water the leaves are easily separated when ready for use. This procedure is most important with California iceberg lettuce, for the leaves are easily torn.

Keeping It Fresh.

If the vegetable is to be kept for a day or more, the food compartment of the refrigerator is the best place for it. Never place it in direct contact with the ice, as this will cause reddish marks on the leaves and will check the air circulation around the ice. In any refrigerator, ice or automatic, lettuce will keep best in a covered, slightly ventilated dish especially made for greens. This container allows only the right amount of evaporation to keep the vegetables crisp and moist, and they will remain in perfect condition a week or more.

Salads are so many and so various we cannot attempt a discussion of the subject here. But the green salad is among the best—just lettuce, crisp and cold, with the leaves dried so the dressing will adhere, arranged in a dainty and compelling way. Swiss fashion, lettuce is nice served in a bowl, which allows for mixing and dressing at the table. A French dressing, perhaps seasoned with a little chopped onion or a bit of Roquefort cheese, is best with this service.

Then there are lettuce sandwiches, braised lettuce, lettuce stuffed with peas, and innumerable other dishes that may be prepared with this tender green—all this from the little garden in the Ægean hills. What a magnificent contribution it was, and how well we have responded!

CORN CANNED IN 1888 OPENED; TEST SHOWS FLAVOR STILL INTACT

Corn canned nearly half a century ago at Elgin, Ill., when the cans were fashioned by hand and cooking and packing methods were used that now appear primitive, might be expected to have lost flavor and any useful qualities, but this was disproved in a meeting a few days ago out in California when one of these cans was opened.

C. E. Hume, past president of the National Canners' association, did the carving and the first tasting. He pronounced the 42 year old product perfect.

A small cannery at Elgin put up this corn in 1888. The only adverse comment on the almost ancient food was that it did not have a degree of sweetness equal to corn put into cans by the present day pack methods. F. A. Dixon, in charge of the experimental work of the Canners' league of California, assisted in the examination of the corn.

In 1888, can manufacturers recall, hand methods were the only known process of making cans and 600 a day was the maximum output. Today the industry boasts of turning out more than 180,000 metal containers daily from a single line unit of machinery.

NOW FOR A GOOD ITALIAN DINNER OF SPAGHETTI

Here Are a Few Ways of Preparing It.

BY META GIVEN.

Italians do not make macaroni, spaghetti, vermicelli, perciatelli, or tortellini, and a hundred other varieties of ravioli. They achieve them. The most of us who mix flour, eggs, and water never arrive at anything beyond noodles. But Italians go through the same operations, then mold the paste into all sorts of delicate and artistic forms—rods, tubes, spirals, shells, flutings, ruchings, and ribbons of various sizes. And no one knows better how to cook these pastes. The practice and experience of generations are represented in their method, welcomed the world over.

The following recipe for Italian macaroni is furnished by Mrs. Isabella Ungaro, who was born in Travignia, near Naples.

Cook Macaroni 20 Minutes.

Her method of cooking macaroni is to put the unbroken lengths into plenty of boiling salted water and cook until tender. This requires 20 minutes and not nine or ten, as we sometimes are advised in recipes. When the macaroni is done it should be drained thoroughly. The macaroni is never cooked in the sauce in which it is served, but is arranged in layers with the cheese and the sauce on the platter.

An hour or so before the macaroni is cooked, the meat and sauce are prepared. The longer the tomato sauce cooks the richer and fuller the flavor. Not only canned or raw tomatoes are used for the base of this sauce, but also tomato paste. Tomato paste is a concentrated tomato pulp that may be bought at the grocery, or it may be prepared at home by straining the seeds out of tomatoes and cooking the pulp down to a thick paste. The paste gives that very desirable concentrated tomato flavor characteristic of Italian spaghetti or macaroni.

The real Italian way of eating macaroni is with a tablespoon and a fork. You hold a tablespoon in your left hand and a fork in the right. Dip the fork in the spaghetti. When you have a load of it on your fork you hold it up against the spoon and then whirl the fork like an axle. The fork acts as a spindle and if you have succeeded you have a tightly wound ball of macaroni on your fork. One eats the bundle on the fork.

Requires Red Pepper.

It will be noted that two of Mrs. Ungaro's recipes require red pepper. She says red pepper adds a delicious flavor to all meats and vegetables [spinach is an exception].

The sweet Italian peppers are purchased green in the summer time. These are strung on a string to dry and take on a beautiful red color. One novel use of these peppers is as an appetizer. The pods are wiped, the stem ends are snapped off and the seeds are shaken out and discarded. The whole pods are put into a little hot olive oil in a frying pan and are cooked for about two minutes until puffed and crisp. These must be watched carefully because they burn easily. When drained and salted they are delicious served in small amounts.

Olive oil is Mrs. Ungaro's chief cooking fat. Fennel seed and origan (sweet marjoram) are her choice herbs for seasoning. The latter is crushed and sprinkled over tomatoes and cucumbers that are to be used as salad.

Meat Balls
Vegetables [Broccoli or Cauliflower]
Lettuce Salad
Crustula [fresh fruit is used extensively for dessert by Italians]
Coffee

ANTI-PASTI.

Slices of Italian salami
Pimiento
Celery hearts
Pickled beets
Green ripe olives
Sweet peppers pickled in vinegar
Radishes
Boiled egg, sliced
Anchovies

Pour a little olive oil over the whole and serve on individual plates or on a platter.

SALAD.

Head lettuce with French dressing.

GREENS SOUP.

1 lb. soup meat
2 cups tomatoes
½ cup chopped parsley
4 slices bacon, chopped fine
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup diced potatoes
½ cup cauliflower
1 cup escarol or broccoli
1 tbsp. grated Romano cheese
1 egg

Cover meat with cold water and cook slowly one hour. Fry bacon until crisp, add the tomatoes and ½ teaspoon sugar and cook about 10 minutes. Add this to the soup stock with the parsley. Cook 1 hour slowly. There should be about 3 quarts of liquid; bring this to a boil. Add vegetables and cook uncovered slowly until vegetables are tender. Bring to boil again and then add 1 tablespoon grated cheese mixed with 1 egg, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon red pepper. Cover and shut off fire. Let stand for 10 minutes before serving.

MACARONI.

½ lb. mixed ground meat [pork and beef]
1 tbsp. Romano grated cheese
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. black pepper
1 tsp. chopped parsley
1 tbsp. chopped red pepper
⅛ tsp. fennel seed
1 egg

Combine the above ingredients and make into balls. Brown 2 slices of bacon, chopped fine, in 1 tablespoon butter and fry the meat balls in this for five minutes, turning. Remove the balls and add 2 cups tomatoes and ½ teaspoon of sugar. Cook slowly ½ hour, stirring frequently. Add 2 tablespoons of tomato paste, ½ cup of water and cook slowly for at least 2 hours, adding water if it thickens. About 20 minutes before serving add the meat balls. Boil one pound of spaghetti or macaroni in enough salted water to more than cover for 20 minutes or until tender, but not soft. Drain. Cover a platter with grated cheese, add sauce to moisten, then a layer of macaroni. Repeat cheese, sauce and macaroni, covering with cheese and sauce. Let stand in a warm oven 5 or 10 minutes before serving.

Pork chops, chicken, veal may be used instead of meat balls, but cook them an hour or more in the gravy instead of only 20 minutes.

CRUSTULA.

2 cups flour
3 eggs
1 tbsp. sugar
⅛ tsp. salt

Make a nest of the sifted flour and sugar and salt on the kneading board. Add eggs and mix into a stiff dough. (If eggs are small, another may be necessary.) Roll the dough until no thicker than ⅛ inch, cut in strips 1 inch by 2 inches with a pastry wheel. Fry in hot olive oil 2 inches deep until a delicate brown, turning frequently. Drain and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

HELPING GRANDMOTHER

Two grandchildren, Patricia Ungaro and Carmen Milano, help Mrs. Ungaro inspect a home made cheese which is much like the celebrated Romano variety. The cheese basket, Italian made, is used to drain off the whey and hold the curing cheese while it develops a thick rind from the application of a peppery, salty, olive oil mixture. Mrs. Ungaro uses this cheese in many of her dishes.

EVEN IF YOU LIKE COOKING A MEAL THIS ISN'T SO HOT

Have to Thaw Eggs Before They'll Fry.

BY ARTHUR CARLE.

Have you ever tried cooking your meals outdoors? You have? Very well, have you ever tried cooking your meals in the forest, in the middle of winter, with the temperature hovering about 20 degrees below zero, and three feet of snow on the ground? You haven't! Well, it's lots of fun and you ought to try it some time.

A year ago a group of eight Eagle Scouts, from the Duluth area council, left for the northland wilderness, around the vicinity of Two Harbors, Minn., on the Gooseberry river. The snow was deep and the temperature was hovering around 20 degrees below zero. Driven to the mouth of the river, which runs into Lake Superior, they hiked on snowshoes, about eight miles. About noon they reached the campsite, a beautiful spot enclosed in a grove of trees. Fire places were erected by the scouts on a previous hike. They were made of logs, with a fireback about three feet in height and the sides approximately thirty inches or more in height.

Made Own Bread.

Immediately upon arrival, snow was scraped from the fire places and the ground nearby. As usual, as young fellows always are, they were hungry, and so they began to make their dinner. Unlike the ordinary picnicker, they did not have their sandwiches already made up, nor did they have loaves of bread prepared by a bakery or their mothers. They had with them only their own flour, with which they could make their own bread, bannock as it is called.

To prepare the bannock flour taken along by the scouts, is not a difficult process. Flour, butter, and sugar are mixed together. Baking powder is unnecessary but it makes the bread bulkier and tastier. Water, is added at the camp, until it makes a fairly stiff batter, then it can be made into loaves, buns, or can be put in a frying pan and fried as a pancake. Bannock must be baked fairly slowly. Being but a few feet from the river, water was easy to get, merely by chopping a hole in the ice after digging three feet in the snow. When a hole is made in the ice of a flowing river or stream, the water spouts out like an artesian, the water spouts out like an artesian well.

These Eggs Will Bounce.

Eggs are good on a hike, especially in the winter. An egg freezes pretty solid, so if you drop it, you will have nothing to worry about. It is hard to peel the shell of a frozen egg. It sticks to the white part. The peeling, however, is comparatively easy to the cooking of a frozen egg. It takes a little patience to fry, because it must thaw out first.

Bacon goes very good with eggs and thus bacon made up part of the menu. Good hot coffee, being the most ideal beverage for cold wintry days, came at the tailend of the repast.

After all, this was a very good meal, seeing the scouts made it themselves, and no one knocks his own cooking.

After eating their dinner, the scouts put up their tents and gathered enough fire wood to last them throughout the next day. In northern Minnesota it gets dark around 5:30 and so at 4 o'clock the scouts began to make their supper.

Pork Chops for Supper.

On the menu that night were pork chops, bannock, coffee and potatoes. Pork chops are easily fried and the potatoes were put into the coals of the fire and baked. Being a little more experienced, by this time, in the art of making bannock, it was more delicious at the evening meal than at the dinner meal and on the whole the supper tasted better.

They went to bed about 7 o'clock that evening and though one would think it would be very cold, it wasn't, because they had along with them warm and cozy sleeping bags.

They arose in the morning very early and began making breakfast. The scouts made pancakes that morning, out of prepared pancake flour. Bacon and eggs and coffee made up the remaining part of the breakfast menu.

Soon they packed up and left for home, but although none of them seemed to care about leaving, deep down in their hearts they couldn't wait until they could taste the food which their mothers make.

CRITICS DIFFER ON BOSTON BAKED BEANS, IT SEEMS

Who has not felt the urge to make a pilgrimage to Boston to partake of a dinner of its famous baked beans? One tourist from the middle west, who planned such a trip, visited the birthplace of the dish and came home sadly disappointed with the baked beans offered in the Boston inns and restaurants. She found that they were little like the baked beans she had been accustomed to eating in her home town.

Perhaps there are many more Boston visitors who feel that the Boston baked beans have failed to fulfill their expectations. Little do they realize that baked beans as well as other foods are prepared differently in different localities. There are probably a dozen or more variations of the original Boston bean recipe scattered throughout the United States.

Methods of Baking Vary.

Some people like their beans baked with onion, some with mustard. Many prefer a strong flavoring of molasses, while others dislike the sweet taste and prefer just enough of the molasses to color and flavor the beans a trifle.

In the early days of baked beans the old fashioned housewives would set a pot of beans covered with strips of salt pork in the brick oven beside the open fireplace to bake on Friday night. Overnight and throughout the next day the beans would simmer and brown. By dinner time on Saturday they would be done.

It was a simple meal to prepare and one, which after the oven door had been closed, required almost no trouble. On Saturday the housewife could go about her scouring and dusting with barely a thought of her Saturday night meal except for an occasional glance through the oven door to make sure that the beans were not too dry and maybe to add a little hot water.

Beans for Breakfast.

Usually after a Saturday evening meal there would be enough beans left over for Sunday morning breakfast and maybe for a meal on Monday. The following Friday night another pot of beans would be set to bake and another dinner of baked beans would be forthcoming on Saturday night.

Housewives of this age, however, with the aid of modern equipment, can put their pots of beans in the oven as late as 11 o'clock in the morning and have the food ready for dinner that night.

Here is a recipe that is easy to follow and which should last through several meals:

1 qt. navy beans
¾ lb. fat salt pork
1 tbsp. salt
1 tbsp. to 1 cup molasses, depending on flavor
3 tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. mustard, if desired
Boiling water

Pick over beans, cover with cold water and soak overnight. Drain, cover with fresh water, heat slowly [keeping water below boiling point], and cook until skins burst. This is best determined by taking a few beans on the tip of a spoon and blowing on them, when skins will burst if sufficiently cooked.

Drain beans. Scald pork and scrape, remove ¼ inch slice and put in bottom of bean pot. Cut through rind of remaining pork every half inch, making cuts one inch deep. Put beans in pot and bury in beans, leaving rind exposed.

Mix salt, molasses and sugar, add one cup boiling water and pour over beans; then add enough boiling water to cover beans. Cover bean pot and bake six to eight hours in slow oven [250 degrees Fahrenheit], uncovering the last hour of cooking, that the pork rind may become brown and crisp. Add water as needed.

Use less salt if pork mixed with lean is preferred. Yield: Ten servings.

ALL of the sparkling goodness of SAVOY PINEAPPLE is sealed in during the fleeting hours when the hot tropical sun has brought it to the very height of flavor!

For SAVOY PINEAPPLE is NOT ripened after it's brought from the field in the green stage.

And what a difference this makes! You see this difference in the clear gleam of the fruit—fine, big, golden circles without the slightest trace of the hard center core. You taste it in the sun-matured flavor.

The sparkling juice in itself is delicious—a natural tonic.

Treat your family to SAVOY HAWAIIAN PINEAPPLE. It comes in sparkling circles; or crushed into dainty bits; or in delightful salad pieces.

Order some—now!

FLAVOR, NOT WORDS HAS MADE IT LEADER!

Words cannot deceive the palate.

Advertising cannot put flavor in a coffee cup.

The drinking thereof is the proof of the coffee. The flavor must be there or you will not buy again.

That's why the outstanding leadership of Maxwell House Coffee seems to us, frankly, to be proof positive of its superiority.

More people drink it than any other fine blend because more people prefer its rich and mellow flavor.

Think of this fact when next you order coffee.

What better pledge of satisfaction can you get than the constant promise—

Good to the last drop!

Kellogg's PEP BRAN FLAKES

Chivalry Is Grand, but Not in This Case, Says Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

At Christmas time "George" was laid off and has not yet been able to secure work of any kind. Now there is a girl—and there is his mother to support. The girl is a peach. She loves a good time and in his employment days "George" was able to take her to a show, supper, and dance often enough to keep them both happy. Now, in his present circumstances, "George" can afford to give the girl nothing in the amusement line with any charge attached. He's disconsolate over this fact. But the girl—a regular—says: "All right. Let's take a walk, or sit at home if we can't do anything else. It's O. K. with me."

"I want to be fair," says George, the chivalrous. "She is young and now is the time for her to enjoy life. If I can't show her a good time, she should have some one else. But I don't want to lose her. I just want her to get some one else until I get a job. How can I explain that to a girl?"

Don't try to explain it to the girl. Certainly, don't explain that you would like to see some other chap taking her about. That may be chivalric, from your point of view—but it's hard for a girl to take it that way. She's likely to sense an indifference toward her that is not flattering.

Perhaps you couldn't show the girl a better time right now than by letting her be a party to your thrift-amusement plan. She doesn't have to be told that it is a necessary course. Credit her with the good sense to see that a man's heart can be in the right place, though his purse be temporarily lean. Don't make a martyr of yourself, or of the girl, either. The laughter that is put into the hearts of the young is for use in moments like this.

Laugh about your plight, but don't feel sorry about it. I don't mean about the unemployment—but about having to walk and forego shows, and suppers and dances, and such.

Flatter the girl with the intelligence to know that you can't spend on nothing a week. Be honest—and light hearted about it. And don't be so generous about disposing of the girl's amusement hours to some other man. Women just do not appreciate that sort of heroics.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Disgusted with Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been going with a boy steady and I think I am getting disgusted with him.

"KITTY."

It isn't necessary to continue seeing him if you feel that way about it, Kitty.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My husband had invited an elderly gentleman with a long beard and mustache to dinner. When my little daughter met him I told her to kiss him.

"But, mamma," she objected, "I can't see any place." A. J. K.

I had been on a diet and had lost quite a bit of weight. I went over to visit my little 5 year old niece, who, when she saw me, exclaimed, "O, Aunt Ethel. You are growing yourself so thin." E. C.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

This jaunty bolero model has a peplum, split at the front, and the skirt widens into graceful fullness at the hemline. It is an ideal dress for immediate wear, and will be fine later on to wear on the street without a coat. Wool crêpe with a wool lace blouse, and plain silk crêpe with embroidered batiste for the blouse are pleasing suggestions.

The pattern, 3008, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with 1⅝ yards of 35 inch contrasting.

A Good Facial (Home Made Kind) Revives the Spirits

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Under discussion at the luncheon table was a terrifically expensive massage one may, at a certain salon, subject her face to, providing her dad, daddy or job is willing. I won't name its price—enough to say that certain members of society [not in the social register, perhaps] would think it ample for apartment rent for a month.

Criticism, of course, was directed at people ridiculous enough to hand over so much money for a single facial. But there's this about it. One doesn't have to have a facial at that price. There's no law ordering us to indulge in the facial extravagance. And those who do can afford it, or if they can't and are lured on by immediate rejuvenation promises, it may be a good way to learn a lesson.

We do profit by experiences that are costly.

If the women who can afford it indulge—well, why not, if it's going to make them feel like a million dollars? If they fare forth after the expenditure and treatment with a twenty-five or fifty dollar beam in their eyes—who is the loser? Perhaps this isn't wise talk at a critical time of unemployment. But who reckons on woman and her beauty pursuit extravagances, at any time? She, like the man in love, is a thing apart—mebbe!

What I really was getting at is this thing of facials! And what they do by way of moral uplift. Not discounting the value of nourishing creams and lotions, I have a theory that there is nothing that will buck up a sagging spirit [and its usually accompanying face] like a good facial treatment. But I have a theory that while it's awfully nice to have a professional work over you, as it is nice to have other things our luxury craving souls would like, still a good home facial can be given and can serve beautifully to buoy up the spirits.

When you're feeling a bit down and out, give yourself a good facial cleaning up: add a bit of tinting with rouge pot and lipstick coloring, turn up the mouth corners—and even the youngsters' quarreling can be borne with less nerve tension. Some women, of course, have the daily habit. But many more could use more frequent intervals than they now do to freshen up, brighten up and buck up.

You all know, now, how to give yourself a facial, it goes without saying. If not, write me, and I'll send you confidential information.

Working Mother Has Difficulties to Wrestle With

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Reading References for the Prospective Mother" will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It is surprising when you are in a position to know to discover how many women there are who are the sole support of themselves and their children. Most of these mothers do work that keeps them away from home all day. This often means leaving their children with a relative, who is usually devoted and sometimes wise.

Many an aunt or grandmother has reared a sister's or a daughter's child with love and intelligence. But many a relative has been the undoing of a whole childhood, either through being too easy or too hard on the child.

When a child becomes more and more difficult to manage and the working mother is greeted at night with complaints, complaints, complaints—it usually means one thing. It usually means thorough mismanagement during the day.

This is a baffling situation, because obviously you can't handle your children in the dozens of everyday situations that arise if you're away all day. And you cannot undo in a short evening the mistakes of a whole day. It is hard for every one concerned, but hardest of all on the child, or children. They're being started wrong.

When a mother realizes this is happening she must do something about it. Of course, the most comfortable and nicest thing would be if she could make the person in charge understand a more intelligent handling of the children. This sounds impossible, I know—and usually is! But still there are many women, grandmothers among them, who have "seen the light," and developed a new approach to childhood.

This failing, the mother should look up a good nursery school, kindergarten or play group and have her child go to that, which relieves conditions for part of the day.

Or she should make a break and find some one who understands children and who can give here the right kind of care while she is away. Breaks are hard—but often necessary. And sometimes such changes are in the end a relief to the relative who has been in charge and has herself felt the strain.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

"WEED" ENRICHES STATE.

The crop that once was considered a weed—sweet clover—now occupies annually more than 10,000 acres in each of 34 Illinois counties and last year meant millions of dollars to farmers, according to C. M. Linsley, soils extension specialist of the college of agriculture, the University of Illinois.

Livingston county is growing 40,000 acres, Clark has 26,000 acres. The total for Illinois last year was 793,000 acres of this one crop, an increase of 45,000 acres over 1929.

Farmers thus are adopting the slogan of the college soils division which has been advising "a nitrogen factory on every farm." Sweet clover is classed as one of the most important legumes, as a crop on the average is said to contain 150 to 200 pounds of nitrogen per acre by the fall of the first year after seeding. This is as much nitrogen as is contained in 15 to 20 tons of average stable manure.

Approximately two-thirds of this nitrogen is taken from the air and "fixed" by nitrogen gathering bacteria on the roots of the plant. Investigators for the college determined almost 30 years ago that the absence of such bacteria in the soil was responsible for the general failure of alfalfa on Illinois farms. Since then this has been overcome by inoculation of seed before sowing.

Request for Radio Parts.

"I have been a patient in this sanitarium for nine years. I was given a radio set, but it was minus some of the parts and, as I have no friends of funds, I am appealing to you to help me secure them. Two C-12 Cunningham tubes, 2 A batteries and 1 B battery are what it needs. Such a gift would help to break the monotony of a drab life. K. F."

If you are investing in a new radio, perhaps you can give the parts of your discarded set to this victim of tuberculosis. Once his set begins to function again he will derive much pleasure from it.

Wet feet breed SORE THROAT

reduces mouth germs 98%

WET feet, sudden changes of temperature, overexposure, fatigue, all are predisposing causes of colds, influenza, grippe, sore throat and kindred infections.

They weaken body resistance so that germs in the mouth get the upper hand.

Reduces mouth germs 98%

As an aid in guarding against these troubles, medical authorities recommend the morning and night gargle with full strength Listerine, the safe, healing antiseptic and germicide.

Listerine actually reduces germs in the mouth 98%. Kills them by millions, outright! Repeated tests following the methods used at famous universities and laboratories of international repute prove its amazing germicidal power.

Under ordinary conditions of health, the night and morning gargle is sufficient.

Gargle every 2 hours

But when you feel a cold or sore throat coming, or are already in the grip of either, increase the frequency of the gargle.

Every two hours, authorities urge. Hold the liquid in the mouth as long as possible so that it reaches germ-ridden surfaces.

Such frequent gargling aids your body, weakened by the cold or sore throat, to overcome millions of disease-producing organisms in the oral cavity.

Intelligent men and women everywhere use Listerine as both a precaution against and a treatment for colds, sore throat and allied infections. Keep a bottle handy in home and office and use it at the first symptom of trouble. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Follow These Simple Rules:

1. Each evening for 42 consecutive evenings (not including Saturday) W-G-N will broadcast 2 songs of yesterday—"Tune Tangles." On each day following the broadcast the Chicago Tribune will print a "Tune Tangle" Crossword Puzzle. Each puzzle will contain the title of one of the songs broadcast the preceding evening. You are invited to listen to the broadcast, solve the Tune Tangle Crossword in the next day's Tribune and name the song.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved and neatest complete sets of answers in accordance with these rules. NOTE: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 42 Tune Tangles completely to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. The prizes are as follows:

436 Prizes, Totaling		$5,000.00

4. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employees of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

5. Tune Tangle Crosswords are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 42. Then send them to "Tune Tangles," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1716, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight, 15 days after Puzzle No. 42 has been printed.

6. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department. Contestants may submit as many sets of puzzles as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize.

7. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of the offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

8. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties, a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home [illegible]orland from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister, Gertrude, became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war invalided brother, Hugh, away from home ten years ago to see her younger sister, Christine, and brother, Stephen, a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead, Hilary was returning home. Hilary is not met when the boat docks and John asks her to her door. Hilary's stepfather, the only sympathetic member of her family, left her his possessions in trust, to be settled on her at her marriage or to give her an annuity at the age of forty if still single.

The next day after their return John takes Hilary to luncheon. He tells her he loves her and asks her to marry him, and Hilary accepts.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her cousin, Prue, is her only friend in her aunt's house. Her father she knows as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to the country. Then she invites Hilary and John to dinner.

INSTALLMENT XVII.

THE FAMILY MICROSCOPE.

Hilary Revel was exactly the type to win such a man as Falconer from his enchantment and disenchantment of his lovely Sylvia. She was spectacious and had perhaps seen too much of the world in one sense and too little in another to be versed in the subtleties of sex and wish to play its siren. Paradoxically their intimacy became the richer to him for its sentimental surprises, and he felt sometimes that he had never before had touch with any woman. They talked, argued, quarreled, laughed, were silent, and each was an adventure where her mind illumined his own.

The detached and somewhat casual attitude of Hilary's family, which he had resented at first with so much indignation, because, after the engagement, almost a virtue, and he wished as much might be expected of his sister, but he knew the wish was vain. Gertrude had admirable qualities; she was unselfish and devoted to many useful causes; she had been an excellent wife to a poor old Livingstone, the most unpractical creature who ever breathed, and she was loyal to a degree; but she was a little inclined, thought John, to believe herself the divinely appointed head of the family.

"Good God, let us turn back," he exclaimed to the girl at his side.

"But why? . . . and of course we can't. Your sister would be positively offended."

"Let her. I won't have you put under a dam' family microscope."

Hilary, considering him with a smile, said:

"A microscope is a reversible object after all and I may be just as curious as Gertrude."

Falconer laughed.

"Well, I wish you joy of the view, but I warn you we are in for a dull evening and you have spoiled me for dull evenings. There hasn't been one."

"Now use the term myself," returned Prue, nodding to the visitors.

"No, but there will be . . . many of them . . . bound to be." He tucked her hand companionably into his arm. "Think how triumphantly sad we shall feel to have got one of them over."

He had asked casually as they set out whether they would see Judy or whether she was at school, to give him an opportunity to introduce the little girl if he wished. To treat the situation as entirely normal was the only way to maintain it, she thought, but she was determined to leave it for him to decide. He had been managed and interfered with quite enough. John had replied that Judith had a governess and would no doubt be at home, though probably invisible unless asked for.

"Shall I ask for her?"

Hearing the eagerness in his voice, she had said:

"Why not? . . . After all, if I am to be a sort of aunt . . ."

"I'm of course . . . anything else would be absurd."

She could not tell whether he meant any other relation or merely the question of asking for the little girl, and she had not pursued the subject. Though John's daughter had been a good deal in her mind, she would not admit to herself her interest was more than curiosity, and all that his wife and sister had done to put him in an odious position warned her to stand aloof.

"He shall not have to bear magnanimity from me," she thought passionately.

Yet, none the less, she hoped Judy would be visible, though a child of thirteen would not come down to dinner she supposed. "If Gertrude is not a fool," decided Hilary, "he will not have to ask."

. . . . . .

The house overlooking Wandsworth common had a roomy air, and the little court, a glimpse of roses coming into bud, and one or two old trees looked friendly in the twilight. Indoors, however, this effect was lost, for the rooms were heavy and overcrowded and the walls hung with pictures which had been bought, Hilary thought, to cover their nakedness at prescribed intervals but for no other purpose and always in sets or pairs. The ornaments also hunted in couples, fitted so completely into the symmetry of their surroundings that it was clear they were never moved. The result was rigid and noncommittal in the extreme. The house had retreated into itself and the owner, to Hilary's fancy, would have permitted nothing else. Gertrude would do her duty by it, give it necessities and see that it was washed behind its ears, but no house of hers would have a soul of its own.

She had greeted the visitors affably and rather like a prime minister receiving a deputation on some matter he had decided to approve.

"Now, this is splendid and you must tell me all about it," said Gertrude kindly. "So nice that we shall be quite alone this evening. I felt we should prefer to be informal and talk everything over at our ease. Have you decided when the great event is to be? And where will you live? In a day or two, I suppose, we shall be reading the announcement in the Morning Post."

The prime minister had her notes by heart; she was thoroughly prepared, more so, perhaps, than her deputation. The date of the wedding had not been decided; they did not know where they were going to live; and they had not thought of the announcement. Hilary, watching Gertrude's face, wondered whether they would escape before she had everything arranged; her capability was a positive menace.

There seemed to be no sound in the house other than her voice, which was high pitched and dominating, and it was a surprise when they went in to dinner to find a girl of about Christine's age surveying them coolly from the hearthrug.

"Prudence has left her studies this evening in your honor, John," said Mrs. Livingstone, and then to Hilary, "My elder daughter, Prudence, say Mrs. Livingstone, and then to Hilary, "My elder daughter, Prudence, say how do you do to Miss Revel . . . I suppose it is a little early to call her one."

"Never use the term myself," returned Prue, nodding to the visitors and sitting into her chair. She wore a pale pink dance frock and with her cropped hair looked like a boy in his sister's clothes. Anything more incongruous than such a daughter for Mrs. Livingston could hardly have been imagined.

"Really, Prudence, your dress is most unsuitable for a quiet family dinner," said her mother in a tone of annoyance.

"Only one I've got," returned Prudence, who never lost an opportunity of keeping her name.

"I can't think what you do with your allowance . . . Prudence is at the London School of Economics and too much engrossed in her studies to trouble much about clothes, I'm afraid," said Mrs. Livingstone to Hilary. "My boys, Margery, on the other hand, whom we call Midge, is the beauty of the family and a real home girl, I am relieved to say."

"Shall we see her later?" asked Hilary, thinking of Judith.

"Oh no, Midge and Cecil are both at school," returned their mother. "And I have had the dearest letter from little Midge about her uncle's marriage, simply begging to be a bridesmaid. Of course, I pointed out to her that it does not rest with me and she must wait until she is invited. Children have such quaint fancies."

"We haven't really decided whether we shall have any bridesmaids," put in Hilary.

Samuel Pepys' Private Papers Will Be Sold

Auction Set for London Early Next Month.

LONDON, July 1, 1660.—This morning came home my fine Camlett cloak, with gold buttons, and a silk suit, which cost me much money, and I pray to God to make me able to pay for it. . . .

Aug. 16.—This morning my Lord (Sandwich), all things being ready, carried me by coach to Mr. Crew's (in the way talking how good he did hope my place would be to me, and in general speaking that it was not the salary of any place that did make a man rich, but the opportunity of getting money while he is in the place), where he took leave, and went into the coach, and so for Hinchinbroke.

Sept. 5.—In the evening, my wife being a little impatient, I went along with her to buy her a necklace of pearl, which will cost £4 10s, which I am willing to comply with her in for her encouragement, and because I have lately got money, having now £200 in cash beforehand in the world. . . . Samuel Pepys.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 12.—And so to auction: For the letters and many prized personal possessions of Samuel Pepys, Esq., incorrigible dandy and the most famous of the world's diarists are to be knocked down at Sotheby's next April 1 after appearing but rarely at shows and exhibitions since this supreme politician's death in 1703.

The collection includes the relics, pictures, and manuscripts which the great man about town willed to his nephew, John Jackson. They have remained in the possession of the Pepys Cockerell family since.

Pepys gave only ten years of his life to the diary, written in a sort of private shorthand, which he started when he was 26. At 36 his whimsical notations, the worldly wise observations, and the written disclosures of his vanities ended. He stopped, too, his confidences on politics and the life of his time. But he went on amassing papers and correspondence. He traveled, and he continued to court or be courted by the famous or the notoriety seekers of his day. He rounded out his life still cutting the fine figure he conceived himself.

The collection to be sold therefore includes not only a quantity of official correspondence from the time of the diary up until 1679, but 600 other letters and papers which he kept from that date until he died.

Many letters exchanged with the famous of the time are included, and among these the diarist's strenuous efforts to build up the British navy.

Among the most interesting, however, are those written to Sir Isaac Newton, and the answers. England, in 1690, as now, was swept by a lottery fever. London could talk of nothing else. Pepys was in the thick of it, and so he wrote to Newton, saying he heard no discussion "but what relates to the doctrine of determining between the true proportions of the hazards incident to this or that given chance or lot."

Therefore he begged the great scientist in the name of a friend—who turned out to be nobody but John Smith, the writing master of Christ's hospital, who had asked Pepys to write Newton—for an answer to this question:

"A has 6 dice in a box, with which he is to fling a 6. B has in another box 12 dice, with which he is to fling two sixes. C has in another box 18 dice, with which he is to fling three sixes. Question: Whether B and C have not as easy a task as A at even luck?"

Newton made either an interesting revelation of his own patience, busy as he was with the laws of the universe, or else of his esteem for Pepys in the answer.

"I was very glad to have an opportunity," he replied according to one of the letters in the collection, "given me of showing how ready I should be to serve you or your friends upon any occasion, and wish that something of greater moment would give me a new opportunity of doing it, so as to become more useful to you than in solving only a mathematical question."

After that he found flaws with Pepys' wording of the question, and then proceeded to solve the problem.

Many drafts show that the easy elegance of Pepys' finished letters he contrived by hard work. He practiced his deftness on his friends only by numerous corrections and revisions of his correspondence. This is especially noticeable in the letters which Pepys wrote during his tour on the continent in 1699-1701.

One of the pieces in the collection is the famous Kneller portrait of the diarist. It shows a man of masterful mold. Efforts are being made here to secure the painting for the national portrait gallery.

Another Kneller portrait in the collection is that of James II., for which the king was sitting when news reached the studio that the Prince of Orange had landed. James cared little where his friend Pepys was concerned. What matter if the Prince of Orange had landed? "I have promised Mr. Pepys my picture, and I will finish the sitting," he said. The gaming table for chess and backgammon which the king also gave Mr. Pepys will be put up for sale.

Two famous pieces of the period going on the block are a silver gilt porringer and salver which, according to strong family tradition, were given to Pepys by Charles II., of whose restoration and coronation Pepys wrote a lively account. They were last seen in public at the famous silver exhibition at St. James' court 39 years ago.

Pluto to Have Birthday as Official Planet

Chief Sponsor Died Ere Fame Was Won.

Flagstaff, Ariz., March 12.—(AP)—The new planet Pluto has his first birthday tomorrow.

On March 13 one year ago, as "Planet X," his discovery was announced at the Lowell observatory here.

With this anniversary one of the amazing stories of science comes to light. It is the record of a cruel "break" which fate handed to Dr. Percival Lowell, the astronomer who calculated Pluto's existence and foretold its positions in the heavens.

Lowell died in 1916, a prophet with his dream unfulfilled. Yet even then the proof of Pluto's existence, photos of him taken in Lowell's own observatory, lay unrecognized during the last year of his life and for 14 years thereafter. These dusty photos were identified a short time ago.

Also recently at Mount Wilson observatory Pluto's image was found on 1919 photographs, pictures taken like those at Flagstaff revealing the planet about where Lowell predicted, but unrecognized for 11 years.

They silenced scientists who were calling Pluto a comet, or some strange "planetary body" or just a lucky "accident." He is now established as the ninth planet, his size about that of earth, his year 250 earthly years long, his mass and weight anywhere from 15 per cent less than earth's.

Just now he is traveling between two and three miles a second, and moves across the sky in one year nearly three diameters of the full moon. He will speed up for the next 75 years until he moves along at three miles a second. Then he will spend more than a century slowing down as he recedes from the sun toward his long midwinter.

Pluto's average distance from the sun is 3,500,000,000 miles, forty times as far as earth.

The baby planet's scientific christening party was the award recently of a British gold medal to Clyde Tombaugh, Burdette, Kas., farmer boy, who first spotted planet X on plates taken at Lowell observatory in January, 1931.

Just how good was Tombaugh's eye to catch what so many others had missed? An old astronomer's eye is so finely trained that it can detect through a telescope the difference in brightness between a lighted candle 154 miles away and another at 156 miles.

Haig Statue, Second Model, Is Approved; Both Cause Protests

LONDON, March 12.—(AP)—Alfred Hardiman's unpopular design for an equestrian statue of Field Marshal Haig is to stand whether England likes it or not, the commissioner of works disclosed today. He announced to protesting British Legionnaires that the design had been approved.

This is the sculptor's second attempt to please the public. The first design for a statue voted by parliament brought a storm of protest, chiefly directed at the proportions of the horse.

Hardiman made the horse lighter, but this time Haig himself was bareheaded and wearing a cape. Even his widow protested and the marshal's friends insisted that he never appeared without a cap and never wore a cape. The marshal's private secretary said Haig himself would have condemned both models.

"It's a German conception of the field marshal in the guise of Italian art," the secretary said, adding that he would prefer a memorial in some other form.

This is the third sculptural controversy to stir England in recent months. Epstein's "Genesis" and Wheeler's figures for the facade of the Bank of England also aroused indignation in many quarters.

Trick Horse Will Help the Junior League Show

A trick horse, owned by Frank Bering, will feature the performance of the "Land of Oz," children's play, at the Selwyn theater tomorrow. The horse plays the piano, unties a rope from its legs, dances, and does other tricks. The "Land of Oz" was presented for the first time at the Selwyn last Saturday, and will be given every Saturday until April 11. Several members of the cast are Junior leaguers.

U. of C. Military Dance to Be Held on April 24

Leaders of the grand march at the annual military ball sponsored by Crossed Cannon, the University of Chicago military fraternity, which is to be held at the South Shore Country club on the April 24, have been chosen. The left wing will be led by Miss Charlotte Saemann and William Elliot, and the right wing by Miss Barbara Cook and Robert Tipler.

THE STAGE

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THE Blackstone theater continues to manufacture news. "Torch Song," the drama by Kenyon Nicholson, is beginning to burn out, and therefore Tracy C. Drake has discovered another play to offer for the fortnight before Easter Sunday. It is called "Stepping Sisters," and it has a curious history.

Seven different theaters of the region known as Broadway have housed "Stepping Sisters" this season; and that's a record. The play was shunted about from pillar to post, while all the wisecrackers of Times Square stood and wondered. It defied the business depression for nine months by the delightful expedient of scattering passes all over New York, and charging a "tax" of fifty cents whenever a pass was presented at the box office.

"Stepping Sisters" is a comedy by Howard Warren Comstock, whose name is on the programs of "Dr. X," a melodrama current on Broadway, as co-author. It will be restaged for its engagement at the Blackstone by Laura D. Wilck, Mr. Drake's Broadway auxiliary. Blanche Ring will have the central rôle, Helen Raymond and Grace Huff will be drafted from the original New York cast, and certain members of the "Torch Song" company will enlist in the troupe, among them Joan Blair, Arthur Shaw, and Jessie Graham.

Vilma Banky and Rod La Rocque are approaching the end of their successful sojourn at the Erlanger theater in "Cherries Are Ripe." The play will begin an eastern tour—carefully omitting New York—in Boston April 5. . . . Lenore Ulric in "Pagan Lady" will be the Erlanger's next attraction, opening Easter Sunday.

Bernard Shaw's "Getting Married," in revival, will probably be the third play in the spring season of the Theater Guild at the Illinois theater. A roll call of its cast is therefore in order. Philip Moeller, stage director for the Guild, is now instructing the following players in the snappy technique of Shavian comedy: Dorothy Gish, Ernest Cossart, Henry Travers, Romney Brent, Hugh Sinclair, Reginald Mason, Helen Westley, Margaret Wycherly, Hugh Buckler, and Irby Marshall.

There will be some genuine intellectual acting on view in Mandel hall of the University of Chicago tomorrow night. Frederick Woodward, vice president of the university; Arthur Compton, physicist of international fame and Nobel prize winner, and James Weber Linn, professor of English literature, will wear grease paint. A bulletin from the university states that they will "cavort before the footlights," but if so they will prance austerely and with the dignified tread of scholarship.

The occasion will be a benefit for the university's settlement back of the yards. Three one act plays will compose the program. "The Man in the Bowler Hat," by A. A. Milne; "The Great Catherine," by Bernard Shaw, and "Tables for Ladies," by John Bobbitt, a student. Fritz Leiber Jr. will appear in the latter's cast.

"The Gang's All Here," an elaborate musical comedy production with Ted Healy as its star, expired suddenly in New York Tuesday night. It was the sixth costly failure among the lyric entertainments of the season. The other disasters were "Luana," "The Well of Romance," "Smiles," Princess Charming," and "Ballyhoo."

When De Wolf Hopper comes to the Cort theater week after next in a new comedy called "When Father Smiles," the box office prices will be adjusted to meet economic conditions. The old school scale of $1.50 to 50 cents will be established, and the device of "two for one" coupons, which has been prevalent among the downtown theaters this season, will be abandoned.

Eva Tanguay Still Doesn't Care, as She Visits Chicago

Eva Tanguay, one time "I Don't Care" vaudeville favorite, arrived in Chicago yesterday for a brief visit with friends. She was met as she alighted from a west coast train in the North Western station, and with unexpected agility attempted to elude interviewers. Asked what she thought of the retirement of Geraldine Farrar at 49 years of age, Miss Tanguay announced she didn't care about the idea. For herself, she said, she would retire when she reached the age of 140.

Cradle Rockers Also Acting as Cash Registers

Experts Note Most Wives Control Budgets.

The American housewife may rock the cradle with one hand, but she takes pains to keep the other free to regulate the strings about the family bank roll.

At least that is the tendency among about 85 per cent of American wives since their emancipation. For so home economic experts declare while attending the central regional conference of that service. The sessions are sponsored by the federal board for vocational education. The four days of conferences will close today at the Sherman hotel.

There was a time, some recollected, not so long ago, when a wife would approach her husband somewhat apologetically: "John, may I have a dollar?" And John, if he boasted a broad mind, asked no questions. And if he didn't, it was dollars to doughnuts he would demand an accounting at the dinner table: "Well, Mary, what did you do with that dollar I gave you this morning?"

"Now in most cases it is the wife who spends the greater proportion of the family income," declared Miss Rowan Elliff, assistant professor of vocational education at the University of Nebraska. "And she spends it wisely. Since her emancipation, woman has found she has a business head as well as her husband."

Child training is one of the most important phases of home economics, Miss Elliff said, but she warned against giving a child too much attention.

"It's a case of understanding Jimmie these days, rather than punishing him.

"If Jimmie puts his feet up on the table and mother think it's cute, she needn't be surprised to see Jimmie making a similar exhibition one day when company calls. A child doesn't do much showing off unless he is taught to."

A comprehensive organization, including public education, hospitals, preventoriums, and convalescent homes, all correlated with the school system, is necessary to combat childhood tuberculosis. So Prof. Frank Ash Greer declared last night before 200 physicians at the Union League club. The dinner was arranged by the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute as a farewell to the Polish pediatrician on his conclusion of a six week program of clinics and lectures.

Lent Day by Day

THE THREE STEPS.

Dr. Asa J. Ferry,
Edgewater Presbyterian church.

"We would see Jesus." John xii., 21.

The ancient appeal was doubtless answered, and its modern answer reaches the deepest need of the human soul.

I am encouraged to believe it can be answered today by the experience of one man who came to know him as truly and fully as any of his immediate disciples. That was St. Paul.

We ask what steps Paul took to become acquainted with Jesus. First, he saw him in personal surrender. When Saul of Tarsus fell at Jesus' feet and cried, "What wilt thou have me to do?" he had taken the first step.

Then he learned about Jesus from those who had known him. There is no historical figure who may be known so intimately as Jesus may be known in the gospels.

Last of all, Paul came to know him as he went about doing his will. "He that doeth . . . shall know. "He is known to those who seek day by day to do his will."

Whoever will take these three steps will see Jesus.

Finds Letter of Livingstone on Slavery

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, March 12.—An interesting document bearing on David Livingstone has been found during an examination of government house records in Cape Town by Mr. C. Graham Botha, chief archivist of the Union of South Africa. It is an hitherto unheard of letter written and signed by the famous missionary explorer, telling a vivid story of famine, hardship, and slave driving encountered by his party over sixty-eight years ago.

Written in ink on plain blue foolscap the letter reads, in part:

"Elephant Swamp,
"27 January, 1863.

"His excellency the governor of the Cape.

"Sir: In accordance with my instructions to keep you informed respecting my movements, I have to say that we came up this river quickly with the lake steamer in tow and here met with a newly formed bank which has caused a short detention. A messenger from the Oxford and Cambridge mission passing down gives us the sad intelligence that the Rev. Sudamore had been cut off by fever, and the whole country is suffering from famine—the direct result of the slave hunting which has been going on for some time.

"The Zette people instigated one tribe to attack another with guns, to be repaid in slaves. With these Zette people we came into contact, and knowing them perfectly took the captives from them. The slave hunting continuing, many fled to the river Shire to place that between them and their enemies. Famine followed, and many, dispirited by want, sold themselves or were sold by others into slavery.

"An officer at the mouth of the Shire told us that he seized a canoe laden with gunpowder, arms, wines, and spirits going up to Marianno in name of the missionaries! And the ruffians who supply these to this rebel have been telling the governor of Quellemane that the missionaries and we bring in all sorts of things by Kongone.

"Marianno was guest last year at the governor's table after undergoing punishment for some forty murders, and attacking the village of Senna. He then ran away and the governor ran after him, and, of course, could not catch him."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Exchanging Parsnip Opinions

A co-worker had invited me to her home for dinner and I wished to make a good impression, as she was one of the most influential persons in the place. On the way, she asked if there was anything I did not like, and I announced that I liked about everything except parsnips. I enlarged upon my dislike for them and said that at my home they were eaten only by the poor and lazy, because the parsnips could stay in the ground until spring and be dug as needed.

When I had finished my tirade she remarked that she was sorry, but parsnips were to make one of the main dishes of the coming meal.

MISS FRANCES ETHEL WRIGHT.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles G. Wright of 825 Davis street, Evanston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Ethel, to Robert W. Breckenridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Breckenridge of Cleveland, O. The wedding will take place in the early summer.

'OLD HICKORY'S' SABER AND SWORD OFFERED FOR SALE IN PARIS

PARIS, March 12.—(AP)—A saber and a sword that once belonged to President Andrew Jackson are for sale. The weapons were on exhibition at the French army museum, but were acquired by a private firm. One of the firm's members purposes to sail for the United States if he does not find a purchaser on th's side.

"Old Hickory" got the saber from the American government itself. Its guard is in gilded bronze of acanthus leaf design and the scabbard is of sterling silver. Paul Revere and a frontier trapper figure among the decorations on it, and an inscription, in French, reads:

"Honor and glory to Gen. Andrew Jackson, conqueror of the English, pacifier of the Indians, installer of liberty, July 1817-July, 1837."

The sword has a hilt in gilded bronze and mother-of-pearl, decorated with an eagle's head and the figure of a redskin. It was presented to the victor of New Orleans by the officers who fought under him at Horseshoe Bend, Ala.

Charity Dress Sale Brings Crowd of Women, 5 Cops

Five policeman attended a bargain sale of society's unwanted clothing yesterday, but not to buy. They were there to keep order among some 1,500 women who were making every effort to divide among themselves 395 dresses, 150 pairs of shoes and 80 hats. The bargain sale was managed by the Junior league in a small salesroom at 337 North Michigan avenue, and the proceeds will go to charity. Among the Junior league salesgirls were Ghita Watson, Leila Withers, Barbara and Dorothy Senn.

Divorce Harms Education of Children, So Dean Says

New York, March 12.—(AP)—Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton believes divorced parents make Jack a dull boy. Speaking to a meeting of parents in Brooklyn last night, he said the scholastic records of children from sundered homes are much inferior to those of pupils whose parents are happily married.

Off-White Shades Favored by Couturiers

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Ivory, pale beige and pale pink are offering a serious competition to pure white in the Parish fashions of the moment and I have it on good authority that these pale tints will be more and more worn in the spring and summer both for sports costumes and for evening gowns. Ivory evening gowns of satin, crêpe or mousseline are often accented by dark accessories in such shades as myrtle green, dark brown or corbeau blue and these color contrasts are extremely distinguished.

Lelong designed the ivory evening frock, sketched today, for Miss Grace Moore. It's in thick matte crêpe georgette. The majority of its style interest is concentrated in the back in the manner that can only be achieved by Lelong. The front panel of the skirt is cut in one with the tight hip yoke and with the back [such as there is of it] of the bodice. Curved cuts at the sides give a slightly upward movement in back. The lower skirt is circular and voluminous in the latest approved evening style.

The bodice is cut like a back-to-front bolero that grows into two long, slender panels in back that are gracefully looped at the waistline, the hipline and the hemline. A huge flower of dark brown velvet marks the waist level and the end of the back decollete. You know, by the way, that it is smart to wear your corsage flower in back, this season. The slippers are dark brown velvet to match.

To Talk on Mexico.

An exhibition tea will be given this afternoon at the Hoosier Art gallery at 211 West Wacker drive. Senor Adolpho G. Dominguez, vice-consul for Mexico, will speak on "The Art Background of Mexico" and Charles S. Peterson will tell of Sweden's art contributions to the World's Fair of 1933.

the 80 per centers they miss success by such a little

You see them every day—people who seem to be always on the losing side of things. You cannot call them failures. But they always fall a little short of real success. Why is it?

Often they just can't play or work hard enough and long enough to win! They lack the energy and endurance for that final effort which means success! Not really ill—just under par. They need greater vitality, greater endurance, increased resistance.

This, Squibb Adex Tablets—new cod-liver oil tablets—will supply!

Taken every day, Squibb Adex Tablets promote general well-being. In addition, they help protect under-par people against colds and certain nose and throat troubles.

Squibb Adex Tablets have the power to do this because they are rich in Vitamins A and D—the "building up" factors. (It is these vitamins which have made cod-liver oil a reliable health-builder for many years.)

Each Adex tablet contains as much Vitamin A and D as one-half teaspoonful of Squibb Cod-Liver Oil! Squibb specially protects their vitamin content. Thus they are always beneficial.

If you are discouraged being an 80 per center and want to build resistance, begin now to use Squibb Adex Tablets every day. Stop today at any reliable drug store and ask for Squibb Adex Tablets.

Marry Months Will Follow End of Lent

BY THALIA

We've been figuring up, and there are something like two dozen weddings of social interest to take place between Eastertime and the middle of June. Not all the dates have been set as yet, however.

Miss Jane Pearce is to become the bride of Lucius B. Sherman Jr. on Saturday afternoon, April 4, the wedding to take place at the apartment of Miss Pearce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Pearce of 209 Lake Shore drive, at 5 o'clock, with a reception following immediately.

Miss Ellen Rix of Milwaukee is to be maid of honor for Miss Pearce, and 3 of the 8 bridesmaids, Miss Gertrude Deuter and Miss Elsbeth Deuter, are Milwaukee friends also, Miss Lora Schreiner being the other maid. Roger Sherman is to be his brother's best man, and the groomsmen are another brother, Booth Sherman, Philip Shumway, Lawson Adams, and Robert Spiel.

When the bride and groom return from their wedding trip, they'll live in an apartment at 1120 Lake Shore drive.

Trips by Water, by Rail, and Others by Steamer.

Jaunts and junkets . . . Mrs. Sidney Adler and Mrs. David Peck set forth yesterday morning motoring, first to Asheville, then Charleston, and then stopping off for a while at Virginia Hot Springs before returning to Chicago. . . . Mrs. Marvin E. Miner Jr. is in Florida for a sojourn. . . . The Edward M. Adamses and Jean have gone to Belleair for a month and when they return they're going out to Lake Forest for the summer. . . . Mrs. William S. Ennis and her son, George, of 1343 Astor street are to depart on Saturday for Miami, from where they plan to go to Nassau for a visit. . . . The Mitchell D. Follansbees are back from Nassau.

Living to do with the Woman's Symphony orchestra. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Gerhardt F. Meyne are to have a dinner party this evening at their apartment at 1448 Lake Shore drive for Alma Peterson, who is to be soloist of the orchestra's concert at the Goodman Sept Monday night. . . . Mrs. Americus F. Callahan is giving a dinner before the concert. . . . The orchestra and a half dozen singers are to do Mrs. Archibald Freer's 40 minute opera, "Massimilliano, the Court Jester," at a gala concert at the Blackstone theater on Sunday afternoon, April 12.

Calendar notes. . . . Mrs. Patrick Campbell is to give her talk on "Beautiful Speech and the Art of Acting" at the Illinois Women's Athletic club tomorrow afternoon, with Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris making the introductions. . . . Mrs. William G. Hibbard is having a luncheon on Monday in connection with the membership drive of the Cook County League of Women Voters [the league has secured 810 new members to date].

Katrina McCormick Guest at Luncheon in New York.

Affairs . . . Katrina McCormick was one of several young ladies for whom Miss Marion Wharton entertained at luncheon at the St. Regis Luncheon club in New York on Wednesday . . . Barbara Wendell and Elizabeth Chapin, who were bridesmaids for the marriage on Tuesday of Miss Phyllis Ellsworth and Clarence Douglas Dillon in Boston, wore blue organdy dresses with yellow velvet sashes and blue hats trimmed with yellow velvet for the wedding.

Mrs. John Borden, vice chairman of the Arts club reception committee, will be in charge of the tea this afternoon to open exhibitions of the work of Georges Rousault and Matisse, some flower, animal, and still life paintings, and an exhibiton from the Bauhaus at Dessau, Germany. Assisting her will be Mrs. Holbrook Clarke, Miss Anna Lynch, Miss Clara Gilbert, Mrs. Murry Nelson, Mrs. William Hubbard, Mrs. George Woodruff, Mrs. Arthur W. Jerrems Jr., Miss Agnes Foreman, Mrs. William Parsons, Mrs. Louis Boysen, Mrs. H. J. Cunningham, and Mrs. Lithgow Mitchell.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover had a small company at dinner tonight, among the guests being Representative and Mrs. Fred A. Britten of Chicago. President and Mrs. Hoover have as house guests Miss Dyer and Henry Robinson, both of California.

Vice President Curtis, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Lasker at Miami, Fla., will leave there tomorrow for Washington. Mrs. Gann, sister of the Vice President, was joined in their apartment this morning by Mr. Gann, who has been in Norfolk for a week.

The undersecretary of the treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills were dinner hosts tonight.

Mrs. McClure Kelley of Aurora, Ill., is visiting Mr. Kelley's mother, Mrs. William Fitch Kelley, in her Massachusetts avenue home. They will be joined Sunday by Mr. Kelley, who will make a visit here.

John Borden Sells Yacht to Sister; She Plans Trip.

John Borden has sold his yacht, Northern Light, to his sister, Mrs. Zlatko Balokovic [Joyce Borden], and the yacht is being outfitted to take its new owner and her violinist husband on a world cruise. They will set sail in early April, going first to Australia for Mr. Balokovic to fill some concert engagements, and then on around through the Indian ocean and ultimately arriving in the harbor at Nice, France, where they have a villa.

They have been visiting Mrs. Balokovic's mother, Mrs. William Borden, in New York since they arrived in this country recently, and will be in Chicago on Sunday with the John Bordens on their way to Oakland, Cal., where the Northern Light is docked, and from whence they are to sail.

Painter Finds Beauty of the Antarctic

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The world was thrilled by the written report of the success of the Byrd antarctic expedition, and later, when the screen review of that dramatic triumph of persistent courage came to us, the world again was thrilled. Today the beauty and danger and intolerable solitude of the far north where Byrd and his men reached their goal, is graphically shown in paintings by David Paige, on exhibition in the Robert H. Doran galleries, 537 South Michigan boulevard.

Here are paintings which men, women and children should see. It is a page in color of the various events that were the high points of the antarctic adventure. It is more than that. It is a recital of the strange beauties of a land almost unknown. They unroll before you, these romantic spectacles of snow and ice and moon and stars, of cold black waters and rich gleaming skies, and you know that if the gods were with you you, too, might walk in just such splendor.

"Halo, Oct. 9, 1929," shows the three haloes of the sun, a curious sky as romantic as the back drop of some celestial circus stage. "The Rescue" is a tiny boat bringing in a man who has slipped from a breaking ice bank. Beyond the pointed color of sea and boat is a path winding up through snow hills to the camp on the ridge. "Webster's Peak" is a brown mountain drifted in light snow, a beautiful landscape sober and marvelously portrayed. "Bottom of the World" is a flat run of gullied snow plains. You feel the turn of the earth as you plant your feet in imagination on this axis.

The aeroplane that carried the men wings into view, a tiny bird in the huge solitude. "Winging Home Above the Queen Maud Range," and one thrills to the feelings of the men within that crowded cabin. Marvelous in its dark blues and rich depth is the "Midnight Sun in the Antarctic"; like stalactites in a lost cavern the rays ailing down. Beautifully perfect is the "Finding of Amundsen's Cairn at Mount Betty" and a magnificent stretch of country, white crowned with the orange tips of the tent and pointed in its loneliness by the man's figure in the foreground is the "Larry Gould and Party, Foot of Axel Heiberg Glacier."

The black and white portraits of the members of the expedition add interest to the paintings. It is an exhibit that should not be missed and it may be seen through the month.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. House, who have been on a cruise to California through the Panama canal, will return home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Degnon have returned from Nassau, Bahamas, where they passed the greater part of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Brenton Welling will sail Saturday on the Paris to visit their daughter, Mrs. Augustus Vander Poel, on the Riviera.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Young will sail on the Britannic on Saturday to pass a month in Nassau, Bahamas.

THE FOOD IS GOOD IN MOSCOW, BUT TRY AND GET IT

It Requires Considerable Running Around.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, Feb. 15.—[By Mail.]—Getting food is a problem that interests every one everywhere, and here with the attendant difficulties in obtaining one's ration, the interest is increased to something of a mania.

For visiting firemen, foreign engineers, the diplomatic corps and outside newspaper corespondents, the Narkomindel gives a card ornamented with a photograph, which entitles the holder to buy reasonable amounts of food at a special state shop.

But it is not so simple as all that. For one must have a book, not of coupons, because supplies are not limited to a certain dole as in the case of the ordinary inhabitants. To get the book one goes first to the address indicated and there finds that the bureau for issuing it has been moved, way out to the edge of town.

Then the Trouble Begins.

Getting an early start next morning, one finds the bureau and for a payment of 35 cents receives the book. It has 150 slips in duplicate for that many orders. As many items as are purchased on each trip are inscribed thereon.

But the book is no good until it is signed and stamped, and that means going to another bureau in a totally different part of town. You can't get into this second office, as it is part of a workers' food shop, and is besieged by a bunch of people jamming their way in whenever a customer emerges.

You have no book for admission to this shop, so you must duck around to a back door, through an alley and the employés' rest rooms to the office, where your book is stamped.

Prices Are Reasonable.

With these formalities completed, you go to Pierovka, 19, and there is the shop. You can get meat, groceries, canned goods, likker, cigarets, candy, bread, cake, butter, milk, cream, fish, and eggs.

Prices are extremely reasonable, too—two dollars and a half for two pounds of fresh caviar, 35 cents for a package of 20 cigarets, 5 cents for a good sized loaf of bread, 60 cents for a pound of butter. The meat was fresh and frozen stiff—they don't need refrigerators here—and was chiefly veal, but there were turkeys and skinny chickens and fat geese and long loops of various denominations of sausage.

Gunman Holds Up Loop Store as Crowds Pass

Unseen by homegoing loop crowds, a robber last evening held up the manager, the clerk and a patron of the Nunn-Bush shoe store at 42 North Dearborn street, herded the three into the basement, and fled with $64. Forrest Gresso of 4145 Broadway, the clerk, was waiting on Robert Bey of Mount Vernon, Ill., when the guaman entered. As Herman Nosler, 3717 North Leavitt street, the manager, advanced, the robber drew a gun. He took $14 from Bey and $50 from the till.

RUSSIA URGED TO BOYCOTT U. S. IN TRADE WAR

MOSCOW, March 12.—(AP)—Retaliative measures, apparently against imports from the United States to Soviet Russia, as approved today by the Sixth All-Union Soviet congress in the form of a resolution, has caused much speculation in political and diplomatic circles in Moscow.

It is felt here the soviet government displeased by certain embargoes on Russian imports to the United States, has been trying recently to shift its industrial orders from America to other countries, especially Germany and England.

While no country was specifically mentioned in the recommendation for retaliatory action on today's resolution, it is generally taken to have been aimed at the United States.

It is understood here an important agreement has been reached by the government and a group of German industrialists who returned to Berlin from here yesterday. The belief is the Germans guaranteed to supply soviet industries with machinery and other goods formerly imported from America.

In some quarters, it is suggested some understanding has been reached between soviet officials and British industrialists which has encouraged the government here.

The congress urged the government to carry forward its policy of international peace and to continue strengthening trade relations with other nations, at the same time recommending that more attention be given the army in view of the "capitalist war threat." Complete collectivization of the farms was urged with elimination of the Kulaks, or rich peasants, as a class.

HE DENIES CHILD IS HIS; WIFE ASKS TO VOID DIVORCE

The question of the paternity of a 4 months' old baby, Weston, son of Mrs. Rosa Chobot, 21 years old, of 627 Groveland Park, was in the foreground when Mrs. Chobot's petition to set aside a divorce was heard yesterday by Circuit Judge Rudolph Desort. Judge Desort took the case under advisement and will rule on it on Saturday morning.

Her former husband, Charles Chobot, 28 years old, 4806 Congress street, a postman, who charges that Weston is not his child, obtained a divorce at a default hearing last May. He testified then that he did not know where his wife was. At the time, Mrs. Chobot said, she was in Pembroke, Ky., visiting her brother, where her husband had sent her. Following her return, she said, she lived with Chobot at the home of his parents for a few days.

Belgium Proposes 6% Cut in Pay of Civil Workers

ANTWERP, Belgium, March 12.—(AP)—Introduction of a bill reducing civil employés' salaries and pensions by 6 per cent, commencing April 17, was decided upon by the government today. Members of the senate and house are expected to reduce their own salaries by 10 per cent to render the public servants' wage cut acceptable. This will be followed by all round industrial salary reductions.

HAWKS BEAT BRUINS, 3-2; GAME ENDS IN FIGHT

GOLDEN GLOVE WINNERS PLAN NEW TRIUMPHS

Organize Team for N. Y. Bouts.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves champions and the boys who are to carry along with them in the battle against New York in Madison Square Garden on the night of March 30 enjoyed a holiday yesterday.

After weeks of training they needed the brief rest which will extend over until Monday. The fighting boys will be mobilized on Sunday afternoon at the Illinois Athletic club, where their training camp will be established, but there will be no work until the following morning when they begin to get ready for the invasion of Madison Square Garden.

The boys from Kid Howard's Arena gymnasium, who won the team trophy after rolling up a record leading total of 16 points, were the honored guests at a tea which the gymnasium proprietor gave for his fighters and their admirers late yesterday afternoon.

Team Trophy Presented.

There was a black eye, a puffed jaw and a cut lip here and there among the guests at the tea party. But there was a mighty ovation for the host of the Arcade gym when Paddy Caserio, the Golden Gloves middleweight champion, presented him with the team trophy for which Caserio and his teammates fought so gallantly.

It was the second team trophy Kid Howard's boys have won in the Golden Gloves competition.

After they were given the word to take a three day vacation before they are asked to report at their training camp it was hard to find any of the Golden Gloves crown wearers. They scattered to the four corners of Chicago and Chicagoland. The coaches of the Chicago team told the boys to forget all about boxing and training during these three days. Then will come eleven days of intensive training before they board a special train on March 27 for the trip to New York.

Face Difficult Choice.

The coaches of the Chicago team last night were in session endeavoring to pick the eight alternates which will round out the Chicago team to full fighting strength of twenty-four. They found it quite a difficult task. The final selections may not be made for a day or two. The best boys who were beaten in the semi-finals, the tournament of champions at the Coliseum, and in the sectional meets were eligible for the eight places among the alternates, and the coaches were endeavoring to round out the strongest team possible to send against New York.

The 20,000 spectators who witnessed the Golden Gloves championship bouts at Chicago Stadium on Wednesday night talked little about anything else as they scattered to their homes and went back to their jobs yesterday.

"Is the Chicago team as powerful as the team which whipped New York a year ago?"

That was the question you could hear everywhere. Most Chicagoans agreed that the Chicago team is up to the standard of the Chicago teams of other years.

Some Decisions Questioned.

There were debates about some of the decisions. The verdict in the heavyweight championship struggle which found John Long, the Gary left hander, the victor over Adam Smith, the Boulevard baker boy, brought most of the controversies. These boys will be seen to meet again and one of them took the other down into the rosin when everybody will agree which is the better fighter. But their presence in New York on the night of March 30, both fighting as members of the TRIBUNE'S team, gives Chicago a point of strength in the heavyweight division.

Scouts from New York who watched the championship combats departed from the east yesterday carrying with them long reports and moving pictures of what happened in the Stadium ring on Wednesday night. Before departing they tried to leave the impression that they don't think much of the Chicago team.

But that's just a New Yorker's way.

BOY SCOUTS IN THE BRAZILIAN JUNGLES

Bob Booker's thrilling new adventure story, "To the Land of the Yahoos," starts in Sunday's Tribune.

Every boy and man will want to take this trip with three Chicago boy scouts to "The Mountains of the Moon." The young heroes of the story undergo experiences that include a jaguar hunt, falling off a South American river steer, shooting rapids, the boom of war drums, and a meeting with mysterious Brazilian Indians.

"To the Land of the Yahoos" will appear in the sport section of The Tribune for ten weeks.

Appling Wins Steady Work as White Sox Shortstop

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 12.—You can take it from that little stick of dynamite, Donie Bush, that there is no longer any reason to be fretful about how shortstop is going to be played in White Sox circles this season.

All winter Mr. Bush, out of sheer necessity, had hoped Luke Appling, a recruit from the Atlanta club, would be able to take care of the assignment. Now Bush admits he has ceased hoping. He is sure the youngster is going to make the grade. He made this bold assertion, at least bold for so cautious a man as Bush, today after he had completed another session with the four men he expects will make up his infield.

He's Mum About First Base.

Bush's optimism about the shortstop problem doesn't extend to first base, however. The manager continues to dodge expressions one way or the other about his supposedly phenomenal front door candidate, Raymond [Rip] Radcliff. Bush prefers to keep quiet until the kid has a real test, which will come when the Sox open their lone series with the Giants.

Bush's willingness to paint himself an optimist in the ase of Appling resulted from the way in which the lad, who hasn't been out of college long enough to entirely forget how they play baseball in those places, adapted himself to the manager's individual tutoring. Appling's greatest fault was to try to hurry every ball hit at him. The result was that he always was off balance. They broke him of the habit by alternating hard and soft hoppers to him. During these lessons Bush, who knows shortstopping better than anything else, stood near the kid and corrected mistakes as they appeared.

Sudden Climb Upset Appling.

Some of Appling's unorthodox ways of defensive play undoubtedly resulted from over anxiety. He was tossed into the big league much more quickly than he ever had expected. The sudden ascension was further complicated by the fact that he himself netted $6,500 by his sale to the Sox. But the accumulation of what, to him, is a fortune, not to mention the prospects of fame, hasn't affected his idea about making good. He's serious about the whole thing and welcomes criticism. He also has an excellent throwing arm, is fast on his feet, and apparently will hit some. So all things considered, Bush probably is entitled to be slightly enthusiastic.

For the time being Bush is not planning on making any shifts in his original infield pick, made up of Radcliff, Cissell, Appling and Kamm. He will use this quartet against the Giants here Saturday and Sunday, and continue to use it on the tour planned for next week when two more affairs with the Giants, one a night game at Houston, will be staged. After these four engagements with McGraw's National leaguers, Bush should be able to judge just about how good or bad his infield is going to be.

Reynolds Seeks Batting Eye.

Outfielder Carl Reynolds, who, after abandoning his holdout rôle, slipped into a Sox uniform for the first time this noon, confined his appearance to batting practice. He had toiled diligently for a couple of weeks with the University of Texas team, and thus got himself into perfect trim physically, but college pitchers aren't the kind that can give major league hitters a workout. That's why Reynolds spent a couple of hours today hitting at men like Lyons, Thomas, Caraway, Braxton, McKain, and a few lesser lights. Reynolds makes no bones about being elated over the choice salary the club finally tendered him.

Bush was grooming Vic Frasier, the silent right hander, as the starter against the Giants Saturday, but the speed ball pitcher turned up with a sore leg today and may have to delay his début until Sunday. If that is necessary, the Saturday start will be given to Tommy Thomas, whose fast ball is back in all its glory.

LUKE APPLING.

Schaaf Meets Loughran in Ring Tonight

New York, March 12.—(AP)—Tommy Loughran, a bit scarred and ageing but still full of fight and ambition, will get another chance tomorrow night to vault back into the front ranks of the heavyweight contenders. He will battle Ernie Schaaf, the barrel chested Bostonian, for ten rounds in Madison Square Garden.

A decisive victory will boost Tommy again into the center of the Sharkeys, Stribilings, Schmelings, and Carneras.

Tommy was up there once, after relinquishing the light heavyweight throne, but Jack Sharkey rapped him so solidly on the temple he suffered a dizzy spell and had to be helped to a seat. Loughran has always blamed that defeat on an effort to put on too much weight too quickly in the effort to qualify as a heavyweight.

He scales about 182 pounds now and seems to have regained most of his former speed and boxing prowess.

There is nothing new about the Loughran-Schaaf show, the warriors having collided on three previous occasions. Ernie, too big and strong for Loughran, won two decisions and lost one. Since then, however, Tommy has improved to such an extent that he is a 6 to 5 favorite to win tomorrow night.

Both Schaaf and Loughran in recent months have outpointed Max Baer, California's newest heavyweight pride, but Tommy's performance was by far the more impressive.

Stanley Poreda, youthful New Jersey sensation, will meet Frankie Cawley, a stablemate of Loughran, in a ten round heavyweight semi-final.

Dempsey Agrees with Ring Critics; Says He's Through

Los Angeles, Cal., March 12.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey came out today with a statement that most ring critics have contended for several years—that as a fighter he is through.

"I have definitely decided to engage in no more fights," the former world's heavyweight champion said. "The old urge for battle is gone. I know that I could never be at my physical best if I fought again, and I feel that I could not justify the ambition of my friends were I to go back."

Dempsey said he had been "on the fence" over the matter for three years and that this statement is final. The financial success of the Manassa Mauler's tour of the country as a referee is believed as much as anything responsible for the announcement.

Canzoneri Will Meet Grogan on March 23

Omaha, Neb., March 12.—(AP)—Tommy Grogan, Omaha lightweight and junior welterweight fighter, will meet Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, in a ten round nantitle bout at Philadelphia on March 23. Grogan agreed to enter the ring four pounds overweight.

Taylor Trunks Vanquish Caledonia in Finals, 33-7

The Taylor Trunks girls basketball team ended its home schedule last night at the Broadway armory, defeating the Caledonia, Ill., quintet, 33 to 7. Dena Shaper scored five field goals for the victors.

CUBS RETURN TO MAINLAND; OPEN ANGELS' SERIES

Squad to Stay Intact for Exhibition Tour.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 12.—The Cubs are in Los Angeles, all set for their arduous exhibition schedule on the mainland of the United States which opens tomorrow at Wrigley field against the Los Angeles Pacific Coast league team.

The squad sailed from Catalina island at 3:45 this afternoon, arrived at Wilmington, the so-called port of Los Angeles, at 6 o'clock, and an hour later was set down at the Biltmore, their new Los Angeles headquarters.

The squad which reported for duty at the start of the training season still is intact, and barring accidents will remain so until the outfit leaves California on April 5.

Manager Hornsby's decision to make no shipments of ball players for a while yet is based on the fact that four exhibition games have been booked for the Goofs on dates when the regulars will be playing, and is in no way traceable to indecision as to who is going to stick around and who is going to depart.

Angels Have First Call.

The Goof schedule therefore is enabling the following to stay with the Cubs before taking up their labors elsewhere: Petty, Herrmann, George Bell, Montague and Nelson, pitchers; Campbell, catcher, and Barton, outfielder.

These departing brethren, with the possible exception of two, will be with the Los Angeles club; at least the Angels will have first call on their services. Only one of these fellows was with the Cubs all last year. Nelson last season won three and lost two for the Cubs. Petty came to the Cubs after the season was half over and showed little of the talent he once possessed.

The voyage of the Cubs across the channel was peaceful, but the weather man refused to let the outfit get off the island with a record of absolutely no rain. He let down a shower at 8:30 this morning. It was an inconsequential demonstration that did not interfere with a light exercise program and served only as a record wrecker.

All in Good Health.

All of the athletes are enjoying the best of health, though some of the pitchers say their arms are still too weak to go more than five innings. This number of innings is all the pitchers will be asked to go for at least two more weeks. Jakie May and Lynn Nelson, who got themselves tangled in an eleven inning intra-club game yesterday, pitched six innings and are the only two throwers on the team who have exceeded five innings of effort in any one game.

Pat Malone probably will start against the Angels tomorrow, but Manager Hornsby has reserved the right to change his mind before game time. Root is slated to pitch the last four innings.

BILL TERRY, GIANT HOLDOUT, COMES TO 1931 TERMS

Memphis, Tenn., March 12.—(AP)—Bill Terry, holdout first baseman of the New York Giants, announced today he has come to terms with the club and will leave here Saturday to report at the San Antonio, Tex., training camp.

The big first baseman, leading National league hitter last year and one of the most stubborn holdouts this season, said he reached "a satisfactory agreement" with John J. McGraw, Giant manager, by long distance telephone today.

"Everything is O. K. now," he said. "McGraw and I agreed not to say what the terms are."

Last Tuesday Terry reduced his demands for a three year contract at $30,000 a year to a one year contract at $25,000. Charles Stoneham, Giant president, refused and stuck to his offer of $22,000, said to be a $7,000 increase of big Bill's salary last year.

Belting Says Authorities Knew of Hawkeye Athletic Fund

Des Moines, Ia., March 12.—(AP)—Authorities at the University of Iowa knew of loans made to students and this action was a technical violation of Big Ten conference rules, Dr. Paul E. Belting, deposed athletic director of the university, today told the legislative committee investigating Iowa's ouster by the western conference two years ago.

Belting testified that in 1927-'28 the amount of unpaid notes signed by students was between $5,000 and $6,000. Replying to a question, he said President Jessup and other officials at the university knew all about the notes, and also knew they were violating the conference rules.

Denies Encouraging Fund.

Belting said he had not encouraged the loan fund, the existence of which brought Iowa's ouster from the conference in 1929, "and I have had it thrown in my face constantly that I was unpopular because I tried to enforce conference rules."

Belting was asked to tell when he first became aware of the loan fund. He said in 1925 the tuition fees were raised and a year or two later were raised again. He said the explanation was advanced that the plan was to get more money from those who could pay and aid the needy who could not. He said information was obtained when boys were actually in need and that these were to be exempted from paying part of their tuition. The difficulties arose, he said, in that most athletes are poor and needy.

Asked if he had had any trouble with the coaches, Belting said, "I've waited for an opportunity to tell the board of education about the coaching situation. I'm willing to talk privately to the board or the committee and if I can't prove my charges, I'll jump in the river. Don't ask me any more about it."

Stands Up for Ingwersen.

After Iowa lost every conference football game in 1925, Belting said, Jessup told him Burton Ingwersen, football coach, should be discharged.

"'You won't do that as long as I am director,' I told him," Belting said.

The athletic council later voted to retain Ingwersen, Belting, and Dr. Walter Fieseler, medical supervisor.

"I stood by Sam Barry when some of the athletic council wanted him dismissed as basketball coach," Belting said. "At that time Iowa had the best set of coaches in the conference. It doesn't have good coaches now and is not likely to."

The former athletic director continued with a description of the situation in February, 1928, when the university refused to register students whose tuition had not been paid.

"I saw Jessup and he told me I would have to get the money to pay the tuition," he related. "I interpreted this to mean it would have to come from the athletic department, although he might have meant something else.

"I might have resigned and made an issue of the case. I might have made the boys pay, but I am not a tuition collecting agency. I might have gone to the alumni, but I have never asked the alumni for a cent."

He then related that he signed a voucher for about $1,500 and told the university secretary to handle the money through the bank.

Illini Relays Attract Entry of 58 Teams

Champaign, Ill., March 12. — [Special.]—The vanguard of the 58 university and college track squads entered in the University of Illinois indoor relay carnival began to pour in tonight.

The following institutions will compete in the Illini classic Saturday afternoon and night:

Chicago, Indiana, Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, Purdue, Minnesota, Michigan, Northwestern, Wisconsin, Notre Dame, Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, West Virginia, New Mexico, Texas, Kentucky, Marquette, Detroit, College of City of Detroit, North Dakota, Miami, Michigan State, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas State, Iowa State, Drake, Grinnell, Washington [St. Louis], Cornell, Coe, Michigan Normal, Ypsilanti Normal, Loyola [Chicago], Armour institute.

Carleton, Dennison, DePauw, Indiana State Teachers [Terre Haute], Kansas State Teachers [Emporia], Kansas State Teachers [Pittsburg], Ohio Wesleyan, Rose Polytechnic, Western State Teachers [Kalamazoo], Wichita, Westminster, Eastern Illinois Teachers [Charleston], Illinois college, Illinois State Normal, Knox, Lake Forest, McKendree, Millikin, Monmouth, North Central, Bradley.

BUTLER TEAM BARRED

Indianapolis, Ind., March 12.—[Special.]—Butler university's entry for the Illinois relays at Champaign on Saturday has been refused, it was learned here tonight. Butler will not be permitted to participate because it is not a member in good standing of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Herman Phillips, coach of the Butler university track team, talked to George Huff, director of athletics at the University of Illinois, yesterday and Huff said Butler's entry was refused because the Western conference ruled two years ago that schools outside the North Central could not compete with Big Ten schools.

Phillips has been preparing twelve men for the relays.

Butler was removed from the approved list of the North Central association in 1929 for inability to meet the association's administration and endowment policies.

Levinsky's Sister Takes Charge of His Ring Affairs

Mrs. Lena Levi now is sole manager of her brother, King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight. Ray Alvis, who has held a contract for 25 per cent of the King's ring earnings since Mrs. Levi and Al Miller, the King's first big time manager, disagreed, yesterday relinquished his contract. Mrs. Levi's attorney immediately filed a contract for the sister with the Illinois athletic commission.

Several weeks ago the contract under which Miller directed Levinsky was voided when Mrs. Levi presented proof to the commission that the King was a minor when the contract was executed. According to Mrs. Levi, Alvis agreed to purchase 25 per cent of the King's earnings for $5,000. Alvis is said to have paid $2,500 on account. This, Mrs. Levi said last night, she had returned. Mrs. Levi shared equally with Alvis, while the King drew 50 per cent of his earnings.

While dissatisfaction over the $25,000 Alvis paid Tuffy Griffith for his recent fight with Levinsky is supposed to have started dissension between Mrs. Levi and Alvis, she said last night she believed Alvis was sharing some of his profits with Al Miller, another reason for the breakup.

Levinsky's total purse for his bout with Griffith last week was $2,986.40. Of this he received $1,993.30.

Pete Latzo Wins from Sam Weiss in 10 Rounds

NORTH CENTRAL, BIG 10 SKIRMISH NEARS A CLIMAX

Meet Tuesday, Wednesday to Settle Issue.

When the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools meets here next Tuesday and Wednesday, the skirmish with the Western conference over jurisdiction of athletics may reach a climax. The Big Ten recently rebuked the association, which for years has confined itself to educational matters, and charged meddling with affairs that could best be controlled by a smaller group.

Investigate Big Ten.

The North Central association has been investigating members of the Big Ten and in one case the investigators were not received warmly. Access to school records was denied.

A means of penetrating this barrier, it is said, will be discussed at the two day session. That decision will determine what action the Big Ten will take at a meeting in April.

For 35 years the North Central has been functioning as an accrediting agency without attracting attention or notoriety, but of late the association has been taking an active interest in athletic affairs of Big Ten schools. Pressure from the North Central association was a factor in the expulsion of Iowa from the Western conference.

Few Rule Many.

Control of the North Central association has been gradually falling into hands of educators from smaller colleges and the larger institutions are evincing dissatisfaction. There are 279 colleges in the North Central group and about 20 are large schools.

Under present plans, the North Central conference is investigating one-third of these schools each year, which would bring an investigation every three years. Conference schools visited so far are Chicago, Northwestern, Minnesota, and Ohio State.

Begin Big 10 Mat Tourney Here Today

Preliminaries in the Big Ten wrestling championships start at Bartlett gymnasium this afternoon. The first and second rounds will be conducted tonight, with third round matches tomorrow afternoon and the finals tomorrow night.

Capt. Bill Dyer of Chicago, winner of the 145 pound division last year, is the sole defending champion. Dugovite of Michigan, winner of the 175 pound class two years ago, is competing after a year's absence from competition.

Dual meet results have indicated a wealth of contenders in each class, and even the heavyweight division, by far the weakest, has four strong men.

The dual meet championship of the conference was won by Indiana with Illinois finishing in second place. Chicago and Michigan, both second in their respective divisions, did not meet for third place honors.

MACFARLANE AND COX WIN GOLF MEET AT MIAMI

Miami, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Willie Macfarlane scored a single handed triumph today to capture the championship of Miami's classic international four-ball golf matches for himself and Whitty Cox, three up and two to go, from Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, in a scheduled 18 hole playoff of their deadlocked 40 hole final match.

After making a record breaking 30, six under par, for his first nine holes, Willie rested on his oars with Whitty to halve the next five holes, lose one, and halve one to end the match.

The victory was worth $750 each to Macfarlane and Cox. Sarazen and Farrell, failing in their bid through 54 holes to repeat their championship victory of 1924, took $500 each as their runnerup share of the four-ball classic's $5,000 purse.

COUTURE NETS PUCK WITH 20 SECONDS LEFT

Then Battling Starts on Two Fronts.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Chicago Blackhawks defeated the Boston Bruins, 3 to 2, last night in a National Hockey league game which drew 14,000 spectators to the Stadium. The climax occurred 20 seconds before the finish, when Couture streaked down the ice, took a pass from Gottselig, and slammed it into the cage for the winning goal.

Immediately two rousing fist fights broke out in widely separated sections of the arena. Romnes and Barry were out in the center of the ice trading punch for punch with great vigor and relish, while Shore and Somers were taking turns battering each other against the boards.

Teammates Rush to Aid.

Half the Blackhawks and half the Bruins rushed to each center of disturbance, possibly as peacemakers and possibly as reinforcements — nobody made sure. A grand mêlée ensued, and after a measure of order had been restored it was found that Barry had a bad cut on his chin, apparently from a skate. There was no way of determining the owner of the weapon.

The four leading offenders were sent from the ice and the evening's entertainment was terminated with twenty seconds of comparatively peaceful hockey.

From the start of the game the Hawks carried the attack to their opponents and it was their battling spirit which enabled them to tie the score in the last five minutes and win in the closing seconds.

Arbour Scores for Hawks.

At the outset the alertness of Goalie Thompson stopped the Hawks as they skated through for short shots, but after seven minutes of play Wentworth, Somers, and Arbour careened down the ice, flipping the puck like a red hot pancake from one to another. In front of the Boston goal there was one last lightninglike exchange and Arbour slapped the puck into the net.

The Bruins came back with a spirited attack which seemed destined to get nowhere, for time and again their rushes were stopped in the making by the hefty Bostrom or were frustrated at the finish by Goalie Gardiner. But presently there were thrashing sticks at the mouth of the Blackhawk cage. The puck caromed off Beatty's bad and Oliver shot it in to tie the score.

Play Grows Rougher.

Play grew faster and rougher as the second period opened. Barry stole the puck in front of the Blackhawk goal, but Gardiner blocked his attempt. Then Couture and Gottselig charged in a whirlwind attack which failed as Thompson's stick deflected Couture's try. Ingram and Wentworth, in turn, slammed shots at the net from away over by the boards, but again the Boston goalie was on the job.

Then it was the Bruins' turn to rush. Barry stole the puck deep in Blackhawk territory and Hitchman skated in to take a pass. While the Hawks were rushing up to check Hitchman, Barry scored singlehanded and gave the Bruins a 2 to 1 lead.

For two years the Bruins had been trying unsuccessfully to beat the Blackhawks on Chicago ice, and as the third period began it seemed that they were about to do it at last. Wentland of Boston opened up with a reckless dash down the center of the ice. He hurdled the sticks of two Blackhawks and charged on toward the goal. Gardiner was forced to throw himself on his stomach to block the try for goal.

Hawks Fight Back.

As the minutes slipped away the Hawks began a series of furious assaults. There were wild pileups, and two men on each side went to the penalty box. Adams stole the puck ten feet in front of the Boston goal, but his attempt to tie the score failed as Thompson caught the rubber disk on the tip of his skate.

Wentworth, Adams, and March kept charging madly down the ice. Spares were rushed in, and, with five minutes to play, Gottselig skidded up to the net, took a pass from Couture, and scored, making it Blackhawks 3, Bruins 2.

Then those last last breathless minutes, with Couture winning the game in the closing seconds.

It was announced that the game with Toronto Maple Leafs, which the Hawks had scheduled for the Stadium Sunday afternoon, will be played in the evening instead.

MAROONS DEFEAT CANADIENS, 3-0, FOR FIRST TIME

Goalie Hainsworth Has Bad Evening.

MONTREAL, Que., March 12.—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons scored an upset tonight as they downed their local National Hockey league rivals, Les Canadiens, 3 to 0, in the final intracity battle of the season. The triumph in the fast game was their first of the season over the Flying Frenchmen and enabled the Maroons to hold third place in the Canadian division.

There was no letup in the speed until late in the third period, although each team was short a star player. Howie Morenz, Canadien speedster, and Hooley Smith of the Maroons were absent.

BIRD DOG DAYS BEGIN MARCH 21 AT SENECA CLUB

BY BOB BECKER.

A large group of pointers and setters will romp through the fields of Chicagoland the end of this month when the spring trials of the Chicagoland Field Trail association are held on the grounds of the Seneca Hunt club near Seneca, Ill.

H. S. Van Denburgh, secretary of the club, announces that drawings will be made the evening of March 20 and the first brace of dogs will be put down the following morning. Added interest is given to the trials this spring because the North Indiana club will join the Chicagoland organization in this trial.

Entries Invited.

Both of these clubs invite owners of trained bird dogs to enter their charges in this series of contests. Other sportsmen in the middle west are invited to come to the trials and watch the fast stepping setters and pointers show their tricks on birds.

Ray Smith, one of the leading handlers on the southern circuit, will bring his string of dogs to Seneca. Smith has been campaigning Citation and Speed Queen Rowdy, owned by a Chicago dog enthusiast, F. H. Farnsworth. Bogs Spectre Lad, winner of second place in the 27th American Field futurity, and Exspectre, a prominent Derby winner of the season, also will be run in the trials. These dogs are setters.

E. E. Downes, who campaigns the dogs belonging to the Seneca Hunt club, has entered Oriel Sky Hi, property of C. E. Cooke of Chicago. He is a winning son of the famous champion Nugym. This classy performer placed third in the Southwestern club trials held last fall at Vinita, Okla.

Reigh Count Contender.

Reigh Count (a setter, not the horse of that name), which has placed five times in six starts in open competition, is another good dog which sportsmen will see in action at these trials.

Thatcher A. Parker of St. Louis and W. B. Spears of Chicago have been selected as judges of the open stakes and Harry Decker of Winnemac, Ind., will assist in the amateur events.

Chicago sportsmen who wish to drive to the field trial grounds at Seneca can reach it easily over route 4 to Joliet and then route 7 to Seneca.

FREEMAN HEADS COLISEUM FIGHT SCHEDULE FRIDAY

Tommy Freeman, welterweight champion of the world, will head a boxing card at the Coliseum next Friday night, it was announced yesterday by Matchmaker Jim Mullen.

Freeman's foe will be named today and will be the best 150 pounder Mullen can dig up in these parts. It will be an overweight match, probably, as Freeman is defending his title against Young Jack Thompson at Cleveland in April. Freeman won the championship last fall from Thompson after the colored boy took it away from Jackie Fields.

Mullen yesterday closed one ten round match for his card and will complete the rest of the bill today. He signed My Sullivan, St. Paul Irishman, to battle Chuck Heffner of Denver, who has whipped practically everybody in the mile high country.

Battling Bozo was anxious to appear on the card, but dates at Moline and New York prevented. Eddie Shea and Bud Taylor consented to box, but both wanted another date.

Mullen will stage fights indoors until the weather warms up. He will have a large open air arena on the west side, an option on one of the big league ball parks and a large indoor arena on the north side.

South End K. of C. Teams Play North Division

Two games tonight in the round robin series between the south end and northwest division winners in the Knights of Columbus Basketball league will precede Sunday's final preliminary contests in the closest race staged by the circuit in its 16 years of existance. Tonight's games will be played at Fenger High school and will bring San Salvador against Santa Maria and Washington against Lafayette.

Sears-Roebuck Y. M. C. A. Runners Meet Evanston

Steve and Frank Siszlak, stars of the Sears-Roebuck Y. M. C. A. track team, will lead the squad against Evanston Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night at the former's gymnasium. Eight events are scheduled in the senior division. One hundred will compete in the six intermediate events.

Milwaukee Boxers Fight Tonight at Rainbo Fronton

Eight Milwaukee fighters will meet Chicago amateur boxers at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, tonight. Frank Knauer, welterweight; Max Maker, bantamweight, and Walter Cappel, hard hitting heavyweight, will be among the invading battlers.

Outsiders Win Five Events at St. John's

New York, March 12.—(AP)—For the second consecutive day favorites fell by the wayside at St. John's Park, Florida, as the outsiders scored in five of seven events today. Public choices failed to get into the winner's column until Mrs. A. E. Van Ree's Perkins won the Hotel George Washington purse, fifth on the program. Birdie Wrack gave the favorite players a little more enjoyment by accounting for the sixth race.

J. T. Ireland's Da Vinci headed the long shot winners, taking the second race and paying $19.80 for $2. Next in line came the Forest Cove stable's Butter Beans, 5 to 1 winner of the juvenile event, which opened the program.

J. C. Ellis' Playfellow's Dream again was the choice to take the feature event, the Bayard claiming purse, but finished third to Spectacular and Bounding Deep after being given a poor ride by Tommy Malley.

Returning to the winning column after four straight defeats, L. Harris' three year old, Englewood, accounted for the mile and 70 yard feature for a field of mediocre platers at Jefferson Park. Despite her recent poor showings, the filly was made the odds-on favorite at 80 cents on the dollar. She nosed out Believe It or Not, an E. R. Bradley castoff racing for Mrs. J. H. Buscher. Four lengths back in third position trailed Chilly Flight from the Jones Stock farm.

Veriyn Smith and J. Longdon divided riding honors on a program void of a feature race at Oriental Park, Havana.

MAJESTICS PLAY GOLDES.

Two old rivals will clash tonight at the West Side clubhouse, 4711 West Madison street, when the Majestics and the Golden basketball teams play.

Joliet Whips St. Ignatius Five, 15 to 10

De La Salle of Joliet, which finished its league schedule with seven victories and tied St. Ignatius heavyweights for the south sectional championship of the Catholic league, last night took the division title by defeating the west siders in the playoff at White City, 15 to 10.

By winning over St. Ignatius, Joliet will meet St. Mel, north section victor, for the league championship on Saturday. St. Mel closed its season last Friday, triumphing over St. Michael for its 11th victory in its 12 game schedule.

Joliet also will be invited to compete in the National Catholic meet at Loyola March 18. St. Mel has entered. St. Ignatius lights and Loyola will meet for the league championship.

LAKE VIEW WINS, 20-14.

Roosevelt's heavyweight quintet of the north section of the City league, rated as one of the strongest semi-finalists, was defeated by Lake View on the latter's court, 20 to 14. Both teams and Crane of the west division, are tied for the north and west sections title with two victories and one defeat.

Roosevelt led through the first half, taking a 7 to 2 advantage shortly after the game started, but Lake View rallied to tie the score at the intermission, 9 to 9. With Sam Werner leading the attack, the victors took the lead at the third period, 16 to 12. The lineups:

CANADA AIMS MORE TARIFF BOOSTS AT U. S.

Speech Heralds Raises as Parliament Opens.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., March 12.—Further Canadian tariff increases against the United States are heralded in the speech from the throne delivered at the opening of the Canadian parliament today. The "further revision of the tariff," announced in the government document read by Lyman P. Duff, acting chief justice, will be carried out "with but incidental adjustments to the British preference schedule now in force."

This is taken to mean that about $50,000,000 worth of imports into Canada from the United States each year are to be further curtailed. Last September's tariff increases against America, Justice Duff said, have resulted in marked strengthening of Canadian industry.

New Governor General Absent.

The pomp and brilliance of today's parliamentary opening was dimmed by little by the absence in England of Canada's new governor general, the earl of Bessborough.

The tariff, it is indicated, will be the focal point of the 17th parliamentary session. At an emergency session last autumn, textile duties were sharply increased, some iron and steel rates boosted and increases were made in some agricultural schedules.

Besides tariff boosts, the high lights of the speech were:

Impending formation of a new Canadian tariff board; an effort to reduce costs of producing and marketing Canadian wheat crops and provide world markets; a British empire conference to be held in Ottawa this summer and a declaration of the belief that Canada is on the eve of a great wave of prosperity.

No Reference to Seaway.

There was a notable absence of reference to the American-Canadian St. Lawrence seaway project, which, some reports declare, means that the Bennett government is not prepared to go on with it at the present time.

The first fireworks are expected next Monday when party leaders take up the debate on the address in reply to the government's policies.

Today's opening of parliament was featured by the booming of guns and the prancing of cavalry. Justice Duff was surrounded by flashing sabers as he rode to Parliament hill in a glittering pageant.

ONTARIO RAISES RETAIL PRICES OF HARD LIQUOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., March 12.—Increases in the retail price of liquor in government stores to provide an additional $2,500,000 in revenue was announced by Provincial Treasurer Dunlop in his budget speech today. A further imposition of from 10 to 50 cents per bottle on various brands of whisky is expected to provide extra revenue needed to finance unemployment relief works and make up other decreases in receipts.

The new prices are expected to go into effect tomorrow, when Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the liquor control board, will issue the new price list. Word of the pending price boost brought long lines of purchasers to liquor stores until closing hour tonight.

CUT $250,000 OFF 2 YEAR BUDGET AT U. OF ILLINOIS

Legislators Make Visit of Inspection.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Urbana, Ill., March 12.—[Special.]—Arriving here tonight for their biennial inspection of the University of Illinois, 100 members of the general assembly were greeted with an announcement that the institution is asking $250,000 less for operation and maintenance the next two years than it received from the last legislature.

President Harry Woodburn Chase told the assemblymen at a banquet in the woman's building that the budget as approved by the board of trustees this morning totals $11,780,000. The 1929 appropriation was $12,030,000.

The original expectations were that the university would require the same sum this biennium that it received two years ago.

Make Cut of $250,000.

"However," he added, "in view of the present economic conditions and the financial condition of the state, the trustees reconsidered thoroughly the needs of the university for the coming biennium and decided to make a reduction of $250,000 in their request for appropriations."

Tuition will mount to meet the cut, the president announced.

"It was clear to the board," he said, "that unless this decrease is made up in some way it will greatly curtail the university's activities and efficiency. To offset its reduction and to make possible normal steady progress, the board voted a slight increase in student fees effective next September.

Semester Fees Increased.

"The fees for students residing in the state of Illinois will be increased from $25 to $35 per semester and for nonresidents of Illinois an increase from $37.50 to $62.50. Even with the increased fees the University of Illinois still has lower rates than other state universities, such as the University of Michigan, the State University of Iowa and Purdue university."

Approval of an addition to the university of a college of fine and applied arts was announced today by the university trustees.

TEACHER ACCEPTS $20,000 AND ENDS SUIT FOR $100,000

Miss Lois Strader, 33 years old, 522 Surf street, yesterday accepted a settlement of $20,000 and dismissed her suit for $100,000 damages against Fred L. Mills, president of the Mills Novelty company. The suit arose out of injuries suffered by Miss Strader when her automobile was struck by a car driven by Mills at Mannheim and Roosevelt roads.

Three physicians had described Miss Strader's injuries to a jury in Superior Judge Stanton's court when a conference between attorneys resulted in the settlement out of court. Miss Strader charged she was unable to continue as a teacher of physical education at the Wentworth school. Mills lives at 638 Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park.

Ford Co. Faces Anti-Trust Investigation in Louisiana

New Orleans, La., March 12.—(AP)—An executive investigation to determine whether the Ford Motor company and the Universal Credit corporation are operating together in violation of the Louisiana anti-trust laws was begun in the Criminal District court today. Representatives of the attorney general and district attorney attended the inquiry, which is secret. The investigation was authorized by Judge Frank T. Echezabal. Many automobile dealers were summoned for questioning and examination of their records.

Mrs. Lucia Meyers, Mother of Oak Park Official, Dies

Mrs. Lucia Meyers, 75 years old, 1406 North Austin avenue, Oak Park, died yesterday at St. Mary's hospital in Milwaukee of injuries incurred in a fall at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. B. Norton, where she had been visiting for a month. Mrs. Meyers was the widow of John J. Meyers and the mother of Dudley C. Meyers, Oak Park commissioner of public works. Funeral services will be held at the Grace Episcopal church in Oak Park at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

Park Board Closes Case for Removal of Tracks

With the testimony of three technical experts the Lincoln park commission yesterday concluded its evidence before the Illinois commerce commission in an action to force the removal of street car tracks from Lake Shore drive between Chicago avenue and Ohio street. The case was continued to March 26, when attorneys for the Chicago Railways company will present their case.

A. W. LYNCH DIES; FEATURE EDITOR OF EVENING POST

A. W. Lynch, 75 years old, feature editor of the Chicago Evening Post, died yesterday in his apartment in the Hallburton hotel, 6954 Greenview avenue. Mr. Lynch had been a member of the Post editorial staff since 1913 and had been actively engaged in newspaper work for sixty years. He had been in ill health for some time and three weeks ago was forced to leave his disk, the first time in his connection with the paper.

During his newspaper career Mr. Lynch held every position from printer's devil to editor. He started his career with the Dubuque Telegraph in 1870 at a salary of $2.50 a week. In four years he was city editor. He went to work in Chicago for the Associated Press in 1907 and joined the staff of the Post in 1913.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy R. Meyers, and a son, W. J. Lynch. Private services will be held today in the funeral chapel at 6959 North Clark street. Interment will be in Graceland cemetery.

ALDERMEN PLAN STUDY TO UNIFY TRAFFIC RULES

An extensive study of one way streets, unified traffic regulations, and accident prevention will be made by the city council committee on traffic regulation and public safety, Ald. John A. Massen [48th], committee chairman, announced yesterday upon his return to Chicago from a study of conditions in New York.

"About a mile and a half of the elevated highway has been completed in New York and is in operation from Canal street to the Holland vehicular tunnel," said Ald. Massen. "The time is coming when Chicago will have to give serious consideration to elevated highways if we are to have rapid movement of traffic from the loop west."

Adoption of unified traffic rules by the city and the park boards is another subject that will receive consideration from the committee, Ald. Massen said. Creation of an accident prevention bureau also will be studied.

Rites to Be Held in East for Charles S. Knight Jr.

Funeral services for Charles Stanford Knight Jr., 66 years old, well known in electrical and industrial circles, who died on Wednesday in El Paso, Tex., will be held on Monday in Worcester, Mass., his former home. Mr. Knight was a sales manager of the American Steel and Wire company and lived with his family at 3750 Sheridan road. Surviving him are his widow, Mary; a son, Earle; a sister, Mrs. Bertha K. Landes, first and only woman mayor of Seattle, and another sister, Mrs. David Starr Jordan, wife of the chancellor emeritus of Leland Stanford university. He was a brother of the late Rear Admiral Austin M. Knight.

MILAN, Italy, March 12.—(AP)—Adolfo Wildt, Italian sculptor, died today.

TOY BALLOON FLIES FROM U. S. TO ALASKA TO STIR UP ROMANCE

Omaha, Neb., March 12.—(AP)—A toy baloon released after a dinner party here last November today returned home in the form of a marriage proposal to Mrs. Robert Tunberg, the sender, from a miner in Fairbanks, Alaska.

The balloon was found by Henry H. Prentice, the miner, early in February, in a gulch "above my claim about 56 miles from here, up in the Nanook region," he writes. Each balloon carried a card with the name and address of the sender.

"We were out of fresh meat and I tracked a bear up the canyon and finally dropped him on a high ledge 50 or 60 feet up the side," wrote Prentice. "It sure was tough getting to him, but I made it. On the way up I found the balloon."

His proposal followed in the next paragraph.

"You don't happen to be single and unattached, white and 21, willing to cook the grub for a couple of lonesome old batches away up here in no man's country?" the miner asked.

MSGR. M'DONNELL DIES; PASTOR OF ST. MEL'S CHURCH

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. P. J. McDonnell, pastor of St. Mel's Roman Catholic church for forty-eight years, died early this morning at St. Ann's hospital, where he had been under treatment for the last three weeks.

Msgr. McDonnell celebrated his golden jubilee as a priest on June 24, 1930. A native of Ireland, he was educated and ordained at All Hallow's college. Soon after his ordination he came to Chicago. He was widely known in Catholic circles through his educational work, for which the pope made him a monsignor and a member of the papal household in 1919.

Until his last illness Msgr. McDonnell was active in the administration of parish affairs. He was about 77 years old.

Developer of Automatic Pistol and Rifle Dies at 83

Alhambra, Cal., March 12.—(AP)—William D. Condit, 83, developer of the Savage automatic pistol, Dupont semi-automatic rifle, and other rapid fire guns, died of paralysis here today. WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pill's. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute

EVANSTON MAY HAVE 3,000 SEAT TALKIE TEMPLE

Deal Waits Sunday Cinema Official O. K.

BY AL CHASE.

If Sabbath cinemas meet the approval of the powers that rule our sedate university suburb to the north, Evanston is to have another gorgeous talkie temple. This was disclosed yesterday during the routine labors of the real estate editor at the county recorder's office in scanning the data supplied him by the ever vigilant James T. Kilcran, map superintendent.

An apparently commonplace sale of fifty-three feet of property by one real estate man to another disclosed, on much investigation in both Chicago and Evanston, the basis of a good story. Here it is: Robert L. Leffingwell, Evanston real estate dealer, has owned for some time the 25x181 at 815 Chicago avenue, Evanston, improved with a two story building containing a store and three flats.

Buys Adjoining Property.

Yesterday he bought the property adjoining it on the north, at 817-819 Chicago avenue, improved with the 700 seat New Main theater. Then Mr. Leffingwell leased the assembled properties, 78x181, for ninety-nine years to H. Edsall Olson, another Evanston realty man who has been operating the movie for some time.

Mr. Olson stated that he will at once enlarge the New Main theater so that it will have between 1,000 and 1,200 seats. Frank Serpico is the architect. Later on, if Sunday movies in Evanston are officially O. K'd., Mr. Olson says he will at once tear down the present building and erect a 3,000 seat playhouse which will equal anything in Chicagoland so far as beauty, convenience and spaciousness are concerned.

There is a garage in the rear of the property just leased and this will be used for the parking of the movie patrons' motors.

"Has Option to Purchase.

The ninety-nine year lease calls for an annual rental of $6,000 from March 3, 1931, to Feb. 28, 1941, and for $6,500 for the balance of the term. Mr. Olson has an option to purchase the two properties under lease at any time prior to March 1, 1936, for $100,000; prior to March 1, 1941, for $110,000, and thereafter at any time for $130,000.

The lease is dated March 6, 1931, and the lessors are named as Robert L. and Harriet B. Leffingwell. Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautman & Levinson and George J. Dreiske were attorneys. The Real Estate corporation was broker.

Honor Winners of Recent Awards for Advertising

Chicago's leading advertisers met at the Hotel La Salle at noon yesterday to honor A. G. Becker & Co., local investment bankers and sponsors of the only Chicago advertising campaign to win national honors in the 1930 Bok award contest recently completed at Harvard university. The meeting, which was arranged by the advertising council of the Chicago Association of Commerce, was not only a testimonial to Joseph J. Levin, advertising manager of the Becker company, but also to Needham, Louis & Brorby, Chicago advertising agency, which laid out the winning advertisement.

Recognition also was given at the meeting to the Byllesby Engineering and Management Corporation of Chicago, one of whose subsidiaries, the Northern States Power company of Minnesota, captured another of the Harvard awards.

G. R. Schaeffer, advertising manager of Marshall Field & Co., one of the two Chicago advertising executives who served with other national publicity authorities on the Harvard jury of awards, was the principal speaker, emphasizing Chicago's constantly growing importance in the creation of new American standards for approaches to the reader consumer.

TRADE UPTURN NOW AT HAND, IS SURVEY'S VIEW

Cites Auto Business as Evidence.

Basing its claim chiefly on the current and recent news from the automobile industry, The Chicago Tribune Survey, in its March issue, voices the belief that the long awaited turn in the business trend has taken place at last.

The Survey points to the encouraging upturn in automobile sales in Chicago during February as evidence of the turn of affairs.

This gain in sales, the Survey believes, presages a revival of buying of other articles. The soldiers' bonus is also cited as a factor which will prove a stimulant to consumer buying. To corroborate these indications is added the expansion in steel activity with mill orders mounting above production.

Cites Previous Upturn.

It goes on to say: "The Survey has felt that the first genuine evidence of a major change in fundamental conditions would be reflected in the automobile industry, just as in 1922, primary impulses of a revival were felt in the building industry.

"Experience suggests to us that the new source of substantial betterment must come in an industry of vast size and wide ramifications. Either the automobile or construction business met that test. Both industries are vast and far reaching in their scope, and their products to a widely distributed and diversified population and both back for their materials to a widely diversified range of industries. But we ruled out the building as an originator of business revival because of the generally ample supply of building facilities and the unfortunate financial condition in which many of the building projects are. It must, therefore, be the automobile industry that would lead the way out."

Plan Construction Trust.

A proposal for renewing construction activities, based on the thesis that financing is the lack and that the demand does exist and is increasing, was outlined by Oscar W. Rosenthal at the meeting of the suburban council of the Real Estate Board of Chicago at the Morrison hotel yesterday.

"The plan has been indorsed by labor, contractors, architects, and industry," said Mr. Rosenthal, who is general president of the Board of Trade Claims, president of the Building Association of Chicago and of the Illinois Builders' league.

"We propose to organize a construction investment trust which will issue shares and be spread over thousands of buildings, so that the failure of any or of a reasonable per cent will not materially affect the status of the trust."

Sees Increasing Need.

The shares, according to the plan, are to be taken up by the contractors, dealers, manufacturers, architects and by labor.

"The situation, under this plan, is directly under the control of those who will benefit when building operations are resumed," Mr. Rosenthal asserted.

He based the opinion that building is needed and that the present cessation is increasing the need upon the fact, he said, that growth in the United States calls for an annual building program of $4,500,000,000.

MANDEL BROS. 13 MONTHS' SALES TOTAL $24,782,825

Mandel Brothers, Inc., Chicago department store, yesterday reported a net loss for the thirteen months ended Jan. 31 of $576,570. This compares with a net profit in the preceding twelve months period of $254,209. The company recently changed its fiscal year which now ended Jan. 31 instead of Dec. 31 as formerly.

Net sales of the company for the thirteen months were $24,782,825 against $25,796,852 in the previous twelve months.

"The report for the year which was one of general economic readjustment, is disappointing, due to causes only too well known," President Edwin Mandel stated. "But certain favorable factors exist. Inventories have been valued $1,396,004 as cost and losses due to commodity price reductions have been absorbed; thus the company is in liquid condition to take immediate advantage of an upward trend in business, which should result in a substantial profit on its operations."

The current position of the company showed improvement. Current assets were $6,502,029 and current liabilities were $1,513,635. There were no bank obligations outstanding, although payments were anticipated on a greater proportion of purchases than in 1929.

Bank of America, Affiliate, Both Reduce Dividends

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 12.—Directors of the Bank of America and Bancamerica-Blair corporation voted today to reduce the quarterly dividends to 75 cents a share, placing the stock on a $3 annual basis, including the declaration by the security affiliate. This compares with the previous rate of $1.12½ a share quarterly, or $4.50 annually.

At the same time directors of the bank set aside in a contingent fund a special reserve of $7,500,000. The bank's capital, surplus and undivided profits after setting up this reserve aggregates more than $69,000,000, it was pointed out.

The board of American International corporation decided today to defer the semi-annual dividend of $1 in cash and 2 per cent in stock on the shares of the company. The asset value of the stock was computed at $22.98 a share.

Brush Explains Action.

Mathew C. Brush, president, told stockholders that due to the requirements of the indenture under which the debentures of the corporation were issued, which provides that the corporation will not make any distribution upon its stock if immediately thereafter its assets after deducting all liabilities other than funded debt would amount to less than 200 per cent of its funded debt. The board deemed it wise to defer dividend action at this time.

The extra dividend on the common stock of Marlin-Rockwell corporation was passed today, the board declaring only the regular quarterly of 50 cents. The company paid $2 extra in the previous quarter, prior to which three payments of 25 cents each were paid.

Denies Pennsy Rumor.

Following the action of the board of New York Central railroad yesterday, when a cut in the dividend rate to $6 a year was voted, reports concerning the possibility of similar action by the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore and Ohio were heard today.

Reports that directors of the Pennsylvania had discussed the next dividend action were denied today by an official of the company, who said that such reports are "utterly baseless and without foundation."

"There has been no discussion of the next dividend," according to this official, "and the matter will not be taken up until the middle of April. In the meantime all statements and comment as to the dividend may be put down as pure rumors and guess work, and may be denied without reservation."

Novadel-Agene corporation declared a quarterly dividend of $1 on its common, omitting the extra dividend of 25 cents a share paid in each of the three previous quarters.

Omits Payment.

L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriters, Inc., omitted the quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common, but declared the regular $1.75 a share on the preferred.

The meeting of directors of the International Paper and Power corporation scheduled for late yesterday afternoon for action on the preferred dividend was postponed until March 25.

The Skelly Oil company declared the usual 1½ per cent quarterly dividend on preferred stock, payable May 1 to stockholders of record April 1.

Ford Co. Pays 10 Pct.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 12.—The directors of the Ford Motor company of Germany at their annual meeting today approved a 10 per cent dividend and accepted the report as presented. Directors said the company is now doing 25 per cent of all the automobile business in Germany, with sales amounting last year to 13,766 cars. The total is expected to reach 17,000 in the coming year.

INTER. T. & T. SHOWS NET EARNINGS FOR 1930 OF $13,750,133

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 12.—Net income of the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation in 1930 amounted to $13,750,133, equal to $2.07 a share earned on 6,642,508 no par shares outstanding at the end of the year, comparing with $17,732,159, or $3.03 a share earned on 5,858,984 common shares in 1929. A total of 783,524 common shares were issued during 1930.

Gross Revenue was $104,813,954, against $100,340,590 in 1929, the increase being due in part to acquisition of additional properties and in part to gains made by the manufacturing branch of the organization. Operating, selling, and general expenses, taxes and depreciation were $79,115,044, against $72,909,552, due to expansion of operations.

The regular quarterly dividend of 50c a share was declared by the directors today, payable April 15 to stock of record March 20.

The report reveals extraordinary expenditures of $754,425 in 1930 incurred in repairing cable breaks resulting from the Atlantic earthquake, which was charged against surplus.

Allen Says War Payments Contribute to Depression

The war debts and reparation payments constitute huge one sided economic transactions which contribute in untold measure to disturbing the economic structure of the commercial world, Harland H. Allen, economist of the Foreman-State National bank of Chicago, told members of the Illinois Gas association, the Illinois State Electric association, and the Illinois Railway association at their joint annual dinner in Springfield last night.

"In my opinion there is unmistakable connection between these payments and the prolonged world depression. The creditor nations—United States and France—by allowing their imports to exceed their exports for ten years have been disinclined to accept these payments in goods. Hence they have been obliged to receive the payments in gold. That is the principal reason why the world's limited gold supply has been piling up in the United States and France and the gold shortage in other parts of the world has become so pressing as to literally force commodity prices to lower and lower levels."

FIELD, GLORE & CO. REORGANIZES AS PARTNERSHIP

Field, Glore & Co., Chicago investment banking house, has been reorganized as a partnership and is acquiring memberships on the New York and Chicago stock exchanges and an associate membership on the New York Curb. The change in organization is effective Monday.

A Chicago exchange seat was posted yesterday for transfer to Maulsby Forrest, a partner of the firm. Other partners will be Marshall Field III., Charles F. Glore, Allen L. Withers, James H. Douglas Jr., Garrett A. Brownback, Douglas T. Johnston, Milton S. Harrison, Thomas P. Durell, T. Weller Kimball, and J. Russell Forgan. Mr. Forgan, who was formerly associated with Brokaw & Co., is the only new member of the firm.

The firm will not enter the general brokerage business, it was stated, but will do a limited cash commission business. The change was made to facilitate the conduct of the company's investment business, officials stated.

Midland United Reports 1930 Income of $4,444,149

Midland United company yesterday reported 1930 income of $4,444,149 available for dividends on the company's stock. This was equivalent to $1.05 a share on the common stock. This compares with net income for the preceding year of $3,043,596. Consolidated gross income of the company and subsidiaries aggregated $48,193,691, compared with $47,494,818 in 1929. In 1930 53.26 per cent of the subsidiary companies' gross income was derived from sale of electricity. The firm is controlled by the Insull interests and operates in Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, and Illinois.

Department Store Sales Improve During February

Department store sales were slightly larger in February than in January on a daily average basis, according to preliminary figures reported to the federal reserve board. The board's preliminary index, which makes allowance for estimated seasonal movements, advanced from 97 to 98 per cent of the 1923-1925 average, approximately the level maintained during the last half of 1930.

Chicago Stock Trade Slumps as Adverse News Appears

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The "straws in the wind" which are being acclaimed as the heralds of better times ahead have been having some strenuous competition with the batch of adverse dividend and earnings news appearing in the financial pages in the last few days and the battle has been mirrored in the stock market quotations.

Scrutiny reveals that nearly all of the unfavorable news that has come out of the mill recently fits the category of "water over the dam," but its effect has been to temporarily disturb the poise of the bullish speculators. The bulls have hesitated and lost a little ground. Where boundless optimism was present a few days ago there is now reflection and mental uncertainty.

Prices Waste Away.

On the Chicago Stock exchange there has been a very noticeable letup in speculative activity. Trading has dwindled to around the 100,000 share mark as compared with 200,000 and 300,000 only a few days ago. Prices have wasted away from one to three points throughout the list.

Yesterday's trading session was a continuation of this process. The volume of shares dealt in amounted to a bare 110,000 shares and shares of all descriptions eased off from a fraction to a point or more. There were no severe recessions and one or two stocks proved conspicuous exceptions to the general trend, but they were definitely in the minority. It was one of those inactive shares that does well to appear on the tape once a week that furnished the most spectacular performance of the day.

The issue was participating preference stock of the Vorclone corporation which started upward from its previous price of 4 and did not stop until it reached 8½. It was the best price the issue has commanded this year by a wide margin. The Vorclone corporation is engaged in turning out machinery used in laundries, dry cleaning establishments, hospitals and hotels.

In other sections of the list it was a drab story of minus signs and fractions. In rare instances did the losses exceed a point. None of the speculative favorites were able to break rank to achieve anything notable in the way of a price change. Middle West, Insull, Cities Service and U. S. Radio were hemmed within the narrow trading circle.

Earnings reports covering the slack years of 1930 continued to come in yesterday. Several concerns filed statements with the exchange which showed little variation from the general tenor of such reports already made.

Grigsby Reports Loss.

The Grigsby-Grunow company reported that in the first half of its fiscal year ended Nov. 30, last, it sustained a net loss of $358,628 after charges and depreciation. In the corresponding period of the preceding year the company was able to report a net profit of $3,989,717 or $1.19 a share on the outstanding common stock.

A joint meeting of the adjourned stockholders' meetings of the Grigsby-Grunow and Majestic stockholders will be held this afternoon at which the plan of operation under the new financing and management will be outlined.

Lynch corporation earned net profit last year of $171,892 or $2.52 a share on the now par common stock. In 1929 the predecessor company, Lynch Glass Machine company, earned $279,734 or $3.73 a share.

Canadian Pacific Ry. May Issue $50,000,000 Stock

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 12.—Stockholders of Canadian Pacific Railway company will be asked at the annual meeting on May 6 to authorize the issue of $50,000,000 par value of common stock in such amounts and on such terms and at such times as the directors shall determine. The authorized common stock at the end of 1930 totaled $335,000,000, consisting of 13,400,000 shares of $25 par value, all of which was outstanding.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, March 12.—Any advantage the stock market might have received from the bureau of labor report indicating a slight improvement in the employment situation was offset today by a fresh budget of unfavorable earnings reports, dividend cuts and omissions and dissatisfactory copper trade statistics, and so the bears once more went about seeking whom they might devour.

They did not have things entirely their own way, however. Forces working for the advance showed considerable fight at times. They succeeded, in fact, in keeping the market pretty much of a two-sided affair up to the last hour, when the bears capitalized the announcement of the omission of the American International corporation dividends to launch a vicious offensive against the whole list.

The attack caused prices to break quite sharply in some directions, but resistance stiffened anew just before the finish, so that closing figures in a vast majority of cases showed some improvement over the lows of the day. Losses rarely exceeded two points and

FOUR DEFINITE FUNCTIONS OF Life Insurance

WHEN you have purchased life insurance as an isolated asset, you have by no means completed your arrangements. The next and equally important step is to define and harness it to the specific functions it is to perform.

1 If you are without capital, it permits you to buy an estate now . . . and then pay for it in small annual installments. You can protect this estate and project it into the future welfare of your family just as the well-to-do man handles the property he leaves under will . . . placing it in trust and thus removing it from all uncertainty.

2 If you have some money but large family responsibilities, you may instantly increase your estate to an adequate figure through life insurance . . . and then so trustee both your property and your insurance that definite and enduring support is assured your dependents.

3 If you are a person of means, you may save your estate loss and embarrassment by making life insurance available . . . under a trust arrangement . . . for debts, inheritance taxes, and administration costs.

4 If you are a partner or own an interest in a close corporation, you and your associates may now arrange to finance the purchase of each other's interests at death through life insurance in trust . . . thus liquidating the holdings of the deceased member of the firm and keeping the company under the control of the survivors.

Life insurance is an economic force of such obvious value that people buy it as a matter of course. Its general worth, however, should never cloud its specific functions. Practical plans for accomplishing whatever you have in mind for your insurance money are discussed in our booklet, "The Life Insurance Trust and Its Uses."

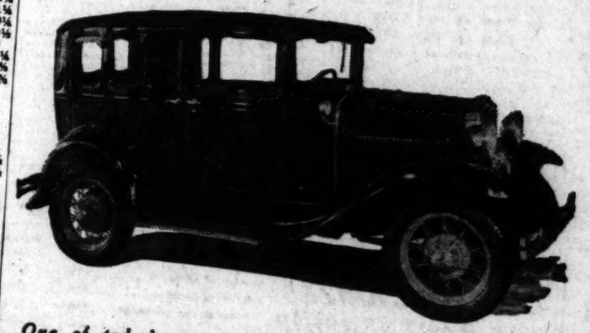
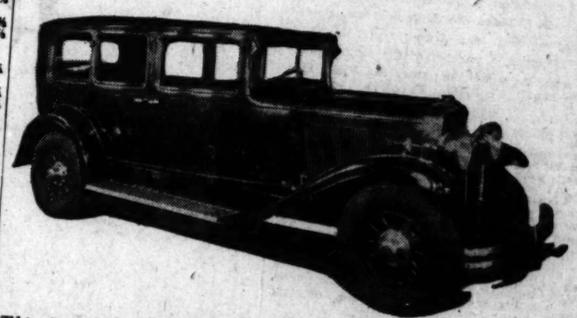
Used Car BARGAINS



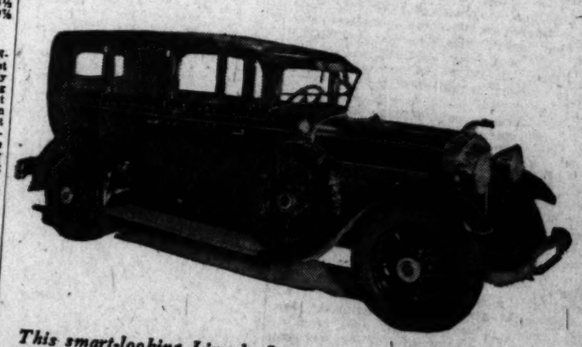
One of today's many attractive buys in the low-price range is this 1930 Ford town sedan, offered by Glenn E. Holmes, Inc. Finished in maroon with red striping, this car has been used as a demonstrator and has run less than 4,000 miles.

$550



This beautiful 1930 La Salle 7-passenger sedan is finished in blue and is equipped with many extras. This car is typical of the many attractive buys described in full in today's Want Ad Section by the Lincoln-Diversey Auto Sales.

$1,785



This smart-looking Lincoln 7-passenger Custom Built limousine has many special appointments, including side mounts and steel drop-center wheels. For complete description of this and many other excellent used car values, consult the advertisement of the Triangle Automobile Co. in today's Want Ad Section.

$2,350

Here is a beautiful Buick 29-27 5-passenger sedan listed in today's Want Ad Section by Charles Lange & Brothers Co. It carries this company's Gold Seal guarantee and is one of the many noteworthy buys offered in today's Want Ad Section.

$750

THIS showing tells only a part of the story—to get the complete picture of what your used car dollars will buy in the present market you have to consult the Chicago Tribune Want Ad Section.

Prices are attractive throughout the entire buying range. From Fords and Chevrolets to Packards and Rolls-Royces, today's used cars are selling at bargain levels.

This favorable buying situation won't last forever. The Spring rush of used car buyers will scarcely result in lower prices. The time to buy a good used car is now, when dealers are willing to make concessions in an effort to clear their stocks to make room for the trade-ins from new-car sales.

If you're considering the purchase of a used car, get busy and save yourself some money by buying it now. Turn to today's Want Ad Section and study the offerings made by reputable dealers and private owners.

Then go to see the cars, make your choice, and mark up a profit in your personal operations ledger!

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 1,000; hogs, 20,000; sheep, 12,000.

Markets for live stock were erratic again on yesterday's session. There was a two way trend in the cattle market when demand centered on sheaper grades at higher prices, while toy kinds were barely steady. Hogs strengthened after a weaker start and closed 5@10c above the general selling the previous day. The lamb market was in a deadlock during the first half of the day and finished steady to 15c lower.

Demand for hogs improved some in midsession, but activity was lacking throughout the day. The extreme top was unchanged at $8.30 and the general average price showed 5c gain at $7.55. Some of the 3,000 left at the close were being held off the market in hopes of further improvement in the market the rest of the week, in spite of the fact that supplies in sight for today are larger than a week ago.

Bids of $7.50 were made on yesterday's "to arrive" market for hogs averaging 210@260 lbs for delivery any day of next week. Light weights for today were bid $8.20 and heavy, and $8.25. April light were offered at $9.00 and bid $8.25, while May light were offered at $8.75 and bid $8.65. September light were bid $8.75 and offered at $9.25. Bids of $8.85 for September heavy were highest on the list.

The range of cattle prices narrowed again. Medium and weighty beef steers were comparatively scarce, but moved slowly at weaker prices, while yearlings and all cheaper grades of steers and butcher stock met good demand at gains of 25@35c. Light heifers show gains of 50@75c compared with a week ago.

Sheep receipts were larger yesterday and packers were quick to take advantage. Salesmen resisted the cut in quotations, resulting in a dull "all day" session, with most of the trading done during the last two hours. Top light weights reached $9.35, while packers bought most lambs at $8.75@9.10. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and steady. Movement from Colorado and Nebraska, where about 1,000,000 lambs are still on feed, is largest of the season, but smaller than at this time in 1930.

Nash May Manufacture Automobiles in Canada

TORONTO, Ont., March 12.—(AP)—Agreement was reached tonight to manufacture in Canada Nash automobiles formerly imported from the United States, Charles W. Nash, president of the Nash Motor company of Kenosha, Wis., and Roy Kerby, president of Durant Motors of Canada, announced. Shareholders of the two concerns will be asked to ratify the agreement.

Under the agreement a new corporation would be organized in Canada to be called Dominion Motors, Ltd., which would acquire all the assets of Durant Motors.

MINORITY HOLDERS OF ALTON ROAD MAKE INTERVENTION PLEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—Minority stockholders of the Chicago and Alton railroad today took to the interstate commerce commission their fight against acquisition by the Baltimore and Ohio, of control of the Alton.

In a petition asking for leave to intervene in the proceedings in which the Baltimore and Ohio is asking the commission to approve its acquisition of control of the Alton property, through the newly organized Alton railroad company, the protective committee, representing holders in excess of 75,000 shares of Alton stock, charge assent of action by the Baltimore and Ohio and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., to obtain the Alton property at far below its real value, at the expense of the Alton holders.

WORLD'S WHEAT MARKET SHOWS SOME STRENGTH

Chicago July Grain Eases Off After Gain.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

There is an undercurrent of firmness in the worlds wheat market and while Chicago eased yesterday after an early bulge that failed to take it out of the range of 1⅛c for July which has prevailed so far this week. Winnipeg and Liverpool advanced fractionally to the best figures since Feb. 26 and closed well toward the high point. No explanation was forthcoming during the day for the strength aboard, although messages from Winnipeg claimed that sentiment there was more bullish.

New crop futures in Chicago advanced around ½c at the start in sympathy with Liverpool, only to weaken toward the last on scattered selling. Part of this was regarded as representing spreading operations with corn, and the finish was ⅜c lower on July at 64¼@64¾c, while September was ¾c higher at 64⅝@64¾c. Buying of September against sales of July by a local operator was a factor in putting the distant delivery to a premium. Old crop months were unchanged to ⅜c lower, with March 79¾c and May 81⅜@81¾c.

Wheat Shipments Decrease.

A sharp reduction in export clearances of wheat from Argentina, with the total for the week estimated at 2,756,000 bu against 4,311,000 bu the previous week and 2,258,000 bu last year had some effect on Liverpool, and it was also felt that the extremely unfavorable weather conditions which prevail over a large part of Europe had stimulated buying. The close there was at the top with net gains of ⅞@1d with July at 66c. Rotterdam gained 2⅛c for the day.

There was apparently little pressure on the Winnipeg wheat market and while the best prices were not maintained the close was ⅛@⅜c higher, with July 62⅝c, or 1⅛c under Chicago. There was some selling there by Chicago interests, but it was readily absorbed, with houses with New York connections on the buying side. The latter were presumably removing hedges against export sales. Foreigners took around 600,000 bu Manitobas during the day. There was little business in domestic hard winters. Buenos Aires closed unchanged to ⅛c lower.

Corn Market Firmer.

The corn trade is paying a little more attention to the peculiar supply and demand condition which prevails this season, with statistics indicating that farmers and others will be forced materially to curtail consumption this season. A summary of the situation made by Bartlett, Frazier Co. was construed as favorable for a higher level of prices and brought in fair buying, but selling on resting orders and against bids checked the advance and the finish was on a fair reaction from the best figures, with the close unchanged to ⅜c higher, March was 62⅛c, May 64⅝@64¾c, July 67⅛c, and September 67@67⅛c at the last. Purchases of 111,000 bu cash corn were made to arrive, including 90,000 bu from other terminals.

March corn at Buenos Aires has developed pronounced congestion and closed 3c higher for the day at 40⅛c, compared with 28⅜c at the low point some weeks ago. Quality of old grain in Argentina is reported as unfit for export and shippers are apparently having trouble in removing hedges. Rotterdam March corn gained 3⅛c for the day and closed at 55¼c.

One of the effects of the sharp advance in corn prices has been to stimulate the European demand for Canadian barley, with rumors that as high as 1,000,000 bu had been taken during the day. This was reflected in an advance of 1⅛@1¼c in the Winnipeg future market with May closing at 29¼c. During the 1929-30 season exports of barley from Canada were only 2,604,000 bu.

GRAIN INTERESTS CONFER ON TIGHT STORAGE SPACE

Storage room for grain is the tightest in years, but no emergency exists, it was reiterated yesterday by Board of Trade directors. Members of the Elevator Terminal association held several meetings during the day with J. M. Chilton of the Stabilization corporation, but in the absence of President and General Manager George S. Milnor, who is in Washington, there were no concrete results.

Elevator men from the different markets who have wheat sold for March and May delivery in Chicago are desirous of reaching an understanding with the Grain Stabilization corporation as regards deliveries of their grain and the removal of their hedges. They want the government to take their grain where it is stored in exchange for their hedges at a profitable differential.

The situation was thoroughly gone over and it was decided to meet next Tuesday, March 17, when Mr. Milnor will be able to attend the conference.

There have been upwards of 1,500,000 bu of cash wheat sold to go to store in Chicago within the last twelve days. It is said that elevator people are desirous of having track delivery, but government officials say that there is, or will be, storage room sufficient to take care of all grain that is brought here. There has been a profit of ⅛@1c bu for the elevator people in sending their grain here for March delivery, it is said, but further business in the southwest has been cut off by an advance in Kansas City cash wheat, so that instead of being 4@4½c under Chicago May track here, it only figures 1½c, Kansas City cash handlers having advanced their price and the government price is also ½c higher.

Sees Wheat Carryover About 275,000,000 Bushels

The carryover of wheat into next season's crop in the United States is about 275,000,000 bu as seen by J. C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board. This is the same as last year. George S. Milnor, general manager of the Grain Stabilization company, is quoted as saying he thinks this figure is too high. In discussing the proposed move to export 35,000,000 bu of wheat store at ports, Mr. Stone said it was desirable to move it out to have the port storage space available and because it was uneconomical to mill it there.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Spreading operations are attracting more attention among traders in all grains and it has become an important factor. More constructive features in the world grain markets lead to hesitancy on the part of traders bearishly inclined. A liberal sized short interest is said to exist in all grains, and the markets show more resistance to bearish news and factors. Strength in Argentine corn and a sharp advance there in the March delivery has thrown the Argentine corn out of line and foreigners have turned to Canadian barley, of which several million bushels have been sold of late.

"So long as the Winnipeg wheat market remains as strong as it is at present, we do not care to sell Chicago wheat short," says S. C. Harris. "In fact, we think a very considerable short interest has been built up in this market and, on purely technical grounds, an upward reaction would not be unexpected. A situation is now developing in Canadian barley, which is being bought by the continent in really impressive volume, the business for the day representing the largest single day's trade in barley in several years. During the entire season of 1929-'30 sales aggregate only 2,000,000 bu for 12 months, while sales for the day were 1,000,000 bu."

Fred Uhlmann of the Uhlmann Grain company differs as to Mr. Stone's estimate on the wheat carryover and believes that it will be about 350,000,000 bu. This, with 150,000,000 bu by Canada, totals 500,000,000 bu.

COTTON IN GOOD RALLY

Cotton had good support yesterday, running into stop orders at times, with shorts fairly good buyers and prices advanced and closed around the top. The close in Chicago was at net gains of 10@11 points on futures, with other markets up 7@11 points. Liverpool was 6@7 points lower with spot sales of 5,000 bales. Spots advanced 10 points, New York being 10.80c, Nov. Orleans 10.50c, Galveston 10.70c, and Houston 10.85c.

World consumption of American cotton for the first half of this season was 6,378,000 bales, and of all cotton 11,164,000 bales. Prices follow:

EGG FUTURES LOWER

Butter market started out higher and for a time the advance was sustained by renewed speculative operations, but selling entered later in the season and the pressure encountered was sufficient for a late dip, although the closing price on March butter was ½c higher for the day. June fresh butter sold off ⅝c on slight pressure. Egg market was a slow affair with net losses of ½@⅝c. Potatoes closed unchanged. Prices follow:
